Class of 2010: A History

Plebe Summer

It all started June 28th, 2006. We were young, scared, and innocent (or...maybe not so much). The class of 2007 thought they were big and tough and smart (Reg Commander forgot to have us stand for the national anthem...Rodney came to the rescue). We survived the last real plebe summer (black flag at 6 am anyone?), did "one round trip," woke up Annapolis every morning, and completed the last PFOREX. We fumbled through counting at PEP (not "aught-ten" and not "one-aught," so just "TEN!" at the top of our lungs). We thought we might all get swept away with the turnover parade tornado, but the only casualties were a couple of covers that our cadre refused to retrieve. We attended an Orioles game and returned drunken salutes, and got the last overnight for Parents' Weekend.

Plebe Year

Then came plebe year. We had the last fall PRT as plebes (Isn't it cheating to count the plebe summer August PRT as the fall?). We only had to go to dinner on Wednesday nights, and Dahlgren Hall was crammed to the gills when we weren't at buffet dinners. We hid civilian clothes to be used for the Halloween party in Halsey Fieldhouse (Is Israel Worth It? Is King Hall Worth It? Is Eighth Wing Worth It? The West Street Walker in the costume contest. Supe and Mrs. Supe in Blue and Golds and monster masks), and got an email from "the supe" regarding Red October ("Dear comrades..."). Our Army week wasn't shut down until the shark chum emerged somewhere in Fifth Battalion, and then we retaliated by throwing flaming white works into Goat Court. Bruce...Eeeee...GROOOOMMMS left and CAPT Klein arrived. We took dance lessons and etiquette class, which served us well at those awesome plebe formals. Spring brought the countdown to Herndon (15th Company photos burning Herndon) and our parents watching us at Sea Trials (and a real recognition ceremony).

Youngster Year

Youngster summer was cruises (they sent half of us on an Australia to Japan trip), the last summer of CSNTS, and long YP trips. Rod left us as Supe, and Jeff arrived, doing away with youngster Friday night liberty, overnights, and weekday liberty while throwing khakis in for good measure. We assumed our role as mentors when the school year arrived and struggled with Statics, Ethics, and fitting civvies under our SDBs so we could undress in parking lots on our way to DC. The Fall PRT was (for once) delayed due to foul weather, and then a few of us travelled to South Bend, Indiana, and watched Navy beat Notre Dame for the first time in 43 years, which resulted in some Souja Boy, crowd surfing, and a miraculous day off school. We went to the Army game in Baltimore, then thanked God that it would be moved back to Philly. The youngster luau required extra kegs and everyone got awesome t-shirts.

Second Class Year

Second class year started off with a bang when LT Lieb lurked inside the EXIT ONLY doors. Our Protraparty was the mildest of the past few years (no marijuana over the border). We learned that Brian Goss is huge, and I'M A SHHHHAARRKK (you're a WH-HHAAALLLEE) from those annoying email forwards. We stacked sandbags preparing for a nonexistent hurricane. CAPT Klunder had shout outs at Friday noon meal—"What I want to offer is..." We agonized over the 40-year and the 10 meter only to have them cancelled at the fateful Forestall. We celebrated the one day off school, something unheard of up to that point (just wait...). Half of our spring parades were cancelled due to rain, and Ring Dance weather cleared just in time for the fireworks (thank god our crest didn't have a bare-chested man).

Firstie Year

The Swine Flu marked the beginning of firstie year, with the squash court lock down (aka district Swine). Our food budget was increased to humane levels, so we feasted on filet mignon and endless crab legs and lobster instead of crabs for once. Our service selection night was memorable (not only for us, but also the hotel guests at the Marriott). We never lost a Commander in Chief's trophy, and pulled out a bowl game win in our last year. The Snowpocolypse threatened to keep us at school over Christmas break, and then made a "perfect storm" when 40 inches covered Annapolis over 2 days (and cancelled classes=shorter intercessionals). Klunderstorm left right before our graduation, marking the entrance of our fourth commandant in as many years. We had our first ever Memorial Ball, and celebrated by wearing civvies (classy, no?). Color parade had a color-mom rather than color girl (oh yeah, and 82 people passed out...). Today's prayer is brought to you by the letter R for Rabbi.

The Mexican Monument covered with just a dusting of snow during one of the blizzards. Altogether the three blizzards added up to almost sixty inches of snow. Submitted by Ivan Dysangco.

Above: The famous Brigade Snowball fight. One day when school was cancelled, a surprising announcement came over the 1MC that the OOW authorized a Brigade Snowball fight, with First Regiment wearing reflective belts as identification. First Regiment won (suspiciously... since the OOW came from First Reg...). Submitted by Josh Ramey.

Right: MIDN 4/C Nancy De Avila Alvarado carries MIDN 4/C Shane Matthew Nolan on Hospital Point. The snow is piled up so high that Alvarado can barely stand straight. Submitted by Nancy De Avila Alvarado.

Snowpocolypse!

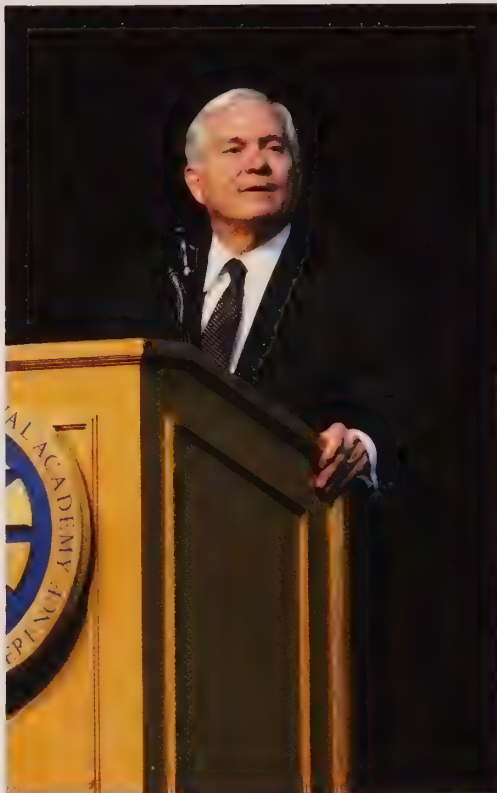

After several years of barely any snow and only one snow day, the Great Snowstorms of 2009-2010 turned USNA into a winter playground. Starting during first semester Finals Week (delaying some midshipmen's travels home) and continuing into February, the Academy and the region received blizzard after blizzard. The result? Lots of great snowpocolypse pictures around the yard (and the first Brigade Snowball fight in T-Court in recent history).

Far Right: MIDN 2/C Adam Waymouth, MIDN 2/C Anthony Hizon, MIDN 3/C Will Appling, and MIDN 3/C Kevin Lees at the prime meridian in Greenwich, England. Submitted by Anthony Hizon.

Spring Break

MIDN 1/C Roarke Baldwin and MIDN 1/C Brandi Gilbert climb Mt. Washington, New Hampshire. The mountain top is at 6288 ft and is all ice/snow. The picture is taken at a point where the grade was 85-90% at the top of the ravine. Submitted by Brandi Gilbert.

MIDN 2/C Brian Quinn, MIDN 2/C Joe Kramer, MIDN 2/C Dylan Parrott, MIDN 3/C Aaron Ingram, MIDN 3/C Andrew Faulk, and MIDN 3/C Brandon Tinkham pose in front of the Statue of Liberty while in New York City, where the Navy Gymnastics team spent spring break. Submitted by Dylan Parrott.

MIDN 1/C Alex Adams, MIDN 4/C Erica Leinmiller, and MIDN 1/C Janell Peske visit to Sugarloaf Mountain in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil during Women's Glee Club spring break performance trip. Submitted by Janell Peske.

Snowboarding and skiing in Mont Tremblant, Canada, is warm enough for shorts-only attire. MIDN 3/C Joe Hanacek, MIDN 3/C Justin Leahy, and MIDN 3/C Chris Krokus brave the slopes. Submitted by Justin Leahy.

One view that most mids never get to see: the cannons that sound the honors salute for the guest reviewing the parade.

The Naval Academy Color guard carries the colors for every parade, and was invited this year to carry the colors for the World Series.

The Brigade stands at attention on Worden Field for the parade to recognize 2/C Parents' Weekend.

Graduation

Right: The Naval Flight Demonstration Team, the Blue Angels, performed during Graduation Week for crowds gathered on the Yard and across the Severn.

Below: 2010 class president MIDN 1/C Robby Battle takes the Oath of Office to become an ensign. Battle also spoke to his classmates on memories of the Academy.

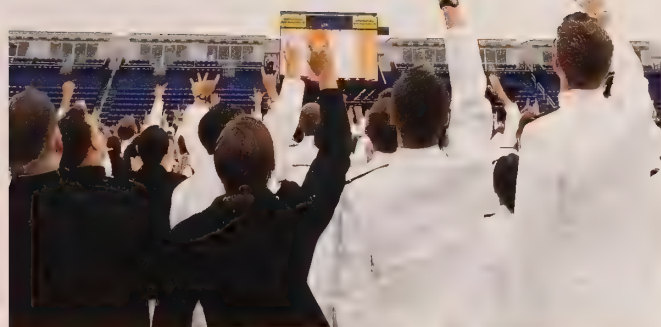

Bottom: The traditional Hat Toss marks the end of graduation as the new ensigns and second lieutenants shed midshipmen covers for the last time.

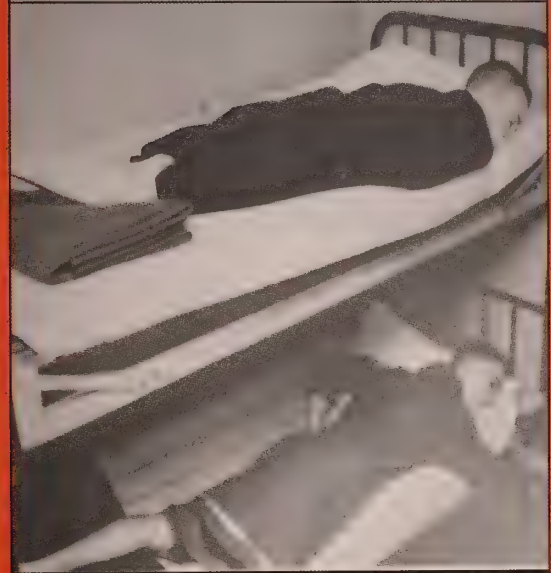

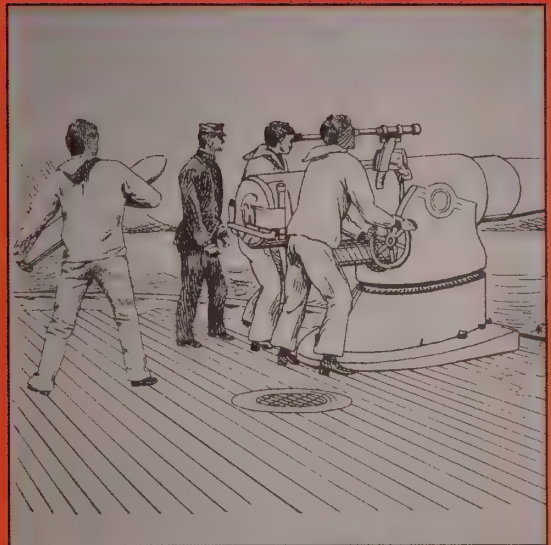

The Blue Angels provide the final fly-over of Graduation Week, at the beginning of the ceremony. The poor weather the night before graduation cleared in time for the ceremony, but left behind unexpected cloud cover -- and many worried firsties who imagined the first indoor graduation since 1987.

Vice President Joe Biden provided remarks, encouraging the new officers to take charge of the battlefield and training opportunities.

Activities

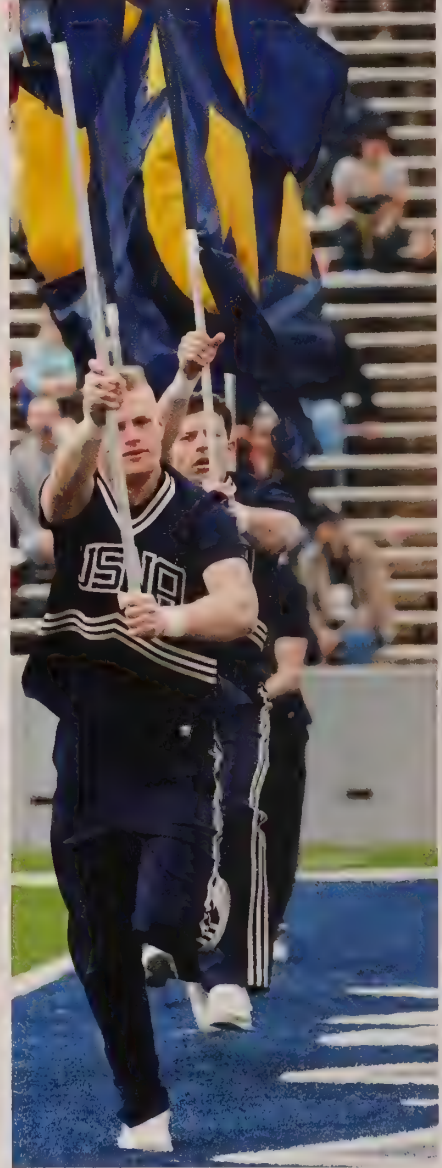

Cheerleading

The Navy Cheerleaders, in addition to motivating the crowd at all football games, basketball games, and pep rallies, practice routines for competition against other teams from across the nation.

The men and women of the cheerleading team perform flips and stunts to entertain visitors at sporting events, and begin practice during the summer to audition new members of the squad.

Gospel Choir

The Gospel Choir travelled to Memphis, Tennessee, and New Orleans, Louisiana, over Spring Break 2010 to perform at various venues and serve as an admissions outreach group. The eighty members of Gospel Choir worked the spread the Gospel and beautiful music during their travels.

Drum & Bugle Corps

At the end of every home football game, the Drum and Bugle Corps formed a familiar anchor and the midshipmen rose for the playing of the traditional service songs. The D&B also performed at the game against the University of Hawaii over Thanksgiving break and during the Texas Bowl where Navy beat Mizzou 35-13 where Navy had possession of the ball more than double the time of the Missouri team.

In 1960, the D&B led the Brigade onto the field for parades much as they still do today -- though the uniform appears to have changed slightly.

Captain Matthew Klunder, Commandant of Midshipmen, presents the Interservice Academy Drum and Bugle Corps Champion trophy to Corps Commander Stephanie Stamm. Navy competed against the Air Force and Coast Guard Drum and Bugle Corps the weekend of the Air Force football game.

Most midshipmen hear Pipes and Drums when they practice in front of Ward Hall, perform in parades, and participate in noon meal formation. Here MIDN 2/C Pat Sullivan pipes during a Thursday noon meal formation.

Drum major MIDN 1/C Chris Romero leads the Pipes and Drums during a parade in Pennsylvania. The Pipes and Drums have gained attention from their television appearances, and small and large cities issued invitations this year for Pipes and Drums to perform in local parades.

Pipes & Drums

The Pipes and Drums pipers, drummers, and Scottish Highland Dancers travelled to the successful football game against Notre Dame. While they were there, they played along with the Notre Dame pipe band on the football sidelines.

Masqueraders

The cast of FORTINBRAS (from left to right) Collin Gri-er, Mark Pfender, Matt Baglini, Melanie Arden, Kyle Hanton, Ryan Mati, Kevin Williams, Mike DiDonato, Sierra Cox, Ben Ball, Kristen Eriksen, John Tanalega, Judy Valderrabano, Michael McPherson, Margot Gates-George.

Ryan Mati and Mark Pfender claim the stage as Horatio and Osric.

In 1960 the Masqueraders performed "Inherit the Wind."

Men's Glee Club

Some of Glee Club's firsties pose in front of the famous Golden Gate Bridge in San Francisco while on Spring Tour in March. This cross-country trip was the biggest event of the year for the club, including multiple concerts and performances

The Sirens perform while on spring tour in Rio de Janeiro. For those of you not up to date on your Greek mythology, Sirens were mystical, magical creatures that lured young sailors to their graves. MIDN 1/C Hillary Ross, MIDN 1/C Veronica Ramos, MIDN 3/C Alicia Gaidry, and MIDN 1/C Tabitha Gant captivated the crowd.

The Stowaways, one of the Women's Glee Club's specialty groups, perform a crowd favorite at the Candelaria Cathedral in Rio de Janeiro. MIDN 3/C Jess Bronson, MIDN 2/C Morgan Baldwin, MIDN 3/C Colleen Fallon, MIDN 1/C Marquette Ried, MIDN 2/C Kaitlyn Bussell, and MIDN 2/C Skye Martin make up the group of talented singers.

Women's Glee Club

The Women's Glee Club at the Brazilian Naval Academy in front of Sugarloaf Mountain. Women's Glee Club travelled to Brazil over Spring Break. As guests of the state, they had 23 Brazilian Secret Service agents assigned to guard them in Rio de Janeiro and Brazilia. While in Brazil they performed at many venues including the Brazilian Naval Academy (where there are no females!). The Glee Club also visited the Christ the Redeemer statue, Copacabana beach, Sugarloaf Mountain, and more Brazilian steakhouses than they could count.

Adventure Racing

Getting from point A to B sometimes requires a little heavy lifting during the 2010 Odyssey Endorphin Fix, "the toughest 2-day Adventure Race in the United States." During the 50-hour race with different phases of trailrunning, mountain biking, and canoeing in a variety of terrain, the teams must use topographical maps and UTM coordinates to reach checkpoints as fast as possible.

MIDN 3/C Ted Murner, MIDN 2/C Austin Rivers, MIDN 3/C Matt Desrosiers consult maps before taking their next move. Team "NAVY AR" placed 13/44 teams overall and 7/22 in the Elite Coed Division.

MIDN 2/c Ryan Yohe and MIDN 3/c David Galluch tour a local government building as a part of the 2009-2010 ALLIES Joint Research Project in Santiago, Chile, where they are accompanied by cadets from USMA and students from Tufts University; The Joint Research Project gives students the opportunity to live and work together in a foreign country, conducting research on issues of international importance.

Students from USNA, USMA, USAFA, USCGA, VMI, Georgetown, Johns Hopkins and Tufts University participate in the first ever Simulation Exercise for Interoperability designed by the Center for Applied Strategic Learning at the National Defense University as a part of the annual ALLIES Intellectual Roundtable.

Over 80 undergraduate and graduate students from 20 different institutions attended and participated in the Third Annual ALLIES Intellectual Roundtable at Annapolis during the last weekend in October, 2009. The Intellectual Roundtable, ALLIES' capstone event, brings together practitioners from the military, civilian government, civil society, and private sector with the academic community—from professors to civilian and military students.

Semper Fi Society

The Semper Fi Society provides training opportunities for midshipmen who wish to service select Marine Corps. In addition to field exercises, mids practice the O Course, the E Course, and the firing range to help train for a future in the Marines. Semper Fi Society also hosted a barbeque and MOS Mixer this year to give mids a better idea of what they would do as a speciality after graduation.

The USNA Ski Team participated in the Allegheny Collegiate Skit Conference Race in Swain, NY. Members of the team took opportunities on the weekends and days off to ski at local mountains in everything from slaloms to combined events.

Team Philo

Riding in the USS PHILO during the march on for the Wake Forest home game, the engine died, stopping the march on. Determined to make it to the stadium the team pushed it the rest of the way. Since the 1970s, Team Philo has shared spirit and tradition. Named after the infamous Philo T. McGriffin and his illustrious pranks at the Academy, it is meant to represent the underground spirit of the Brigade. With the help of the small craft repair department, team members restored the vehicle over the last 3 years. Military and Civilian fans cheer at the sight of the USS PHILO during march ons.

the LOG

the LOG enjoyed its first full year of publication since its revival. The artistic staff (right) and design staff (below) spent all year writing and publishing the only magazine the Brigade can call its own. They spend hours and hours collecting rumors, illustrating zany ideas, and laughing at "their own immense brilliance." In the words of the editor, "People read the LOG in three major places: the head, while on CMOD, and at the Pentagon."

The Trap and Skeet team hosted the Blue and Gold Shoot Out every year where senior officers from the Yard came out to shoot against the team. There was some fierce competition as the team took on took on the likes of CAPT "Mojo" Jones, CDR Drewello, and others.

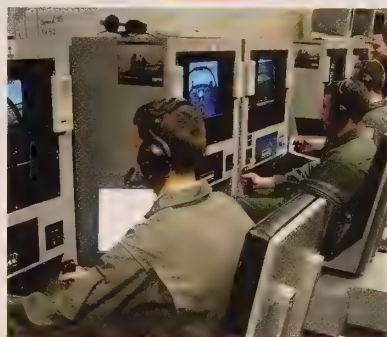

Trap and Skeet

Trident Brass, in addition to performing at special meals in King Hall and various events around the Yard and Annapolis, competed in the Villanova Jazz Festival against nine other bands. Trident Brass won best trombone section, and after the competition was over, the band stayed for the clinic and concert with professionals.

The 2009-2010 season was the Inaugural season for Navy Women's Ice Hockey. Over Valentine Day weekend the team swept IUP and Slippery Rock, winning all three games. The wins held the team at a 4-game winning streak and completely turned around the team. MIDN 3/C Matt Standard managed the team and managed to deal with all the girls (though he almost got left behind in Indiana..).

Offshore Sailing

Intercollegiate Sailing

The intercollegiate Sailing team had a successful year, sailing in both the fall and spring with good results in multiple regattas and hosting several events themselves. Between winning the HWS Intersectional and finishing fourth in the St. Mary's Team Race, the IC Sailing team also hosted the Truxton Umsted Intersectional.

First Battalion Staff

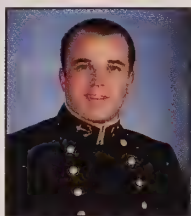

Maj. Mark Liston, Company Officer

AECS (AW/NC) Brad Lewis, SEL

First Company

Robert Battle

Surface Warfare

Robert "Buzzkill" Battle hails from NOVA (2 up, 2 down). A loyal friend, Robby is always willing to listen and give wise insight into your problems. He is the Class President for 2010 and an English major with a gift for articulating his words. Although nicknamed "Buzzkill", he has been known to show off his quirky hidden talents (beat boxing, dance moves, story telling and a wig trick) to an awed audience. His nights often end when the lights come on at Acme, slapping hands with Alabama fans and spitting game at sub-pars'. Good luck in San Dog, Barney.

Kendall Bolt

Surface Warfare

Kendall Bolt, aka the Golden Child, aka Gucci Baby, hails from the great state of California. He embodies all that is man and knows how to bro out with the bros on every occasion possible. A four-year baseball starter that shreds all pitches in all directions of the field with his eyes closed. He will go on to become an amazing officer in the fleet and all future endeavors of therein. The journey has been long but well worth it my friend. OI OI mate, this toast goes to you. Napes. Myled.

Douglas Capra

USMC Ground

Doug loves dogs, knives, fire, buying camping gear but not going camping, video games, breaking everything he touches, leaving the lid off of everything, not going out, knives, Maj., talking way too loud when everyone is sleeping, being PMO, chatting with his girlfriends, to do lists, announcing his cross-fit workout of the day, buying books that he doesn't read, driving his Ford Escape from heterosexuality, trucks, "Douging" everything and every situation, having meals bought and brought to/for him, hanging out with other Capras. Doug does not love things that aren't knives.

Matt Chaves

Surface Warfare

Look for Matt Chaves every weekend shreddin' pow on the slopes of some snow covered mountain or in the dormitories of St. Mary's University. Toolboxes, hammers, and bike parts are Matt's life blood. Dish soap is not food.

He normally keeps to himself but if you piss him off he'll shut off the electricity and headbutt your entire family. When he's not drinking EXTREME amounts of Mountain Dew as he hits sweet jumps on his bike, he can be found in the alley next to ACME.

Matt Clement

Submarine (Nuclear)

Despite his blazing 4.3 40 speed, 325 pound bench press and 40-inch vertical leap, Matt "Ocho-ocho" Clement proved everyone who believed in him at the Academy wrong. The California native was cut from the swim team after Plebe year, posted an impressive resume of 2 conduct offenses, and was an outstanding example of poor uniform, grooming and personal standards. His loud and poorly preformed guitar renditions of "Free Bird" incessant insistence that Kobe didn't do it, and steadfast refusal to accept the fact that he has no chance of ever playing Linebacker for the Chargers, will truly not be missed.

John Close

Navy Pilot

Girls want to be him and certain guys want to be with him. The question surrounding Jake has always been, "How does a guy who was raised by two dads turn out to be such a darn good leader?" Two drinks at the speakeasy and one violent vomiting session later, Jake is left with plenty of time to do homework, making everyone else look bad, while still managing to sleep for 15 hours a day. In conclusion, it's hard to love a kid whose best friend is Julian Scott.

Jonathan Garcia

Surface Warfare

Hailing from Dallas, Andy "Sandy" Garcia proves everything is bigger in Texas. A four year letter winner for Navy Soccer, Andy never quite translated his skill on the field to the social scene. Although a constant source of fun he often found himself in the friend zone. Battling not only the death of a girlfriend, but also a fight with weight, our man almost came up with a good nickname once. His conquests have left his hands bloody with regret. Andy, I can honestly say you're my worst friend.

Robert Gawboy

USMC Ground

Turn off the elevator music, pay attention. Lover of flash games, pink underwear, sugar highs at 3AM and ... was that a velociraptor? How long did he drive your forerunner when it wasn't held together by tape? Stop shooting stuff at your roommates, and where did he find that bouncey ball? Where did his little yellow plush friend go? Mathematical formula of summoning: Candy + Shower = Major. Can an arbitrary countdown change a life? Yes.

Matthew Graham

Surface Warfare

Matt "hide your daughters" Graham is the most interesting person in the world. Remembered for many things: fullness & color of hair, his Jeep Grand Caragraham reflecting his love for America & gullibility of all his Shipmates. Graham is just a cat noise away & a Grahamdana is always within arms reach. Since 1985, when Matt was a teenager, he has been collecting USNA artifacts. Peace conference anyone? As FAGO, Matt planned the best parties and tailgates for 1st Company. Matt's refusal to ask questions, regulation side burns and tendency to stay in on Friday nights will be sorely missed - 3am in VaB - Ramshead - Cacoan, Vegas 1 & 2, away football games, Europe '08 & cooking on the YP. Lots of Living in 4 years with great friends.

Daniel Hanley

Submarine (Nuclear)

Dan Hanley (aka Dan the Man, Danley, Bill the Goat, etc.) is a simple man. He enjoys hitting on women in bars, country music, and the occasional stay at a luxurious hospital and now taking care of drunker classmates than himself.

His extensive USMC knowledge may lead you to believe he's on his way to becoming a hard-charging grunt. However, Dan will be a submariner, the only community that won't criticize him for his underway "escapades" He formed the "finer things club" which ended when everyone realized there are no fine things about Andrew Ventresca. Vote for Bill.

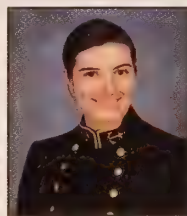

Robert Harned

Surface Warfare

In order to make Bobby clean himself, we had to make it fun by playing children's games with him. We told him that all good Avatars shower every other day. Bobby can't do anything by himself. Wake up Bobby. Bobby's way with women is unique to say the least. His charm comes from his ability to ignore female advances. After all, no girl is hot enough. Bobby is a compulsive liar. He told us in English that he didn't know how to speak English. The bathroom can never be too close for Bobby.

Auden Healey

Navy Pilot

Auden Healey is a truly unique individual, one who challenged everything people thought about her. Whether on the Women's Crew Team, at Catholic Choir Practice, tutoring at the Writing Center, or hanging out with friends in the hall, Auden could be counted on for a smile and a cheerful "Fabulous!" whenever you asked her how she was. The truth is that she really was, and is, fabulous, and there is no doubt that she will continue to amaze at every turn.

First Company - Firsties

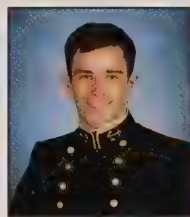

Jesse Twuji

Surface Warfare

I was a varsity football player and also a varsity track runner. Football was my passion here at the Academy. It got me through this place and taught me life lessons that can be applied in many situations, especially pressure situations. I also love cars and auto racing.

Will Kincaid

Submarine (Nuclear)

From day one we have all wondered how someone which such a disproportionately large head, long torso, short limbs, and intellectual handicaps managed to be accepted here. One morning, Will woke up and he was 12 years old. Ten years later, Will woke up and he was 12 years old. Will Kincaid is a mixture of 90s childrens movies, a narcoleptic-Napoleonic complex, White Snakes '87 Tour, and anger.

John Kipper

Navy Pilot

We originally knew him as MIDN Giggles, G-I-G-G-L-E-S, with his Polly Pocket Purse, but after an ill-fated ... Hey Buddy' in Georgetown, we knew we were in for a party. Fudge, Packer? He spent Youngster year eating the brownie and became as useless as... well... but then he got that sponge bath that Tom will never live down. Second-class year went in a blur Partying Turtle and at Pussers last call, with a trip to the Pony in there. Sooooo... let's build a snowman with PS10 during Snowpocalypse. But no matter, we'll be friends as sure as Kilimanjaro rises like Olympus above the Serengeti.

Thomas Madson

Navy Pilot

Tom operates at both extremes, either doing or not doing; he can be found gaming (COD Gen. (Ret.)), sleeping, cycling, Aero...ing, and gaming. Or he isn't doing anything. During Plebe Summer, everyone in 1st company maintained a steady buzz from his mother's rum cake. Remember that time: Tiki Bar opening (unsuccessful), Listerine flavored vodka, bar tending at Elizabeth's wedding, John's khakis at Georgetown, The Pony...or lack there of. "Remember that time your Mom..."

Johanna Mahoney

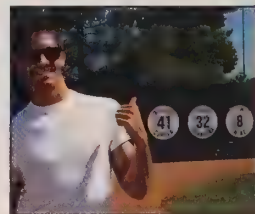

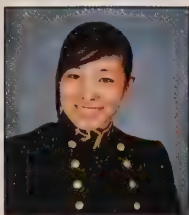

Carl Malmquist

USMC Ground

Welcome to the "Carl Malmquist Show." When he runs out of nonsensical jokes, Carl quickly reverts to poorly executed violence and even poorer hygienic habits. Carl Yale Malmquist the 4th hopes to be in the Corps longer than his father. In other words, about 7 days should do the trick. One woman(s) is all he will ever need. Jeans can never be too tight. Carl, Dave's shirt isn't slim-fit, it's just way too small for you. Let's see where your dumb faces take you when the bullets start flying. Good luck Meghan, he's your problem now.

Weixin Matsuoka

Surface Warfare

Where there's a Will, there's a Wei. (Yes, we will always find weis to add your name) With a glowing Asian personality and hair long enough to sit on, make into a neck tie, or morph into a shower monster, Wei was always an understated four-striper. Princess Weis second romance- behind Napster(s) of course- was D&B. She regularly demonstrated- and updated on xanga- her ability for capturing the creative side of USNA and our adventures here. Especially the times spent tasting all the funky Asian and Hawaiian foods shipped in by her family: li hing mango or wasabi peas anyone? -ALS/WEM

Clifton Kenneth McKenzie IV

USMC Pilot

Clifton Kenneth McKenzie the Fourth AKA 3/C America AKA Terminator. You aren't legally a cyborg? 12 screws, 2 metal plates, and 1 mesh screen can't stop you from the Marine Corps. I am amazed that you make it out of the jungle that is your room every morning.

Maybe it was flying on one of the 5 Star Wars Lego ships. Contrary to popular belief, the back corner of your floor doesn't equal a clothes hanger. Yes you're right, we get it. You are double majoring? When did you do hw? It clearly wasn't between 0700 an... Zzzzz.

Justin Monroe

Other Surface Warfare
Information Warfare

Hey Justin why is my computer doing funny things? Wait, is that my screen on your computer? How did Where did Justin go this time? Oh yeah he is supreme ruler of the Comp Sci department. How did he get that position? He has been hacking computers since he exited the womb. His first word was actually Linux. Hey Justin, check this out: www.imgur.com/x23jah.jpg A 12 pack of Dr. Pepper lasts about 6 minutes. Going to the lab doesn't count as liberty even if you are in civvies. Socks :)

Eric Montgomery

USMC Ground

On August 1st, 2005, my Brother, LCpl. Brian Montgomery, USMC was K.I.A while serving in Iraq. I don't know if I would have come to this institution if that had never happened. What I do know is that every day I spent here was a tribute to him. When I walk across that stage on May 28th, 2010, it won't be only me; I did not earn my commission alone. It will be Brian and I, because it was his inspiration and mentorship that has helped me earn the right to lead Marines. Semper Fidelis to an Always Faithful Marine.

Dan Moorman

Navy Pilot

Dan "G.I. Bro" Moorman came to the Academy with the lofty goal of graduating with a USMC commission, a 4.0 GPA, perfect PRT, wife and jet-black Ford F-250. Unfortunately Dan stepped on the Academy Seal during Plebe Summer and ended up a bachelor Aviator with a 10:29 PRT. Judging by his study habits, no one ever told the Huntingtown, Maryland native that he was an Electrical Engineering major. Dan is like any other college student. He enjoys Zombie-killing video games and purchasing a gun a month. His relentless pursuit of perfection, boyish-good looks and pristine room standards will be missed.

Jeffrey Murdza

USMC Ground

It's been a quick four years. Great friends and fun times... These are the times that won't be forgotten. Thank you to everyone that helped get me through it.

First Company - Firsties

Francisco Ragonese

Supply Corps

Awesome Guy! He is someone you can always trust and count on. He always stayed positive, even when life wasn't the best at the Academy. Frank made his way through the Academy with some unforgettable experiences while never standing a day of restriction. He kept our food tasting good and our finances in check as the Brigade Supply Officer. He is going to be doing some great things in his life. Watch out Donald Trump, Frankie J is taking over!

David Reifenberg

USMC Ground

"You're too small for that school!" is what Mrs. Reifenberg said. Dave is known for his excessive consumption, peeing with his pants at half-mast, and spending his entire loan at Banana Republic. Your uniform looks good, but there's a pile of hair on your desk. Dave is a fan of devil dogs and bull dogs. A free drink from a dude is still a free drink. Dave's favorite pickup line is telling girls that he's bi. In short, a quick fix is always a pinch away, remember the "BERN" and sleeping in plebes rooms is way cheaper than hotels.

Sean Reiter

USMC Pilot

Sean is the dumbest smart guy I know. His goofy demeanor is deceptive. He is God in Solidworks, and even knows sign language for "My stool didn't flush." He's also one of the most selfless people around. I've never witnessed him turn down a request for help, whether it's a thermo lab or some homeless guy peddling skittles for $5 a bag. You'd have to be crazy not to love him.

Jonathan Rix

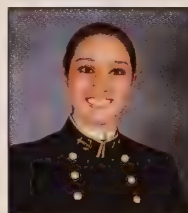

USMC Pilot

Rix is smart...too smart. A mixture of catchy sayings (most of which contain words most people don't know), his moto haircuts, and his ability to wear cardigans and mock turtle necks make him an interesting and entertaining character. This billet hungry, wannabe Texan can be found aptitude fishing at any 0-5 and above gathering. Notable memories: I-Day tears. Ferbie. Pine candles. 26th Company. "Come on man, how much to get these guys ridin'?" Huddle House Cape Girardeau (pansy). Sangria nights in Granada. Cruise ship smuggling. Lessons on hugging. Febreeze.

Scott Ross

Amanda Schoenthaler

Surface Warfare

Shop til you drop Florida girl at heart-SHOES! Dancing until they turned the lights on, 8 min abs, enjoying margaritas, looking fabulous! Pair partner, short-hair bobby pin twin, snowboarding=epic fail, bus buddy with surfboard, bus stop at In-n-Out, Hooters, running late at night, zoo; always leaving broken hearts, playing wife- from Israel to Philmont- Sea Trials and drill, San Diego and back again, friends for a lifetime. Crew star turned field hockey starter, The Artistic Pretzel Eater, movies after Friday practice-SWOTivator through and through. The best sister, roommate, and friend! Love, EMM, WM.

Julian Scott

Surface Warfare

What happens in Africa stays in Africa... except for love, that's for life. Julian is the only person I know since the 4th grade who has been uninvited to someone's house (Ventresca). He can corrupt even the most pure of heart does so daily. Julian should be in prison. One word: Antichrist. Thinks he has been in every situation imaginable. Quote: I would rather have enemies than friends. Enough said. The only redeeming quality of Julian is his mother. Turn your f-ing phone alarm off. Julian is an okay friend.

Karen Smith

Surface Warfare (Nuclear)

Karen's second home is the physical therapy office at USNA. Name a physical problem and she has a chit for it. We know two Karens: Greg Pavone Karen and Post-Greg Pavone Karen. Let's just say Greg Pavone Karen never used booze to retaliate during RV trips to Notre Dame. If you know not from where she hails, look no further than her midriff. Karen is a simple woman, wanting nothing more than to be the center of attention of every single situation, ever. Despite her hard work and triumphant attitude, one thought rings true; somewhere...Greg is disappointed in you.

Ladd Spears

Submarine (Nuclear)

Hudson "Ladd" Spears will be best remembered for his Chewbacca-like body hair, unquenchable Recoup-addiction, purchasing a factory-new Honda Civic, and the hours he spent playing submarine-related video games.

When the Austin, Texas native is not shouting standard commands from his pristine Bravo-condition desk, Ladd is likely to be found over-preparing for a test he claims he will fail, but will actually earn a 95 on, and blow the curve for his classmates. Ladd is well known among friends as an avid firearms, foreign food, sailing and facial hair enthusiast; interests which will serve him well on long, boring submarine mid-watches.

Katherine Titus

Michael Trombitas

USMC Ground

At a whopping 6'5", 220 pounds this Texan can...draw? Yeah that's right, his art will put the pros to shame-plebe boards? No sweat, we've got Trombo(see photo below). From Sailor to Marine, Third Herd to First Company Shipmate, 3 year Whataburger Veteran to 4 year Navy rower-you'll never know what's next for this guy. Graduating, gettin' hitched and then off to rowing practice...all within 24 hours...what won't he try?

Andrew Ventresca

Surface Warfare

Sara Ventresca is natural beauty, and if she wasn't his sister, we wouldn't be friends with Andrew. One of Andrew's favorite pastimes is finding loopholes in the Catholic faith and being the "hero." But I digress... we love Sara. She dated Garcia for a quick time; however, she was unaware of the relationship. Andrew strives to be like his father, Bruno, the Canadian Cannoli Predator. He loves any type of pasta that can be rubbed on his chest hair. He also likes driving on the wrong side of the highway in D.C.

Joshua Archer

Kyle Arneson

Navy Pilot

The hometown hero, Kyle has an insatiable zest for life. His dream of flying jets was always instilled in him by his father, who frequently taught him the value of hard, manual labor. But his hard work was rewarded with frequent house parties that were so good his parents often flew home at 2 am to join in. Always shunning anime and videogames, the homework vulture scavenged from unsuspecting classmates... and the occasional Falcon. In the coming years, you may see Kyle zooming around Pensacola in his latest investment, if he can take it out of the garage.

Curtis Bass

Surface Warfare

Seabass is too loyal and too focused to be losing and be hopeless. Curtis came to the naval academy to pursue an illustrious career in the Naval service, he strives everyday to fulfill the mission of the Naval Academy.

Michael Billings

USMC Ground

Future WWE star, the 2nd Company prophet could always be found lending a helping hand to his classmates while checking their oil. Though no girl is ever good enough, the rear naked choke never ceased to be successful, even while being drafted into the sub-force... the Admiral of which was told by Mike that his community was unworthy. The regular diet of jelly beans and pop propelled the prophet to his status of Intergalactic Wrestling God. Hopefully the Marine Corps will be able to adequately withstand the words and deeds of the Prophet Michael. For He is better than you.

George Bonebright

Surface Warfare Engineering
Duty Option

Hailing from sunny SoCal, Jet-Lag George acclimated to the colder weather by taking to bear-like hibernation all year round. His life time dream of service selecting surf-god was quickly supplanted as he rose from barely signing his 2-for-7s to our fearless company commander. Immediately after puberty, he found that he was well endowed with deep pockets and a sizeable credit limit, which left comparable bills at both Nordstroms and Pussers. San Dieguns anxiously await the return of their prodigal son and profligate bachelor.

Scotlin Bowden

Submarine (Nuclear)

Though his name is not a country, this future bubblehead can often be found cavorting with engaged, tattooed, and pierced foreign nationals much to the delight of his liberal father. Scotlin enjoys cruising Annapolis in his precision-engineered money pit... Which he can start with his key up to 100 yards away! His story-telling is matched only by his punctuality. Speaking of punctuality, can I ask you for a flavor? Will you wake him up for class?

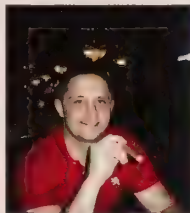

Chaz Brown

Navy Pilot

The Chazmanian-devil left his mark on Annapolis. Successfully lobbying for readmission after a two year vacation bartending as the Alabama Slamma, Chazzle Dazzle fit right in with 2nd Company after bouncing from room to room. He even dated a classmate's sister in an attempt to gain acceptance. Often finding himself traveling in nice cars and nice boats with not so nice women, Chaz answers the Call and never fails to get lost in games that mean nothing at all hours of the night. He is admired for his sly avoidance of the sub draft by way of the Annapolis police.

Myles Butler

Navy NFO

Butman resides in the Butcave. Leaving once a year on the day of his birth, Myles of smyles paints Annapolis red. The other 364 days of the year are dedicated to downloading every movie ever made, side-stepping the IRS, browsing firearms catalogs, and tirelessly searching for the end of the internet. Built like a Panzer, our ATFP f/*hrer storms about Bancroft Hall brandishing his baton and camouflage utilities. Luckily for our Ivan Drago, the Uniform for ATFP is always cammies, because his one set of civvies gets easily soiled.

Kellye Denney

Surface Warfare

The second company sweetheart gives generously to the MAG program and will always help out a friend in need. This is especially astonishing considering her status as head company ginger. Ariel, our resident day walker is a phenomenal driver... you just have to remind her that life is not Grand Theft Auto and you don't get points for hitting pedestrians. Betty Crocker, our physics genius, is slowing learning how to work a microwave. Though she is out of company, she still sleeps in company... just remember to knock in case she is not decent!

Lindsey Duecker

Other Undetermined

Despite being a permanent patient at Bethesda, Lindsey also managed to earn a degree from the Academy. Her tenure in Annapolis was filled with the pursuit of firstie brass, high-altitude ambitions, and tall, dark men. Her blind compassion and unhealthy empathy embolden her as a true leader. Having an eye for nutrition, Lindsey never missed her vegetables. Even with her questionable status in the 2010 draft, the Ringling Brothers have offered her a full-time job of jumping through hoops. Keep an eye out for this cowgirl.

Matthew Duffey

Submarine (Nuclear)

Hailing from the hallowed halls of NMML, our esteemed JigglyDuff will never let you forget how hardened he was by a semester at West Point. From Notre Dame to Hilton Head, "Money Bags" can often be seen splurging on his classmates. Shunning the cries of ruck sacks and the high and tight, Duffmeister decided to grace Rickovers service with his intellectual prowess. He hopes to one day lead our great nation and utilize his vast skills in political science... however, prior to his day of inauguration, this hardened war machine must overcome his weakness for Vodka and marine aviators.

William Fitzgerald

Navy NFO

Fitz, a future Naval Flight Officer, is a trustworthy and genuine friend. His passion for Systems Engineering is surpassed only by his love for all things involving Japanese food, ninjas, and of course robots. You can never hold back a smile whenever you're around Fitz. Best of luck in PCola!

Second Company - Firsties

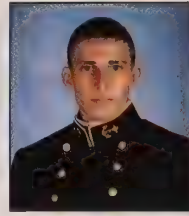

Lauren Gaidry

Navy Pilot

This carrier-bound pigeon has an uncanny knowledge of Disney characters. Following after her hero Peter Pan, Lauren refuses to grow up and yearns to fly... although she may or may not deserve to have a driver's license. Pursued by jungle cats and savages of the Far East, the cookie monster attracted firstie brass like a mid-magneto. She successfully made the leap from Ocean to English... thanks, in part, to the real McCoy. Never seen without a smile, Lauren is thought to be slipping into the early stages of senility. But not to fear, her younger sisters are never far away.

Mark Garcia

Navy NFO

Making, then losing, then making again a small fortune in online poker, our futbolista spends much of his time practicing ventriloquism on the phone... every night. He is currently being drafted by the Mavericks for his rebounding ability. Shying away from PDA, Mark still finds a way show his passion during the week. Claiming to be apart of the 2% club 4 times, what Mark meant was that he would attend 2% of his classes. NFO will be a great fit for him as he has had 4 years of practice flying under the radar.

Nathan Hein

Special Warfare

Turning down a scholarship to Julliard, our resident cheap Irish-Italian opted to pursue a career as an ice clad, whistling, special warrior. A serial get rich quick schemer, never able to quickly get rich, Mike became a pint-size printer pirate preying on unsuspecting roommates. His desire to see the world took Mike to many faraway places, such as Paris, Bangkok, and Tel Aviv. Despite being plagued by hypothermia, incontinence, yellow fever, and napoleon syndrome, you can always rely on this ski-god to share.

Patrick Moecher

USMC Ground

Trotting around the yard on his high horse, our equestrian judge was always readily available for unsolicited advice. Occasionally dismounting for fist pumping, patriotic chants, and colorful remarks, especially while abroad, make Smoecher a catch for fine young ladies.

Steering clear of the dark side and scoffing at the storm troopers, Moper traded in his wet blanket and his flow for a golden saddle, a ruck sack, and a high-and-tight. Though he never quite made his mark on a bottle of Maker's Mark, Trainer Mike would still be proud... but Patrick Moecher is STILL not impressed.

Erin Moss

Navy NFO

Erin Moss once said "Learn the rules so you can break them properly" Gandhi, then took the quote and made it famous. Might've been the other way around, but I'm pretty sure I'm right. While only 5'3" and about as heavy as a backpack, she's really, really, really tough. I know this, she threw a wrench at me once. Also, she likes trees more than all of Greenpeace put together. With her eyes always on the highest mountain, her thirst for adventure and passion for life are almost unmatched. Except maybe by platypuses, they live it up. Sorta. PS, don't drink beer in the basement on Tuesday nights.

Eric Myers

Navy NFO

Eric Myers is undoubtedly one of the most genuine friends I have ever had. He always has a great story to tell and is a fierce competitor in all that he does. After four years of singing in Men's Glee Club together, our tours will always be

Alison Disher

Surface Warfare (Nuclear)

Even the Dark Ages filled with the cold Annapolis wind was always made better with the ever smiling A-dish roaming the hallways in search of a person whose day was subpar. The super bubbly sounds of Alie and her happy persona were infectious and made every day at USNA a little bit better. Whether it was giving advice, taking Cosmo quizzes, watching Sweeney Todd, painting pottery, or going for a run, Alie brought a smile to the faces around her. She may have been small but her impact on 4th Company was larger than life. You glow girl!

Austin Van Olst is probably the only person in Naval Academy history to be a Gunnery Sergeant in the Young Marines and then service select submarines. Anyone who had the pleasure of sailing with Austin knew that he was the best

Andrew Burger

USMC Ground

I have said that Texas is a state of mind, but I think it is more than that. It is a mystique closely approximating a religion"... "Howdy I'm from Texas." Andrew Thomas Burger stands 6'3" and is always willing to talk about home, the real south. Burger was always willing to try anything, training officer, the darkside, deep emotional talks with his roommate's mom, even baby blue VW bugs. "why was the door locked that day", and how he came back from Christmas with his "party britches" for good luck. Navy Football, enough said. Never forget Peter J. Grace. TEXAS!

Alexander Cheij

Special Warfare

How did he get EOD? We don't know either. His continual poor performance on the PRT and his mando attendance to sub-squad, lends itself to the fact that he almost had to enlist to become part of the teams. (EOD that is). 2009 was a great year for Cheij, he was named 2nd team honorable mention for IST and had the dishonor of becoming blood brothers with 2/C McAloon. Always the first to volunteer for a rotary wash, and always the last to leave, he isn't quite skinny enough to fit through that fence behind Warden field. Admirals for Life.

Maya Cuevas

Famous for her hard partying and weekend adventures, Maya Cuevas is always the "fire burning on the dance floor"--it's a disease. She's been known to spot werewolves, keep it SO real on camera, and has even spotted Obama in DTA! Maya hopes to be a future

Bachelorette, but if you're looking for love with her, beware: she's never loved anyone more than her dog Cookie. However, even this hasn't stopped her from sharing taxi cab kisses or committing a fOUl or two. You can find Maya wherever "they got bagels!" unless it's Duke because after all Duke=Puke, MAYAAAA

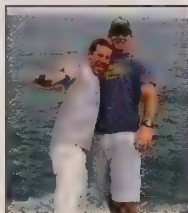

Matthew Davidson

Navy Pilot

Davidson received the only appointment ever given by the Make-A-Wish-Foundation in USNA history. Most people who spend that much time in the ER get a paycheck or a residency. As 5th Company training officer (ret.), his tender leadership touched the fourth class in many ways (allegedly). If your door opens, and you hear feet shuffle in, Matt has probably entered the room. This struggling group 3 major will probably be the class anchor-man. Upon receiving his wings, let's hope Davidson reaches a three-digit-weight before he ties the knot. Admirals for Life.

Jeff Deignan

Navy NFO

Jeff Deignan made his mark early at USNA. If catching a live bat and using it to threaten upper-class for signatures didn't set him apart, creating a voodoo doll of an upper-class certainly did. Jeff's hair, always spiked, made every Gunny's eye twitch as they measured and verified that "yes, it was within regulations." Jeff finally found his niche within ATPF. As a prior he saw its relevance and it provided an alibi while exploring the tunnels. From creating amazing Halloween costumes to his eye cancer named "Bob", Jeff provided a much needed spark of individuality that USNA often lacks.

Tom Flynn

Navy Pilot

5th Company is still waiting for the wardroom to be finished. Born in Scotland, ManBearPig amazingly went undetected for years as the Midnight Groper despite rip-sticking half-naked through the P-ways. Despite his long ambition to be a NFO, he was forced to go Pilot which ended his dreams of following in Gooses footsteps. Being an environmentalist and a meek individual, he decided to purchase a Geo Tracker, equipped with power windows. If you love pickles, mustard, and pretzels, you should come by the 5th company tailgates first semester. He'll turn down a Guinness for a Miller High Life. Admirals for Life.

Jennifer Grijalva

Surface Warfare

Chances are where there's a dance floor you'll find Jen Grijalva. She can be spotted challenging just about anyone to a dance off in her trademark 2/C Winter Working Blues... after all, she's had the longest 2/C year in Naval Academy history. If you're in AC stop by Harrah's pool party... you'll be sure to see her "putting it on" trees and other inanimate objects... it's serious. Whether its sneaking out to Lady GaGa, telling random civilians to run faster, or trying anything once, Jen has learned to laugh at everything... after all she is a senior in college.

Carissa Guthrie

Surface Warfare

Born September 30, 1988 Carissa Jayne Guthrie was cute and chubby. A pro badminton athlete, she came to the Naval Academy to compete at the varsity level. Unfortunately she misread the brochure. After joining the tennis team, she spends most of her time watching tennis, eating, and not reading her English books. As a SWO select, she can also be found slaving over her MO boards in preparation for her tour in Japan, muah.

Jonathan Hagerman

Navy Pilot

Pringles is handicapped in many ways; golf, upper-body strength and game. Always on the hunt at McGarveys, if you can't find him beating up the beat, he probably has a cougar's claws dug firmly into his lats... which are phenomenal. "John Hagerman is small," never quite caught on as a brigade-wide email. After ruining his chances of becoming a submariner, Johnny reluctantly accepted a pilot billet and responsibly celebrated service selection. He made it back to Bancroft under his own power and attended all his classes the next day. Knowing squat about drill paid off his senior year. Admirals for Life.

Kristin Hope

Navy Pilot

We all know that Kristen Hope is from Utah (though we suspect that the reason she mentions the state so often is to assure us it actually exists), but what actually drives her, aside from Irish ale? This red-headed English-majoring aviatrix took Annapolis by storm with her passion for flying and nights out at McGarveys. (Danger Zone, anyone?) Her ultimate plot to infiltrate Japan and make it her own private island fortress is already underway, supported by operations from VT-NA and Women in Aviation. (Undercover, of course. Oorah.)

Steven Kasdan

USMC Ground

For Steven, "Dad," FNG, apparently the second time's the charm! No one knows when Steven first came to the Naval Academy, but he proves that you are never too old to return and finish your degree... or three. He is a product of beautiful Southern California and he will gladly tell you about his old college days hailing the Hills of Westwood! He is a good friend, always smiling, and eager to lend a hand. When you drop the ball, you pick it up and run harder. He will serve the United States Marine Corps with honor and enthusiasm.

Keegan Kinkade

USMC Pilot

So there I was Keegan Randall Kinkade, Alone and Unafraid, quietly insulting the intelligence of my detailers. I was at the point of friction, wearing BCGs and carrying an iron. My mind was not 3000 years old, but my METTT analysis led me to pursue my career next to some girl... what was her name? Guided by a broken moral compass, our toughest little hockey player gave himself one, Kill. How could anyone forget me, I'm short, and the Brigade Commander, and Captain of the hockey team. What now lieutenant? Stir them up with the grooming standard. Racquetball every night.

Andrea Lazzaro

Navy Pilot

Andrea Lazzaro, hailing from far away rural Harwood, MD, Andy's well known as the original midshipman X. He managed in his illustrious time to receive 50 demerits for sleeping in class. Technically, Andy will continue to live with his parents well after graduation. He unfailingly used flying to make frequent trips home for dinner, while managing to get out of everything and be paid for it. Andrea could always be found on leave, managing at least 3 months per summer while being part of the women's lacrosse team when it was convenient or he wanted a date. Peter J. Grace.

Jeffrey Lenar

USMC Ground

Jeff "Heffe" Lenar, a man of mystery, where he goes on his 1 am 3 hour nightly walks with borrowed head phones, and "the killers" blaring is anyone's best guess. Perhaps off debating with Katie Couric, using his best known quote "O'Reilly till I diealy", or out eating at the Japanese buffet, where even the janitorial staff knows him by name: "Godzilla". Wherever this titan is you can bet he is trash talking Burger, and dreaming of a time long ago when the Steelers were playoff material. He is the only person ever to lose 100lbs by switching to Diet Coke.

Sergio Lloret

Navy Pilot

From the Bronx to graduating with an Aero degree, you aren't as dumb as I thought. How many Latinos from the Bronx can do what you did? You're pretty cool cuz you don't act like you're Gods gift to earth, most of the time.

Definitely the most dependable friend one can have. If he knows ONE thing he can crack jokes at, you will NEVER hear the end of it but you know he has your back. I'll always remember the crazy nights with cheap vodka, Patron, and long late night talks with my Nuyoric "Best I ever had" friend.

William McAloon

USMC Ground

Consistently 30 minutes late for everything, including his own birth, Billy MICK-A-LOON eventually graduated from one of Jersey's most prestigious public high schools, Seton Hall Prep. After beating up the beat for a summer, he showed up reluctantly to the Academy, turning down a pro surfing gig in Nica/Costa/Paris and knew immediately that he wanted to be a SWO. Rejected from the Surface, Sub, EOD, and SEAL communities, he was sent to the Marines, where they love Texas convicts. In his free time he can be found enjoying Spaghetti and Meatballs at McGarveys. Admirals for Life.

Evan Messiah

Surface Warfare

Since inducted, Evan "BFD" Messia makes a daily pilgrimage to MacD, where he avoids upper body workouts in order to talk and sculpt his magnificent thighs and calves. A phobia developed as a child, Evan Messiah is afraid of being seen shirtless, due to an incident involving his uncle. After a short tour as CO of his refugee raft, Evan Messiaha arrived in America from the Philippines to pursue his dream of becoming a VBSS Officer. Being the least popular Napster/Mid at school, he's seldom seen on the dance floor with a tan or small v-neck tee. Admirals for Life.

Cameron Moury

USMC Pilot

Hailing from the comforting confines of the not-so-distant Annapolis, Maryland, Cameron Brattin Moury has made the most of his four more years by the Bay. Like all men of distinction, he is best described in his own words: you rate what you skate, a mantra he boldly proclaimed on Training Day 1 of 1431. In spite of his best efforts, he made it through four years without standing a day of restriction or committing an honor offense (robbing the cradle notwithstanding). To date, he holds the record of being the only person to attend the Naval Academy without actually being a Midshipman. On weekends, and perhaps the occasional weekday, Cameron spent his time haunting DTA, or else the couch at his parents' house. 1.3 mile runs never felt so good. Over the past four years, I have come to know Cameron as a man with tremendous integrity and personal character, and could not have asked for a better roommate and friend. Upon graduation, Cameron will hone his craft as a Marine Corps aviator, and I'm confident that with his presence and leadership, the Marine Corps motto of Semper Fidelis will endure.

William Murray

Intelligence Option

From the panicky kid with the duck waddle to the most professional company commander that 2010 had to offer, Will (Venkman) Murray came from plebe year obscurity to set the bar for 5th company. His serious academic side was always counterbalanced the way he entertained his roommates. Starting with acapella performances of "Living on a Prayer" through his exploits on ship selection night, Will was an undercover comedian. Things we'll miss most about Will: his mom's banana bread, his headgear and the way he's always up for a night out... as long as you don't want to stay out past 11.

Liam O'Hone

USMC Ground

Where's the orange hued, BCG wearing, lanky kid from Fifth? Liam's carrot juice intake has diminished and he's been PRK'ed... two problems solved; chocolate milk and two entr'ée dinners at Galway Bay are working on the skinniness. He blames it on his thoroughbred-like metabolism; I say it's chipmunk-like. But, Liam definitely has a thoroughbred's worth ethic. Having conquered air-assault school, USMA, and 5th Company's remedial squad... his next great adventure lies with the Marines. His men need only one bit of advice, leave'im alone when he's punishing himself through PT or he'll end you Chingachgook style.

Brad Pendock

Navy Pilot

Bradley ... The Bear' Pendock. Whether packed into a mini-van or not teaching his brother how to long board, BJ failed to realize 1410 was not a sauna, but this stubborn vanilla gorilla still managed a workout. He set the 5th company record for most sleep-ins, taken, not earned. CDO muster is at 0615 and the Nav final started 45 minutes ago. He managed to land the sweet nurse from Crofton, but we know she's the lucky one, especially when it comes to house cleaning. After Allie, EOL formation was rescheduled to, whenever, and The Sunny in Philly show still sucks.

Robert Petrosik

Hitting on every girl at cheer camp especially ones from Kutztown. Getting kicked out of clubs in Hawaii and Mindie competitions, nuff said. Just remember... Don't launch!

Douglas Rohrback

Douglas Bodie Rohrback reported to this fine institution from the great state of Washington. An avid University of Washington fan, Bo never missed a game in a 0 and 16 season and often fantasized about desertion to the land of the Husky. Many of us who have been his roommates and friends over the years have tried to unravel what makes Bo tick. Only to come up confused by a multitude of ticks that he already possesses from his R2-D2 impressions, random hand clapping, and random "what if" conversations that would no doubt keep you up at all hours of the night. The best way to describe Bodie is like an avid mountain climber that never quite reach the top of a peak. He was always dreaming up far fetch plans and hobbies, from building wooden boats out of scrap to making a space elevator after he fives and dives. Even though some of Bo's ideas were out there, we all knew he was light years ahead of us; and maybe one day in the future, this Naval Architect from the shores of the Puget Sound and trained on banks of the Severn would be the first to design that infamous Land Submarine.

Christopher Rutledge

Surface Warfare

Spawned by the unholy mountains of Colorado several hundred years ago, Uncle Rutledge has been blowing horns to ward off yetis since time immemorial. Naval representatives were amazed at the size of his dome, and quickly enlisted him. It came as no surprise, then, when he joined D&B- after all, it's pretty close to D&D. USNA did not know what to do with Rut at first, finally deciding to put all of 5th madness in one room. He has worked hard on adapting his USNA room to the cavelike surroundings he longs for, just as he will adapt the greyhull.

Joshua Shishkoff

Submarine (Nuclear)

I'll never forget the first time I laid eyes on Shish's sister. It was a hot summer day, and I... nevermind. After barely making it in to the Academy, Shish has been a struggling English major ever since. Receiving nightly help on thermo through MGSP, he has somehow managed to keep it above a 2.0. His low academic ranking compliments his high level black mage in WoW, which suits him well as a Submariner. Never afraid to get rowdy with the law, this overly loud sea-lawyer can always orally persuade Baltimore county police for his unconditional release. Admirals for Life.

Tyler Sordelet

Submarine (Nuclear)

Staying true to the Marine Corps, this devil dogs armory is proudly displayed on Facebook with crossed-rifles and Kevlar. If he's not enjoying red wings or passing out asthma attacks, he's probably drinking extremely responsibly since he's only been drunk twice and always accepts drinks from strangers. If you see him congratulate him on his acceptance to Anne Arundel Community College's 6-week-online GED program. Ty won't be missed upon graduation and his involvement with the submarine community is purely platonic. Anxiously anticipating the repeal of don't ask don't tell, this IST standout is loved by his uncles. Admirals for Life.

John-Thomas Stanton

Navy Pilot

Hailing from Leavenworth, Washington, John-Thomas Robert William Stanton always dreamed of becoming a Navy pilot. A member of the USNA Delayed Entry Program, JT's acceptance into the class of 2010 was his chance.

When not studying or working out, he's always sleeping or staring blankly at his computer... Awesome squad leader, rewarded as a Battalion Training Officer, all without shooting anything on Cannoneers. Can make you crack up anytime; oldies confirmation, absolute last second Thermo EI, "who's gonna be late" wars, "DUDE what's our hw again", and no I don't particularly care about Africa... Oh yeah, he got pilot too!

Andrew Utama

Navy NFO

Chinabot, the one who spent more than half his loan on camera equipment. Not even an earthquake will wake him up... no, seriously, we tried. One beer quickly translates into wearing three sweatshirts, a female SDB jacket, and an Optimus Prime helmet to call the raptor.

Andrew Ward

USMC Pilot

Andrew Smith Ward. Known for his plethora of useless "Junk" coming in the mail, including MMA gloves. He always dedicated himself to everything... namely not sleeping. Habitually pulling all nighters w/ 12 packs of Code Red. Oblivious that his Volvo sadly is not a Porsche. Once an Aero Major, graduating a Poli-Sci. Wonder why? Late nights of C.O.D 4. 9 hour drive home, but anyone'll fall in love with South Carolina. Together since day 1, the three Andrews made it through. A stripper by accident, but it shows, "If at first you don't succeed, try, try... try again." Semper Fi.

Misty Webster

Surface Warfare (Nuclear)

From the redwood forests of Washington to the gulf stream waters of Florida, Misty has lived everywhere, always book in one hand, yummy snack in other. At USNA, Misty has adopted snowboarding, rowing, triathlon, rock climbing, and... napping. She double maored in International Relations and Economics. (Does this girl ever sleep?... of course, they're both Group III majors) She's pretty much crazy, but she's an awesome friend... to about half the Brigade. And while she's dreaming of someday owning the world and going on Submarines, we'll see what Congress has to say. In the meantime, bring it on Nuke SWO!

Roarke Baldwin

USMC Ground

There aren't many words that describe Roarke, except for real, American, and hero. Contrary to all basic human instincts, he's run towards bullets and violence his entire life. Motivation is at the core of this legend's drive to excellence. Nothing has ever stopped him from proving his worth as man and myth alike. He is the kind of guy that will plan a camping trip down to every menu... and don't forget to add the butter to your pancakes. Were they sticking that bad? The Marine Corps will be lucky to have this hard-charging war-fighting machine. Good luck out there.

Chris Bialko

USMC Ground

When Chris wasn't sleeping or playing guitar, you could find him reading or practicing his spelling. He was also a member of the elite 7th wing 4 a.m. lifting team that he religiously attended 5 days a week. Thanks to a short stint on restriction and the leadership of several Naval Officers he quickly developed a much needed appreciation for song singing, shoe shining, and getting lost on the subway. After that he was on the straight and narrow for 3 short years and often concluded MQF with a back-flip in appreciation for 100% attendance. To this day he can still name all 6 flavors of Ha'ag and D'ass (sp?) ice-cream served at noon meal. Look out Marine Corps, if you like you PC cadences you're going to love this kid. Give me that yard card!!!

Vivian Cho

Surface Warfare (Nuclear)

The hottest Korean midshipman to ever grace the deck plates of Bancroft Hall (sorry Sam Kim). 1/c Cho fits all stereotypes of Asians: little, cute, and damn good at math. This classy girl can persevere through 14-hour bus rides, life-threatening pizza-runs in Philli, and DC Metro stops without chipping her $25 French-manicure. You are loyal, true, and beautiful inside and out, and I know that whenever I am craving sushi, my imported-asian-doublemint-twin is too -Vimi

Joseph Comiskey

USMC Ground

This hipster-hunting-dynamo will be remembered most for his legendary surf trips from Bali-to-Nicaragua and the perseverance to raise a boat that sank lower than his standards. Joe's can-do attitude turns delays into St. Patrick's Day at Berkeley and questionable decisions into bffs/uninvited-guests/deep ice chests. Lucky to have 3-years with his brother-Will-they preoccupied themselves with 50 Miles runs, late night squash and the occasional Natty Boh. Although his burrito businesses and academics never got off the ground, The Corps will be glad to have Joe, child bearing hips and all.

Crystal Curtis

Surface Warfare (Nuclear)

Three cheers to the girl with the sweetest of temperaments and brightest of smiles. Before we go off sailing the seven seas, let's not forget cruisin' down the 101, hollerdank bonfires, getting our eagle on and making everyone extremely J, so mad that we could bite something, the best whisper buddies the world knows, fighting old guys in the mall, reigning Gaslamp, meeting three 6 mafia and those late last nights before our returns to Mother B. Beware haters and "pullers" - all your efforts are futile because homegirl don't play that. Dream big... Shop hard... Cali always. DreamTeam for life <3 ADH

Harry Davies

Navy Pilot

Skipjack- A confident physical specimen, don't let this personable gentleman fool you. He can be found wandering the halls crushing spirits, voicing everything on his mind, and showcasing his mastery of sarcasm.

Constantly pursuing his goal of being a lethargic 007, his alternating weekly obsessions include sky diving, flying, scuba diving, guns, wave runners, and robots. Due to the fact that he is never wrong, the ladies just can't stay away; especially those Air Force Cadets. Unfortunately for them, he can't hold on to one for more than a few days. Remember, HE'S A PILOT!

James Davis

Submarine (Nuclear)

Jimmy D...a 260 lb badace ...now a 210 lb PT stud, hails from Springfield, Illinois. An Aero's past with a submariner's future, Jimmy will be flying through the depths of the ocean hand-in-hand with DD and Rex. A fierce, unstoppable force on the Fieldball team and as 6th Company Commander, Jimmy's been known to unleash the fury upon lesser beings. When his friends are partying recklessly in DTA, Jimmy can be found poring through NACA charts and Men's Health. Jimmy's unwavering loyalty, whether in Annapolis, Patagonia, or downtown Knoxville, will surely serve him well in his dashing sub sweater.

Ian DeSoto

Navy Pilot

Easily the most interesting man on Earth. Nothing less than champion of every athletic and non-athletic contest imaginable; a true competitor. From sleeping to FIFA, he never let up on his relentless quest for greatness in the face of adversity. A master of the English language, "The Kings" as he refers to it, he could flip a rhyme on its side with his ground-breaking vocabulary and total dominance of slang. A real wordsmith. Somehow a master of the ladies, yet a mystery whether it was his words or his musk that got through to them. His spirit will carry on.

Brett Disher

USMC Ground

Brett Hanley Disher, the only Midshipmen to complete two full years as a second class and still graduate from the school down by the bay. Even though he had communications but was not receiving any oxygen, he still managed to REFD! From the heart felt moments on the Ring Dance bus (Brett's drinking... does anyone have any tissues?) to the epic failures along West Street, hey, did you ever find your shoes or jacket? Are you really the only Disher in this house? I'll Drive!

Michelle Downs

Surface Warfare

You know Michelle is having a good time when you can see her full-tooth-smile. Good times started plebe year with sparkle cammie headbands and B&Gs with UGG boots. Speaking of blue and gold... Why is it so sad? Michelle is the strongest female on the yard... wait NO, NO, not you the chalkboard! I think "strong and able" takes that title. Do you wanna change rooms again? Cookie? Michelle just remember at the Friday night dance party, be careful in those shoes and you can come up to "heaven" anytime. Au revoir Huffles, ALOHA HAWAII! There will never only be one! JAG

Emily Eiser

Navy Pilot

Emily is wisest of all wise asses in the brigade. Will she ever stop picking on me? As a plebe, her jokes were so dirty the firsties would leave the table. But on another note, she has a smile that reflects her genuine sweetness. Whether running the PRT with you or cleaning vomit at Penn State, she'll never shy away from helping others. With you by my side, I will always be laughing.

Josh Fernandez

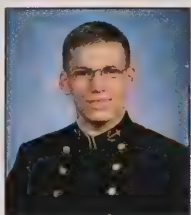

USMC Ground

Hailing from Carthage, NC, Josh has a warrior mentality even putting Russell Crowe to shame. Taught to fend for himself in the wilderness by the "Sergeant Major," Josh's unquenchable zest for blood inevitably led him to Navy Boxing and the Corps. A man of few necessities and even fewer words, he was inclined to become an engineer, "generally." Somehow Josh managed to wrangle a young filly in DTA with some helpful dating advice from some close friends in South Park, CO. Josh's fierce loyalty, tenacious spirit, and teddy-bear heart will serve him well in the United States Marine Corps.

Sixth Company - Firsties

James Golden

Submarine (Nuclear)

What more needs to be said about the man who validated Plebe year? Seriously, James. Four years without showing any academic improvement? Just because you have a 4.0 doesn't mean you can nap all the time... but that's why you're a Trident Scholar (b*tch). You don't have to thank us for the Entourage DVDs because we know you'd find them online anyway (you still owe $80 for that). By the way, he's single. Just please call him back. Where's our sweet tea? Favorite quote: "American by birth, Southern by the grace of God." Oh, just remember kids, fratisbad. - JDR TFW

Coleman Gonzalez

Submarine (Nuclear)

Hey Jack, I got the 'tude now...you know...whatever! I'm free wheeling it. You had better not be reading this with "what's her face" twenty years down the road or else...I don't care if your mama is there...grandma, babysitters, innocent bystanders, little kids, bill collectors... whatever!!! We going out to this fleet and leaving everybody's block covered with hot brass...and you know why??? I'll wait while you google it. Love you dog...peace!!!

Brian Goss

Navy Pilot

Hailing from Fleming Island, FL, Brian came into Plebe Year at a measly 160 lbs. No worries ladies, this now 200 lb specimen of masculinity can easily be found pumping the weights in Mac-D or pumping his pecs for the ladies at Pussers. A highly intelligent man, Brian will get his learn on at Cambridge before heading down to flight school, where he will try and attain "Bill Goss" size status. Brian's zest for life, knack for adventure, and compassionate will is sure to leave nothing but a HUGE impact on those fortunate enough to fall under his command.

Stevie Greenway

Navy Pilot

Came into school with high expectation and left a changed man. Ready for a new beginning, away from false hopes and shattered expectations.

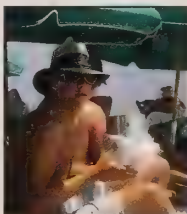

Chris Harris

Surface Warfare

Chris "baby-face" Harris, known not only for his 30-plus-point games and triple-doubles on the basketball-court, but more so for the intense Wednesday-morning-racquetball stompings he received from his worthy-adversary. He will be forever changed by his restricted roommates during his 3-year-stay of knocking-on-wood in 5047. A friend to Hooligans and commoners alike, Chris follows in his fathers footsteps never missing a chance to party. Full of charisma and a physique of Neptune made Chris quite the catch for the ladies of the Severn. From Team Captain to conning-officer, Chris moves on to the Fort McHenry, where he will tame the seas in Little Creek, Va.

Jack Hatcher

Submarine (Nuclear)

Starting day one ("Can't beat it with a stick!") when you chopped up to 5206 ("Rayos, Gonzalez, Hatcher - what the heck?") you knew we were going places. From phone watch with family guy ("You crazy, Jesus!") and Hoodwinked, ("Go Flipper! Go Flipper!") to Rover Watch in Plebe Summer, ("In two years this will be over!") to Rover Watch two years later, to the interview with the ADMIRAL, we've never been far apart. Remember, if you get chewed out for wearin' yo leathas, you got the 'tude now. After all, it's basic algebra. Trust me, Jack, I've done the research. -Zapppo

Dan Hildenbrand

Surface Warfare

Hildy... How many generations went to West Point? You finally got it right. The man who underwent the BIGGEST change at the Academy... btw you looked better with a rattail. He who received the most DANGEROUS tattoo ever! With all that flying to Colorado and premium Yoga lessons, did you have to take out a second career starter loan? The man who gets what he wants, he didn't have to go to USNA because he attended Annapolis University. You are the master of your fate, the captain of your soul. I LOVE MY MID... 26.2. No Broke-Back you roman...

David Keegan

Surface Warfare

David-"Red-Squiggles"-Keegan became the biggest fan-NWL had ever seen in his four years in Annapolis. From a raucous road trip to South Bend to a Ship Selection night that will never be forgotten, Dave struggled to keep his nose clean. His brief stint as Intramural-Cross-Country-Team-Captain helped him max every PRT. A workout king, Keegs was known for his bloody-noses, weak-stomach, and insanely low-tolerance, which never stopped him from shotguns with the Hooligans and raging moves on the Acme dance floor. USS Monterey should expect Keegan, with his defining green sweat shorts and desk artifacts, to come aboard ready to get pinned.

Fred Lamartin

Submarine (Nuclear)

A native of Annapolis, Fred has always been the center of excitement. Frekky, as we came to call him in his native tongue, is a scientist (of the political nature) and will never let you forget it. Sophisticated and stimulating, he masterminded the Brian Goss phenomenon. His boyishly good looks reel in the ladies, so many that he doesn't know what to do with them (or maybe he really just doesn't know what to do with them). A veteran of the sub-draft, Fred's priceless personality will be lost to the world as he is swallowed by the sea.

Patrick Murphy

Surface Warfare (Nuclear)

Ever get the feeling someone was sneaking into your house, sleeping in your room, then leaving before you came back? That was Pat Murphy. Smart, athletic, and reserved, Pat is a true connoisseur of the perfect push-up.

Pat's other unique talent is the ability to find free samples and spread the wealth. Few things perked up my week like finding my mail box over flowing with subscriptions to Diabetes Weekly or the Soap Opera Digest. By the way, your unengaged roommates do not really care what color flowers you have at your wedding. Best of luck Pat!

Garret Nelson

USMC Pilot

Garret "G-dog" Nelson. From Canada to Acapulco, tearing it up like it was his job. "Yes" the restriction was worth it. Vic will never forget "Tabares." Garret could make a blind man see, pigs fly, and turn Jane Fonda into a Marine.... just because you want him to stop talking. SOP 1.2.3.4.5.6... Beware of "The great ideas" Although hard to handle, Garret was always a good friend. Thx for the French fries.

Dustin Packard

Surface Warfare

Dustin "chicken legs" Packard sleeps with his "special" blanket night after night. Known for his unbelievable tall tales that range from power drills to his Italian spandex, D-Pack has become Idaho's own prodigal son. One of Navy Wrestling's best talents and the best and worst customer Acme has ever seen, DK spent his 3-year stay in 5047 knocking on wood, but never forgetting his humbling beginning in 5008. His commission threatening "condition" led him to an ultrasound he'll never forget. He will embark upon his career by walking aboard the USS Fort McHenry, the "friendliest" ship in the Navy.

Sixth Company - Firsties

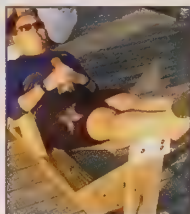

Tina Pryne

Surface Warfare

Lilo... Baby, mini, midget express, the captain, not Tim; Virginia penitentiary. Boozing between sets, sailing, dippy, its tricky, "... do it you wont"; NASCAR, Richmond, never again... but probably. Boxed wine camping, Outer Banks cardboard boxes. "Do I have a

Natasha Ried

Navy Pilot

Natasha could always be seen with a contagious smile and a laugh that you can hear a mile away. As an aerospace major, she perfected the art of sleep deprivation. Natasha competed for the busiest Mid in our class constantly taking on more leadership and joining every ECA in sight. Between training for marathons, crushing girls in ice hockey, singing in Glee Club, leading as 2nd Battalion Commander, its incredible we ever saw her. But she somehow always found time to be one of the best friends anyone could ask for. Good luck in all you do sis!

Jonathan Rizor

Submarine (Nuclear)

Don't let his geriatric looks fool you. The Admiral is actually 24. BZ for surviving Plebe Year, and for taking the Navy for all its worth: two Nuke bonuses without breaking a sweat. And he knows where every cent is today, revealing his most endearing trait: obsessive compulsive disorder. And when you thought no one was looking. The Admiral was there with his camera, taking candids from a dark corner. If you're in Charleston this summer, don't be surprised to find him living out of his car. Why? (Not.) Here's to the creepiest YouTube video we've ever seen. Semper Deep.

Jarred Tate

Navy Pilot

Dear Jesus...WWTD...thanks for being our Designated Walker...the only athlete in the group...especially in the booty shakin' contest...PCL07...wait I thought I saw your gf, oh wait she's busin' tables... how old is that hostess? Can't believe

IKS, KS, TPC

Alexander Thiess

Navy Pilot

Known to his closest friends as Mr. Kelly Nogacek, Big Foot is never far from symbols of manhood, such as hybrid cars, GPS, and second-hand camping gear. After four years, we still have hope that the ball and chain has a key somewhere. Don't be confused, this lover boy will never actually be married. The only thing this plebe loves more than youngsters is his car, Eleanor. Being the big teddy bear on campus, Alex tries valiantly to make history cool. For some reason, it's just not forceful enough from this retired Airman. Watch out, or he'll bring the hammer down.... ?

Garth Thomas

Surface Warfare

He has been to the top of the mountain and back. Garth Thomas danced with the Juggernaut, he was baptized, he met Whoopi Goldberg, and left voicemails across the Eastern Side of the United States "Janay... I'mmmmm..." "Our two time Brigade Champion boxer has gone from pulling heads down to dancing on the ropes of the ring. He loves Japan, and he will be sure to let you know. The crew of the Avenger has know idea what a truly amazing gift they are getting in the form of Garth Thomas. Did Chris give you permission to leave?

Kaitlin Torgerson

Alec Turnbull

Surface Warfare Navy Pilot

Hailing from the land of the pine, Bristol, TN, this backwoods preacher's son left his NASCAR tire marks on USNA, and more importantly, DTA. Whether it's late nights in 5108, shots of Maple Syrup in Canada, Service Selection Day, or graduate school, Alec's life has been faster than Ricky Bobby's and always full of questions. One thing in his life that has never been a question has been his insatiable thirst for fly fishing and good music. Alec's intelligence, selflessness, impeccable freestyling ability, and southern charm will truly set him apart in the wardroom.

Timothy Whitney

Submarine (Nuclear)

Tim decided whether to accept his appointment to USNA by a flip-o-the-coin and won...then came anyway. If you didn't already know, I'm sure he'd tell you...he's the Editor in Chief of The LOG. Unless you have at least one star, he doesn't want to talk to you. Oh wait...he does. Endlessly. He knows the Coffee Mess employees a little too well, meets with the Dant a little too often and wished he could be a Group 1 major a little too much. A former Cantello-boy and a future submariner, Tim's destined for greatness...he's sure of it. Go forth and conquer, sir.

Jenner Yuhas

USMC Pilot

Born with a high-and-tight and motivation that only General Petraeus could surpass, Jenner came to the Academy hailing from Cali...Kentucky. Jenner could frequently be found in 1st through 8th wing, excluding room 5108. A charismatic man with a mind for victory and an arm like a cannon, Jenner dominated intramural Handball and most importantly, Fieldball, leading 6th Company to many Brigade Championships. Jenner's a caring man, a "bros bro," and a lover of Jesus Christ. He's most clearly defined by his dedication to his faith and anyone under his command will be lucky to have him as their leader.

Jeremy Ball

Submarine (Nuclear)

Jeremy hails from North Hollywood, CA and his life at Navy Tech could be described as an action-drama. Being a member of the Barbershop Quartet in the Mens Glee Club and the Barbershop Quartet, he has most certainly become a cultured man. You would be hard-pressed to find a bigger fan of sports than Jeremy. If ant-racing aired on ESPN, you could bet that Jeremy would be up to the wee hours of the morning watching it while doing homework. Jeremy's talents were well sought after as he was a first round pick in the 2010 submarine draft. Best of luck to Jeremy, a man who will be an asset to any team he plays for in the future. -BMP

Bobby Ball

Navy Pilot

Despite being the only 17 year old in the company, MIDN Ball showed up to plebe summer engaged with the world figured out. As Bobby's academy experience began flying over his slicked hair, he learned a few valuable lessons. Never introduce your sporadic roommate to your finances sister, always bring a sleeping bag to JMU, don't knock fb dating till you try it, and you can never use to much foot powder. While Bobby was late to blossom into the 7th Company weekend rituals, he received a merry 21st birthday capped with a midnight water boarding. Bobby will always be remembered for his twelve hour workouts, supreme appetite, a rare preference in cats over dogs, "it's just skin" and a shipmate who always lent out a lending hand. His rise from being ranked DFL (behind LFBHF), attending company deathmedials, getting mono, and a ring dance dinner that never ended finally reached its maximum on his acceptance into the Naval Air Community. TAKE THAT SUB DRAFT!!!!!!

Jonathan Berkowitz

Navy Pilot

Bow down to the king, Master Berkowitz is here. From the crib to the hall, he runs it all. When not in the library studying, he can be found doing random acts of kindness, perusing the web for Alex Thompson, or giving away money to charities. Brosiden is never afraid to take a shipmates watch or do colors. He will always be remembered. #37 in the company, #1 in your heart.

Brandon Brown

Navy Pilot

Close your eyes...Take a Deep breath and hang on for the RIDE OF YOUR LIFE! CARPE DIEM...GOD BLESS and GOD SPEED!

Michael T. Brown

Surface Warfare

To start with, You stabbed yourself! That may be one of the most memorable moments. But Michael, you'll always be the most dependable and trustworthy classmate any of us could have asked for. From Plebe through Firstie year, you've been our sometimes zany, but always present compatriot through thick and thin. With that comes some great times, challenging odd work outs, threatening death repeatedly and your new and shiny toys (from hammocks to work out equipment). But you'll make a great officer because you get it, put the work in and care about your people. AAM

Matt Chauvin

USMC Ground

Remember when the puck went in, we were on the ice skating slowly, aimlessly. You, so nearly the hero, bent at the waist and looked at your feet, unwavering for more than a minute. As the celebration raged in the corner and in the stands and throughout the country, our reaction made clear this was, in no way, what we arrived for. That was so sick.

Danielle Cicuto

Navy Pilot

Dinosaur claws makes sandwiches better than the Primanti Bros, eructations greater than Buddy the Elf, and has a vocabulary comparable to Merriam and Webster. An invaluable crewmate of the Intrepid and the Laboon, she's a most talented navigator and bull rider. An impressive president, captain, teammate, and obsessed rugby lover, and lover of the persistent persister. Heh? Uhhhhhh! In the most unreasonable situations with the most unreasonable people, you are the voice of reason. And thank the dear Lord. Well, Big Gulps, huh guys? Heh? See you later!

Thuy Mi Dinh

aka The Dinh-fish, she's the best Asian around here, her Asian fingers would create the finest origami. Took 2 years to break outta that shell but girl you did it! We watched you grow from emo recluse w/socks on your hands to an Asian beauty who has a new found way with the boys. We watched you dominate the league one fifty at a time while working on those rack times... "NEW RECORD!!" Hopefully your indecisiveness w/ service selection has led you to the right branch, good luck in the corps! Dont forget, don't convert and stay away from 'wells.

Ernesto Estrada

The first 007 agent ever to come from El Salvador. He used his majestic accent and charismatic attitude to win over the hearts of many a lady. Long nights in the Aero labs means in the future you will have mucho successo, mucho dinero, y mucho esposas de trofeos. We are all glad you put away all the women's clothes from Plebe Year and are ready to don the uniform of an officer. Have fun, be safe, and don't forget your shipmates to the North.

Meagan Geuther

Medical Corps

Meagan is going places, even bigger than Texas. Wait Meg, how does the flag go again? From the top of the cheerleading pyramid to the rucks of NWR, her overachieving is as undying as her love for perfect alpha inspections, even at the expense of her roommate's life.

Speaking of dust-free blinds, Meg has started each day here with an ear-splitting rise of the blinds and deafening slamming (RIP George Foreman). Truthfully, Meagan has been a loyal friend, there with encouragement, with a future as shimmering as the brightwork she spent hours so diligently cleaning... turn off your EFFING monitor.

Alec Gragg

Surface Warfare

A member of no less than three companies, Alec has befriended many at the Academy. The only person to be legally restrained from bagels. Since he couldn't get enough lobster at Christmas dinner, he became the first to christen the playhouse. The man to try to take out ATPF with water balloons. No one likes bagels anyways More days on restriction than off, always reppin' great flow. Everyone's had their night at Rockfish. Snowboarding streets during snowmageddon, Alec is always down for a good ride. ;). There's a couch in the fleet with your name on it.

Joshua Jordan

Navy Pilot

Dude, remember when you told the newspaper "We're pretty devastated," you said. "In any hockey event, you lose a silver medal. You don't win it. You win a gold, and you win a bronze. You lose a silver. It's just the way it is. In time, we're all going to be very proud of what we did, but it's not what we came here to do." That was so cool.

Van Lawson

Submarine (Nuclear)

If you don't know Gordon Lawson before he was on national TV, just look for the ogre walking on his toes and swinging his arms like a German soldier. Don't be fooled though, hes as nimble as a cat, just ask the wall police near gate one. Van is also as generous as they come. He can be found dropping hundreds at firstie club or thousands on biblical blackjack dealers. During the day he can be found checking his "muscles" in the mirror, but after 7:30 its lights out for this baby face. "Honest Abe is dead"

Alexander Morrow

USMC Ground

Hey how are ya Jack? It was the best of times and the worst of times. A man of honor, respect, and devotion, Alex is a true brother. Hotlanta. Awkward time in SC. Alex's doggy bed. Remember White Cloud. Never leave a man behind. "Yo shut up and do the exercise!" MTB

Brandon Pearson

Surface Warfare

From WAY up in the boonies of Warwick, Rhode Island this born Navy-man has more honor (and hours in the rack--or chair) than any other midshipman knows what to do with, coming to the Academy for love...errrr rather to get a top-notch education at one of the nation's finest institutions, of course...he is more than ready to begin what can only be imagined as an incredible SWO career. His daily antics will sorely be missed (and in case it wasn't pointed out to you before now, Brandon, Tom Brady never won the Super Bowl while you were a mid). Fair winds and following seas, my friend!-- JIB

Alberto Ramos

Submarine (Nuclear)

No, don't call Alberto a hero. Do you know who the real heroes are? The guys, who wake up every morning, and go into their normal jobs, and get a distress call from the commissioner, and take off their glasses and change into capes and fly around fighting crime.

Those are the real heroes. Top Ramen salt, Patutsi (and Bob), Atos, Buggaboo, Toitle and Nuts, Del Taco salsa, wooden pencils, pieces of basketball nets, tree sap, honeysuckles, bathtub washing machines, "Hello Hello", nicknames, swing set contraptions, tents, bread crumbs, water sprinklers, Antonio Jacob, Alysia Arielle, Michelle Yvonne, Robin Hood. Fasheezewhaps.

Tito Rivas

Surface Warfare

"Dude... Do you eat yet? Oh blackberry, bam-Tam-lam. My favorite football player is Tom Randy. Why can't be we friends, why can't be we friends." If you can't find Tito he might be in English EI in Chauvenet, or the library in 8th wing.

"Hudson! Lets go! Columbus!!!! F!#$ you!" (Russian accent) "splashing from corner room: "This is my jungle!" The real reason mids don't get enough food is because this scavenger could operate king hall for a week from his own King Hall food cache located under his desk. Good night Tara... SWO!!!!

Dustin Roberts

Other Information Professional

This Midshipman is remembered for his man hair, late night gaming, and missions to D.C. clubs. Roberts, a remedial champion, wasn't the fastest runner, but nothing can match his speed of jumping into committed relationships. While never applying for leadership, he acquired significant rank by becoming a guild leader. Roberts might not sweep, but will happily don chem-goggles and plunge a wax clogged shower while filling the Wall of Shame. Fueled by EZ-cheese and Triscuits, Roberts displayed extreme Army-week spirit when deploying the "H-bomb" in 11th Company. After close calls with yetis, meeting a girl named Ann one night, thousands of gallons of Mtn. Dew, and hitting an 0-65 wife in the face with a water-balloon this black sheep for life is graduatin'. Oh Richard!

Michael Ross

USMC Ground

Many of us know the yutting, motivated, bald, obnoxious Marine that stands out in a sea of medium built midshipmen...but few know the real Michael Ross. The Michael Ross that has pictures of kittens on his cork board, fluffy slippers on his feet, and a pair of silky sweat pants that make spandex look loose. His size comes from the steroid injected road kill of Tennessee. Parental guidance came in the form of quotes from Commando and Rambo. After a night at RamsHead he often substitutes the walls of his room for urinals... Classic mix up

Mary Rutlum

Navy Pilot

Whether in the classroom calibrating robots or tearing up the lacrosse field, she represents the best in all of us. There's just something about Mary... and the whole Brigade knows it. At first glance, Mary is your All-American girl, but don't get us wrong, when this heartbreaker is not flirting solely with perfection, she is hitting the town... hard (one Joose is enough). Whatever future place she ends up, from an F-18 cockpit to another Melwood closet, she will do so with a sarcastic comment under her breath and a protruding scrape on her chin. Keep on keepin' on.

Messy Jessy- as forgetful as a concussed goldfish. Will slap you on the wrist like a nun with a switch to a school kid if you don't savor and enjoy a truffles undertones, a salad's crispness, a cheeses tang. An attendant to detail like none other; everything MUST be clean and so-so (read: OCD), though from at least one person a semester she'll be called "disorganized". Representing buns of steel and arms that kill. Poot. Helen. Bless you.

John Shaffer

Surface Warfare

Scott entered as an emerging political icon and Thrifty car-rental mogul. Over his illustrious academy career, Shaffer left no bear un-shaken or glass half-empty. Textbook issue never quite knew him, but many certainly did. He kindly gave you a blanket in North Carolina; he decked you in Daytona; or maybe he water-boarded you on your birthday.

He passed chemistry with absolutely no more than 500hrs of EI and is the first to conquer Russian without learning a word. He commanded a "naval warship" (sparking an international incident). But whenever your honor advisor wasn't boldly proclaiming "I am the Law", there were many nights at Rams Head and very few long walks to gate 8. In uniform or out, Scott was looked up to; you couldn't ask for a better friend.

Evan Sisung

Navy Pilot

As the pride of the South, Evan Sisung is truly a titan among men. An athlete, scholar, and professional bodybuilder by trade, Evan never misses an opportunity to flex in the mirror, twitch inane muscles, or ask if "y'all got any food". He moonlighted as a song writer for every boyband, rock group & rapper in history, subtly fitting his own name into every song ever written. He studied and worked hard throughout his years at USNA, even managing to save time by doing his laundry on his abs. Once a humble track star, no one has surpassed his ability to run, which is clear when considering he dated a Superintendent's daughter and lived. Thinking as a future pilot, he was always the best wingman unless a drunken Alabamian had a loaded gun pointed at him. Lets go play pounce and hit up the Macaroni Grill, track star.

Ryan Small

USMC Pilot

If it moved, Ryan Small hit on it. With a giggle that even a schoolgirl would find childishly feminine, Small is best known for his endless pursuit of the three most important elements of his USNA education: drinking, flirting, and telling questionable stories about how amazing his drinking and flirting were. If that wasn't enough, his wicked pwnage skills on Xbox certainly make him a superior man than you. A great guy at heart, he could always be counted on for a drink and a laugh. We look forward to seeing him giggle at all his kids down the road, assuming he can keep track of them. Keep pumpin'. You'll get out sooner or later.

William Smith

Surface Warfare

William Smith... A common name for an icor with uncommon abilities. Keyboarding skills, instigating skills, and the ability to woo any unsuspecting female to name a few. Real noice.

Want some carrots? Few even know where this mystery man goes at night, although some claim they've spotted him at the EE labs cutting sick jams... or sleep crawling into his roommates beds. Billy the Goater is a man among men. He hunts without ear plugs and drops girls like their hot. Goodnight, Have a nice noight.

Stephanie Stamm

Other SWO - IW

Stephanie Stamm shines with her kindness and enthusiasm. Originally from the class of ... 09, I didn't know what kind of friend I was missing until she became part of 2010 - most likely to squeeze out an extra year of some motivation (have you seen the football truck?!). This girl is always smiling and making people laugh. She is strong, determined, and never ever gives up. She is willing to follow where the Lord leads and trust Him with all her heart. The size of her heart and smile attest to her faith. God bless you, Stephanie, and thank you.

Victor Szelegowski

USMC Ground

In a word...SLAYERRR, but too bad you still suck at NHL 2010. Your motivation and energy was unmatched, until you fainted the goat...five minutes later and slept through an earthquake only to be awoken by a small mouse, scared to death. But really a great guy, always there and willing to help in the clutch, no matter how much he has going on. If you ever find yourself in a bind remember just yell "Back to baccckkk", and if you end up catching hell for it just tell them "Small made me do it", since it has worked well so far. Truly the luckiest guy in the world, he handles his weapon well, keeping the tip up. . Hope the amazing luck holds out but if it doesn't, don't worry, C3PO will take care of everything... YEEAAAAA!!!!!!

Helen Tannehill

Navy Pilot

Dearest Helena. Sweet Helen. Often mistaken for a hippie. Best known for: Giggle fits, followed by tears. Wine and brie and baking host. Scrabble and Yoga guru. Untamed hair with a pencil above one ear. Reader that promptly rests her eyelids during and after. In constant step or skip for her next performance or marathon. Late, but for good reason of course! Master of the Helen photo smile. Inspired by her many adventures that result from her flawless (ehmm) sense of direction. Ciao, your clumsy partner in crime, Katarina :]

Matthew Tapajcik

Surface Warfare (Nuclear)

Matt was forced to be understanding. Tapachik? Tuhpajik? Tapajek? Tuh + pie + check = Tapajcik. The first day of classes, sometimes the whole semester, was always interesting. Though some argue soccer is not a tough sport, Matt was quite the athlete and dedicated varsity star. Too bad his team went under .500 every year. If there was anyone that could make you laugh at body parts and noises, it was definitely Matt. Did somebody just step on a duck? "Life is 10% what happens to you and 90% how you react to it" Matt, your happy, contagious spirit will be a blessing for all those you come into contact with. Good talk, see you out there.

Daniel Wheaton

Submarine (Nuclear)

Don't catch Danny in one of his, "don't talk to me moods," or he will conquer you in intergalactic warfare. His forehead is strong like the mighty oak. But so is his leadership. Dirigo, latin for follow me, is his motto, though it is also commonly equated the state of Maine's production of lobster. When you think fun, you think Dan Wheaton. He stays in his room to play countless hours of video games with strange people on the internet, only taking bathroom and food breaks. "It's in my computer!" Way to go BabyDan, oh what a night. Dearest and darlingest Katarina, forever a member of the Happy Fun Squad. Most happiest, most funnest =]. Could at any time be caught: laughing on the ground, tripping over nothing, slipping uphill, or forgetting. "The times" trapped in the Bermuda Triangle (What would a Junior Officer do!?), overloading the gingerbread pan, snickering while praying, at strawberries, or at nothing, walking remarkable and absurd distances for food and coffee, exploring and indubitably getting lost. Never a roommate, always a sister. Alfalfa and Spanky (though I don't know which is Spanky, because we both have crazy hair).

Matthew Willmann

Submarine (Nuclear)

Known for his ability to take naps like a bear and supposedly workout at the same time. Matt Willmann has some special talents. If you don't know him, he is the tall one constantly on the phone with his Ethiopian gut and custom Yakama on. He single handily kept Verizon afloat during this recession. After a long night at Rams Head drinking buttery nipples, the human juke box can be heard throughout Bancroft. The first to tie the knot, the "wise" man is always giving advice. We will never know what happened to his thumb.

John has matured a lot over the 4 years he's been here. Plebe year he embodied your typical wrestler, short stocky and concerned with only one thing: wrestling. He was so dedicated he would often ghost wrestle half naked

Now he has broadened his mind with more worldly concerns like the solution to Israeli-Palestinian conflict (just ask if you're willing to listen for an hour or two) and pop music. His INSANE laughter and good natured bro-esque personality are hard to mistake...especially the laughter.

Scott MacAdams

Submarine (Nuclear)

Remember that time when you bought that helmet. And then you painted all of that stuff on it. And then it looked like Uncle Sam with a tatoo. And an eagle. And then remember when you wore that helmet in the biggest game of our lives while the entire nation looked on NBC tv. We will always be brothers Scott "Miler Time" Macadams. And our silver medal will always represent freedom, democracy, and most of all the right to live a life of bro-dom.

Andrew Mauney

Surface Warfare

Straight out of Lincolnton, Andrew "Dirt" Mauney is the cleanest roommate we've had. Through team screener and vigorous tooth-brushing, Girt can regularly be seen at Bojangles breakin' off a piece. Dresses like Metcalf (but returns everything). Your clown hair commands respect and you always get MKLDs. She told me what happened. Test-tube baby and moocher extraordinaire, including the opposite sex. (Remember, you all got soda, I had a water). That's not my job, dude. Where's your raincoat? Dirt will serve the SEAL Chaplain Corps well. STICKS!

Andrew Mays

Navy NFO

Andrew Mays has made quite an impact on the Naval Academy during his glorious 4 year reign. Who would have known this varsity restrictee would one day be conduct officer?? From his infamous love of a certain He-bro, to his vast mistakes with many women; from his explicit kanji study cards, and his continuously balding head, to his Confederate General roommate, Andrew sure had quite the experience. "Stay away from the curtains!" Give us this day our daily Brad... NIHONGO!!!

Andrew Metcalf

Navy Pilot

From Chi-town to Georgetown, Claf came to the Academy with high aspirations of being 200 by graduation. Braving Plebe year with a flashlight and no limit, kneepads were a great investment. I drank WAY too much water. Didn't you wear those yesterday? Who stole my wallet? Whether he's shootin' ... em up or shopping with the girls, Andrew's comb-over is never out of place. We look forward to him carrying on 8th company's proud heritage of VGEPers in Georgetown's new Metcalf Wing. STICKS!

Tyler Morrison

USMC Ground

While correcting a fellow plebe on Star Wars trivia, Tyler lost his grip on a rack and got closer to the window sill than he ever did to finding true love. Much like his idol Kanye, he managed to get into grad school and yet not attend.

After long runs on the beach, he looked forward to stumbling to McGarvey's to sip appletinis with Mik. After leaving his dignity in the Severn to waking up in the back of an ambulance, Tyler quickly went from "hooyah" to "sempar f". "And I'm not talkin' about Morrison, he's got NO talent!"

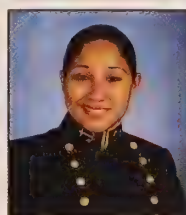

Timothy Omlor

Submarine (Nuclear)

Tim Omlor: The Naval Academy's finest prior Nuke. Finally all of those months of schooling in Charleston came in handy. Part time bike mechanic, full time nerd. Probably the nicest guy around, but with age comes wisdom right? A firm believer in the classroom nap, he still managed to become a scholar of sorts. One would think that with a huge bonus and loan, he would have found a better ride... seriously, who puts a 17 foot kayak on a corolla?

Jossie Perez

Surface Warfare

That's what I said! Jossie will always be the sweet and innocent face of the group, but her true friends know better. Put a few drops of alcohol in her and she'll be able to hang with the best of us... maybe a little too good! Either way, a night out won't be complete with Jossie and neither will a naval career. USS 'Whatever' will be blessed to have you as all were we! The little "Mexican mafia" (the only mafia at the academy) enjoys her private times but can also kick back and have a really good time partying it up (and still remembers what happens - although we can't say the same for the everyone). Don't let her smiling face and unflinching willingness to help fool you. She's the triple threat! She can dance, put ... em down, and, hailing from New Brunswick, can hold her own against the toughest this school has to offer!

Charles Randolph

USMC Pilot

Chuck hails from the magical, enchanted land of Happy Tree Friends Charlottesville. Arriving on I-Day, he had few experiences outside of counting gnomes and fairies and frolicking on Indian reservations. In time, this accident-prone ginger developed several other interests, most notably slouching in front of his computer in a tall tee, "chillin with Chug" and "watching New Schoolers do gnarly tricks". Who can forget all the times Chuck missed Sunday meals as a result of "embracing the culture?" He'll always be the smelly turd we know and love. And no we don't want your present. RAH!

Chris Reyes

Navy NFO

The greatest thing to admire about this quiet boy is his ability to have a blast dedicating himself to a stringent schedule of TV, video games, and the dutiful studies of ESPN. His lifetime goal is to appear on "Around the Horn". His utmost commitment to abstinence from all debauchery has been a burden to his roommates in their quest for fun throughout the years. However, this also makes him the ultimate designated driver (a task that he is reluctant to accept since our mountain escapade in Mexico). To his credit, just the mention of manual labor puts a glimmer in his eye. It's a testament of his willingness to serve and ability to help others. Little does he know, he will enjoy all the adventures the NFO community has to offer him. His mantra: "When you wait until the last minute, it only takes a minute... I suppose."

Eighth Company - Firsties

Ted Rose

USMC Pilot

Ted DooHands Rose. Brought forth from the womb of the trailer parks in Alabama but actually from Tennessee, this super rugged individual has managed to do the least amount of work and achieve the greatest amount of success. Whether performing sick 180s on his snowboard or studying vigorously in his rack, he has managed to be the most abrasive person in 8th company. He has spent many a night with a trashcan hat, and Jack has been a better friend than any of us could ever be... "I ain't gonna finish..."

William Stillman

Submarine (Nuclear)

Grounds Keeper Billy, the luckiest man alive. Honing his skills as an internet warrior by combating websense daily, we have never known a more dedicated lover or more terrible friend, who managed to blow through an entire sub bonus and 2/C loan on hotels and plane tickets alone. Bill has never lost an argument nor lost control of his bowels... except that one time. Only the dumbest smart person could be the fattest high jumper in the NCAA. Sorry, we have nothing else to say cause you're never around. Here's to you, our Canadian Underwater Spaceman, eh.

Alex Tidei

Navy Pilot

Thanks for moving in Youngster year. Born 40 years too late, his Guido Scholarship ensured that he got paid more than any of us. Too sleepy to eat breakfast, or lunch, that's how he stayed so thin. Cause it's Friday, God!

Falling in line with the rest of the boys and carrying Patty's torch through Firstie year (except not telling us). The skinniest guy with cankles, Alex "Woodworks" Tidei rode the train to JMU. Here's to another 100 years. STICKS!

Joshua Valiani

Surface Warfare

It was difficult for the silverbacks of Africa to give Young Staff Sergeant (Ret) Valiani up to NAPS to begin his illustrious naval career. He never gave up the innate strength or body hair of his species, but gained a "general" knowledge of the world. His gum to teeth ratio is greater than that of any man, except Senior. You've proven yourself an excellent quitter; you've been quitting dipping for four years running. Proud member of Team Screener. Though he's a human phone book, he still had to finance Ted's cultural education. We enjoyed using your rack for bayonet practice.

Ram Vela

Submarine (Nuclear)

Rambo! What can I say about Ram? Ram likes to drink...a lot. Steady reppin' Texas, he's never afraid to get rowdy. "You've changed man." Ram loved the Naval Academy so much, almost as much as his favorite food: PPP. One things for sure, wherever you find Ram, you'll find a party nearby. Ram handles his business, so I think he deserves to get thrown. You couldn't ask for a better friend or a more dependable guy. Whenever you get mad or accidentally hurt yourself, he is always there to laugh at you. Seriously kid, you'll always be a brother to me. "Commando, commando, ahhh!"

Khalid Waheed

USMC Ground

A man of internal conflicts, this hardcore future Marine continuously struggles in the war between guitar-playing beach bum and a hard charging ground pounder. "Ryan, do you want to go out? Nah, I'm trying to save money. Ryan... do you want to go out? Alright, just for a couple beers..." "10 beers later he finds himself inventing new places to sleep. "Ryan, what do you want on your fish taco? EVERYTHING! Ptoo, ptoo I hate onionsssss." His selfless dedication to service will bring tears to his role model Sam Lehnér's eyes and his hippy guitar music is something that would make his man-crush Jack Johnson proud. Will never forget amazing times with NAPS friends R.M. and J.T., surfing in 46* Newport water (in shorts), Plebe Year SB and Europe. Semper Fi.

Erica Ziel

Navy NFO

Erica is a lover of the finer things in life: chocolate, hand lotions, Sunday trips to Whole Foods, exotic teas, and journal writing. But don't let this delicate flower fool you- she's tough as nails too! Toe nails, that is. Running on whole-foot sized blisters, this "hammer-head" is a 5k master by choice, and a Matlab master by force! Speaking of mastery, Erica's unprecedented KB translation skills, provision of bagels and smoothies, and Bible study leadership add to her seemingly endless dexterity. From whence cometh this exquisite gentlewoman? Why, from a house of sterling lineage, no doubt! Erica has the best xc dad, who redefined my world with his gift of the revolutionary fingernail smooth-buff-shine tool! Erica can often be found partaking in a post-practice ice bath, which isn't surprising since she is one of the few midshipmen who loves snow so much that she actually looks forward to the Dark Ages! But the bottom line is, Erica is always there to listen, and she is one of the most sincere, generous, open-minded friends I have ever had. My time here wouldn't have been the same without her!

Justinas Zukauskas

Lithuanian Navy

Z! Kaip sekas!? His name is too complicated to be worth pronouncing. It is funny how well it goes with laZy. Z, what is the menu for noon meal? Sir, No English, Sir. Yeah, right... He is a proud member of the 2% club, even though he met his girlfriend two weeks before Plebe Summer. "My girlfriend would not like this... your girlfriend doesn't have to see this (remember Spring Break?)" He found his niche in the strange sport of fencing, stemming from his history as a "crazy Russian assassin" or so we'd like to think. This future president of Lithuania has always been there for his friends, through thick and thin. We only ask that he would provide us asylum in a time of need.

Ninth Company

Navy NFO

Brister "Brissy/Jungle Juicy" Bishop, hailing from the podunk town of Houston, Mississippi was a huge fan of girls with diabetes, the Saints and Mr. Beam. He started four years on the 9th Company flag-football team and later dabbled in boxing his first year with an 0-1 record. Brister had a passion for training plebe girls but gave them up for his true love Raven. He will have to work on his bladder control before he can take the back seat as a Naval Flight Officer, but will be the sweetest aviator in the Navy. "You hot dog struttin' floozy"

Josh Bly

Navy Pilot

While Conan and Jay were in a power struggle to host The Tonight Show, everyone in 9th Company knew that the ideal person to fill this slot was none other than Josh Bly. A self-proclaimed West Coast "Shorts Guy" from Pennsylvania, Josh has the uncanny ability to pick apart everything anyone says in a witty manner. Josh spent his first two and a half years at the Academy on the "Dark Side" but has since been liberated and is quickly becoming a hot commodity in DTA. An aviation selectee, Josh looks forward to spending much of his career flying inverted...in whatever land-based platform he has the privilege of flying.

Jake Brosnan

Surface Warfare

Rarely spotted with a shirt on, Jake "The Snake" Brosnan has consistently impressed the female population of the Brigade for the past four years. From the beginning, Jake was delighted upon finding out he was a member of the Pirates. Jake's "AIM Game" is supposedly second to none and has brought many friends to the room for late-night study sessions. A member of the lacrosse team, Jake has always tried to embody the role of "scholar-athlete" with his outstanding math skills ($2+2+2+2=10$), stellar vocabulary and inability to do his own homework. While he may have regretted the "Chance" that took him to the Dark Side, his roommates undoubtedly regretted it more as the "6 man" temporarily became the only 7 person room in the Brigade. A future surface warfare officer, Jake will be serving on a minesweeper in San Diego. If the last four years have been any indication, Jake will have to spend more time diffusing advances from West-Coast women than detonating mines. Sorry ladies, he's already taken (sort of).

Lyzzy Brumbaugh

Army Military Intelligence

Thanks for dealing with the general-crap from us (Sorry about the can-of-air). From getting drunken-phone-calls from West-Point (Please don't lick people), to having a married-couples comparable fight, to vacations spent couch-lying and watching NCIS, Lyzzy and her family truly became my family in a vagabond-life. -DM. The real 9th-Co hippie! A quick-visit to Highland-Falls reportedly changed-her-life, as she finally realized that you just can't leave a beer-unfinished (Save-George-Washington!!!). Weekly-trips to Nanos (Sapporo, anyone?) to the unexpected-love-lick, did she discover that blondes really don't have more fun? Either-way, we love her and wish her all the luck in her future.-Hooah? -CF

Tim Bultemeier

Navy NFO

Tim: The first person to electrify you with his stunning figure and worlds only under armor SDB jacket, Timothy "The Lightning" Bultemeier lived his academy career vicariously through online role-playing games. During his 1/C year Timothy had the privilege of serving as company ATPF Officer and "GatoCinco" Guild. Whether it be youngsters, terrorists, dragons, or dark elf wizards, Tim ensured all was quiet on cloud nine. A sure to be shining star for the Naval Flight Officer community, Lightning may be some what let down when he realizes his outstanding standard command skills will be of little use. Let us all hope he can find a place for his Diet Coke collection after long flights in whatever the future holds for him.

Matthew Burchill

Submarine (Nuclear)

Matthew Burchill, or Burch to his friends, a true Wolverine hailing from the great state of Michigan. His father was in the Army. Army at heart gone Navy by fate and love for the water. He is the man on a snowboard and a loyal friend who loves to play pranks on them. Remember the auto-correct on word. Matt's intellect and lack of determination served him well as a Mechanical Engineer. To the dismay of his fellow engineers, he always seemed to do very well despite his lack of studying. Here's to lessons learned, loves pursued, and laughs shared. Cheers!

John Campion

Submarine (Nuclear)

John Edward Campion is a man of many names: Camp-The-Champ, Save-The-H, J-Chubbie, , Keg Stand, Keg Fall, Keg Pass Out, Keg Seizure, Keg Stop The Party, One-Bin, Junior, Squirt, Bugaboo, Backyard, The Help, Plan-Organizer, Clam Claw, Clampton, E-T Fingers, and Old Man Body. Hailing from Green Bay, Wisconsin, John arrived at the Naval Academy intent on having a "good college time." While at the Academy, John has upheld his Catholic values by slowly fasting for four straight years on the bare essentials: wheat bread, unsalted mixed nuts, cottage cheese and the occasional meat cup. If you were looking for John and couldn't find him, it's probably because he was disguised as a Varsity athlete in the Ricketts weight room where they have plenty of swiss balls. We planned to write more but figured he would say, "I probably could do better myself"...Wait what was that?...You're beautiful?"

Catherine Crum

Surface Warfare

Crumcakes...Crummy... Cat? Between her impressive outbursts about what she was thinking, she will always be known as a positive, fun, fully accessorized, and ready to dance girl who always had an ear open for you. Her cheering at football games for NWR's favorite player, #69, is a great memory. The van driving skills and intake of salt and vinegar chips before running 50 hill-sprints are tiny pieces of what make up a great lock, girlfriend, team captain, and best friend. With a Starbucks chai and a smile on her face, she is more than ready to face anything. After all, she was CC of 9...We won't miss her because what some call nosy, Crummy calls keeping in touch, and we always know she's got our back. "Just let me say something real quick, and then I'm done."

Joe DeBuck

Surface Warfare

With a big smile (he never closes his mouth) and an even bigger head, Joe DeBuck (tooth) is a model MIDN LCDR. Joe always insisted he was a SoCal bro as evidenced by his sick dance moves and skills with the ladies. His reputation was solidified by a stint on restriction for the one beer he downed at the Bowl Game. Joe's work-ethic results from his (unfulfilled) efforts to gain the attention of a certain pirates and supporter of Navy varsity sports (lightweight crew!). Joe will return to his West Coast roots as a surface warfare officer out of San Diego.

Andrew Duwell

USMC Pilot

Andy the Iguana" Duwell, hailing from the center for children's clothing Oshkosh, Wisconsin, arrived on I-Day oozing with motivation. A fine physical specimen, Andy could out PT anyone on the yard but was no match for the Revenge of Montazuma. Having already conquered death, Andy will certainly be a loving husband to Brittany and a fearless leader of Marines.

Colin Edwards

USMC Ground

Hailing from the "Paris of the Midwest" (AKA "Murder Town" AKA Detroit), Colin "I'm The #%?*ing Man" Edwards was always willing...too willing...to give a second chance. Always playing second fiddle in John Moore's band, Colin learned the painful lesson that a date at Ruth Chriss doesn't necessarily lead to a shirtless "MO". While Colin never had the weight or strength to row with the Big Boys, he was always quick to inform you how fast his 2K splits were and how jacked his tiny legs were. If you're ever in need of a ride to Pussers, just give Colin a call and he will quickly pick you up in his car, the embodiment of American muscle (a magenta Pontiac). A recent fan of Womens Swimming, Colin is looking forward to all the time he will be spending in Norfolk...sorry, Quantico next year.

Garrison Erwin

Navy Pilot

Garrison "GQ" Erwin, the most beautiful man at the Naval Academy, could have had his pick of the litter but chose to spend his nights alone on the couch (when Zack wasn't trying to get under the covers with him). He started his career at the Academy as a lax bro, but forfeited that life for the late hours of studying and Mac-D. Though he treated his body like a temple, Garrison occasionally showed weakness as he would sneak in a "fluffer-nutter" on late nights. Garrison's "Prayer Wednesday" could either make your day or ruin it, but he was always there to back you up. He has selected Navy Pilot and hopes to fly as far away from "CQ" as possible. "No it's okay, she just wants to..."

Ninth Company - Firsties

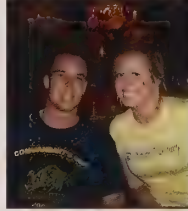

Timothy Fitzgerald

Submarine (Nuclear)

While Tim Fitz/Douglas, a muddy buddy, is most prominently known for his long strides, his closest friends and fellow members of 9th co have particularly fond memories of expeditions to D.C. and seeing his goofy-grin quickly reduced to a plebe-induced scowl walking through 5-3. Despite the fact that most people RUN from the submarine force, Timmy, the ultimate patriot, valiantly volunteered. Only time will tell if that indecision after youngster year was warranted or merely a bump in the road... Although he realized his Olympic marathon potential a little late in life, this late bloomer earned his first medal when he slipped on his throw-up and slid into a concussion on the first day of plebe summer urinalysis. Depths beware... this submariner is a capable leader, great person, and an even better friend. Heart, your buds and gals from 2011

Connor Flynn

Surface Warfare

A soft-spoken gentleman of tact and acute sensibility (cough), Connor can be found at Sly Fox Pub with the boys watching Timmie Metz jam. As a stubborn, hard-headed Masshole, this Irishman is resilient as ever. Connor's romantic when it comes to his bride-to-be, Kamila, and their story rivals any romance-novel. Whether it be making-an-argument, working-out, spending time with his girl, sparring in late-night-drunkenness with his SEAL-pup roommate (Tophier Murray), or defending his attractive fiancé's lingerie-calendar from peeping eyes, Flynn gets it done. Connor Flynn is a man of courage and compassion; his people will be lucky to have him.

Caitlin Foster

Surface Warfare

Caitlin was always a true pirate at heart, "surrendering" spring break to spend more time with 9. This party girl prefers celebrating her birthday over two weekends. A fanatic of salami, cheese, and correcting (uninvited) her grammatically-impaired roommate, nothing can stop her... unless its October 3rd! We watched her grow from Napoleon Dynamite to a girl with junk in the trunk! She'll sobriety test roommates when they face-plant in heels or wake them from the drool puddle on their desks... that's what shipmates are for, right? Watch out San Diego... rubbed the wrong way, this soft-spoken beauty delivers a brigade-boxing punch!

Tim Gruber

Surface Warfare (Nuclear)

Tim Gruber is a man of excess. Excess body mass, excessive numbers of thousand dollar credit card bills, and an excessively hot sister. Tim spends his afternoons manhandling his javelin, napping, and threatening to kill random individuals who knock on the door and disturb his slumber. Despite his numerous threats I'm pretty sure he has only ever struck a fly. Tim has gone to exceptional measures to find that special someone but has instead defaulted to a new truck, a 55inch TV, a Camaro, and two .50 Caliber Rifles. Don't worry gold diggers, he's a nuke; he can afford it.

John Hamilton

Navy Pilot

Fond of McGarvey's nachos, vegetarians, and newly-commissioned Ensigns, Pat "The Big-Lipped Bruiser" Hamilton has never broken stride...or wind during his time at the Naval Academy. Originally a lacrosse player trying to stay afloat, "The Bruiser" has become a Super Scholar and participant in the ever so violent sport of squash. One of the highest-ranked pilot applicants at the Naval Academy, "Big Lips" was rightfully concerned about his prospects for service selection, convinced he would be fulfilling the role of Goose. Amazingly, "Burch" received a pilot slot and is looking forward to some quality time in PCola. With graduation fast approaching, Pat can only hope that this year's Commissioning is as successful for him as the Class of 2007's Graduation.

Benjamin Harrison

Navy NFO

The oldest man in the Brigade, Ben "Could be Garrison" Harrison may be the poorest rich man you'll ever meet. He is quick to protect himself financially however has little to no regard for protecting his family "jewels" as evidence for his frequent trips to the 6th wing basement. An avid bird watcher on the weekends, he spent many hours sketching wildlife during hunting season. As a future Naval Flight Officer, we hope Grandpa will have more success in the back seat of his plane than he did in the back seat of his Explorer. "Sometimes it hurts, sometimes it feels so good."

Francis Hill

Navy NFO

I never think of the future - it comes soon enough. - Albert Einstein

James Howell

Joshua Howell

Surface Warfare

The best rapper alive, Josh (AKA J-Heezy) Howell spent many nights whispering sweet nothings to his cell phone, however everyone knew his true love could be found at the Sly Fox on Friday nights. From wettin Js on the court to swingin the links, Josh could dish out the Heezy burn but when taking heat from others, quickly slipped into the deepest level of depression. Often confused with a woolly mammoth, his fur coat will be a great asset standing the late night watch on the USS Donald Cook. "I will not be pawed at."

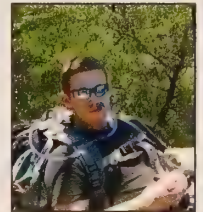

Wes Huber

Surface Warfare

Wesley Huber really did hate this place. No, really, you don't understand, he hated this place, and everyone here, but somehow he stuck it out. Wesley is an outdoorsy shooter who unfortunately found the love of his life, now he never talks to us. But I'm sure they will go on to be very happy in a cottage far away from everyone. After only wanting to service select his fiancée he would up as a SWO and wants to do VBSS so he can take out some of his pent up aggression on random seamen.

Dean Jamous

Navy Pilot

Dean: Dean "the hadj" "Moose" Jamous could always be found in MacD wearing his wife-beater. His pecks and guns attracted women like Picaso to a clean canvas. The only midshipmen to propose to his girlfriend by purchasing a tahoe for himself, Dean spent a semester away in Colorado with none other than Jessica Mapes. He lived his life at the Academy in fear of being urinated on and "randomly selected" for ATP searches. Dean looks forward to selecting magic carpet after flight school in Pensacola. "I just wanted my tires."

Nicole Kauzlarich

USMC Pilot

Niki loves Navy Athletics. Her love for track, XC, golf, squash, lacrosse, lightweight crew, hockey, sprint football and countless others was evident all throughout second and first class year.

Always one to share her love and give an equal opportunity to all, Niki made the effort to support a different Varsity team every two weeks; and she was successful. Now Niki will be "oorahing" with the best of them in Quantico, breaking necks (and hearts) along the way. She'll be motivated (motivated)...dedicated (dedicated)...to the team...our team...9th Company.

Christopher Laird

Surface Warfare

Chris "The Homewrecker" Laird just had shoulder surgery... plebe year. Always quick to fall head over heels for women and pharmaceuticals, he has been mistaken for many people including Brad Pitt and The Count. His biggest accomplishment was being head restrictee for a better portion of his time at the Academy. A man of many pickup lines, his most successful was always "Hey do you have a cigarette and do you have a place for me to stay?" Finally with some standards, Chris is in love and will continue to get back to his El Paso roots with his 6-string on the USS Nitze. "I don't care if it's your birthday."

Joy Lopez

Surface Warfare

It took 9th company no time at all to discover all of J.Lo's quirks ... between "filming" the football team and Bushwacker Fridays, this lovable latina lived life to the fullest. As a member of the Breakfast Club, she always lended a helping hand. She was someone you could talk to without worrying about censoring yourself. Watch out though, if you cross her she'll make up her own nickname for you. As she heads out to Norfolk, she'll be sure to keep the laughs rolling all deployment long.

David Miller

USMC Ground

Low in stature but high in motivation, this modern-day Napoleon arrived at the Naval Academy after graduating from the Marine Military Academy. While his classmates initially struggled to translate his "Marine Corps" into colloquial English, Trae's speech could be readily understood by the time the Ac Year arrived. A "near-death" experience at the bowl game plebe year paved the way for many crazy nights in the life of this future devil dog. A frequent on the DTA scene, this former Brigade Boxing Champ fell in love nearly every night he went out. While Trae wasn't the pickiest when it came to the ladies, he tended to prefer women who towered over him, especially a certain lover of Yard Patrol craft. Always the frugal spender, we are confident Trae will pass along plenty of financial "pearls of wisdom" to his Enlisted Marines.

John Moore

Submarine (Nuclear)

Constantly glum, sick, and overwhelmed, John Ramsay "Eeyore" Moore managed to succeed at just about everything in his four years at the Academy. A two-sport varsity athlete (participating in the physically rigorous sports of golf and squash), John managed to "fail" nearly every test he took at USNA while still ending up with a 4.0 at the end of just about every semester. John's lone blemish on his otherwise perfect record was an incident involving 30 of his other company mates in San Diego for the 2008 Poinsettia Bowl, leading to 45 days of restriction but plenty of more "street cred." John now looks forward to a career in the submarine community after spending two years studying at the London School of Economics, the perfect venue for John as his mood will usually be in sync with London's overcast climate. A hard-worker and an even better friend, John will do great things (while consistently understating how great they are).

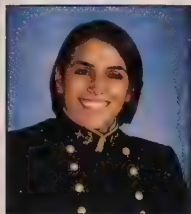

Christopher Murray

David Phillips

Navy Pilot

From just outside Birmingham, David "Bear" Phillips will never let you forget he's a Bama fan. His roommates will attest they've caught him in the act with nothing but youtube clips of Roll Tide highlights. Never one to cause trouble, David tends to steer away from debate and controversy (...debatable). As a physical specimen, he is quick to make easy bets like betting he'll never get fat (...ever). Although he didn't quite make the cut with the Admiral, we know he'll be happier reversing on a hard cross and switching to guns as a pilot in Pensacola.

A great friend and person... can't wait for more adventures! Mayport here we come!

Kahleel Richards

USMC Pilot

Bo (Kahleel St. Patrick James) Richards, the token Irish black guy in the group, is a man of few words until he breaks out the 151 and Tang on the weekends.
Adolph Richards brought the second coming of the Third Reich to 9th

Company. Bo was a huge fan of R. Kelly because of his passion for watering the world. He will make an outstanding Marine officer and pilot as long as he can keep positive control of his jacket.
Insert head-shake here

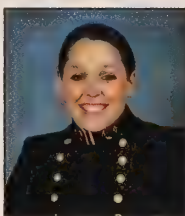

Luke Scott

USMC Ground

Luke "broski" Scott was the sickest bro to hit 9th Company since 2008.
His friends questioned his nationality because of his Russian sleep-talking episodes and were even more curious after a semester abroad in St. Petersburg.

A member of "the mini meat sticks" Luke was intense on and off the football field but don't let him borrow your car because he will wrap it around a tree. He will make a great Marine officer as long as the rules don't apply to him. "Ah dude, you have the sickest bros! I'll just stay here and board with them!"

Annika Thomas

Surface Warfare

Our dear Annika arrived a timid BCG-wearing girl from Pittsburgh, following in her sister's footsteps. While Annika and Aubra shared an experience swimming, Annika blazed her own path.
She's overcome peculiar obsessions with Ginger and Dunkin' Donuts-she's recently fond of rowing. Her barking seal-laugh, her inability to stay on her feet, this little-lady never ceases to entertain. If only we had a dime everytime we had to light-a-candle.

Someone got you down- head to her room, she'll bad-mouth them until you feel better! We wish Annika the best-o-luck as she begins as a SWO. Have no fear-Quantico's 3 hours away.

Keaton Thomas

USMC Pilot

Hokey so...this hoosier made the inglamorous transition from competition rifle shooter to male cheerleader. G-O Go Navy, Go, wherever it was he disappeared to on those random school nights which he never discussed.
Shady? I think so. Keaton spent his time counting his money, borrowing other's toys, and complaining about how poor he was. With his motivating combat roll he strikes fear wherever he goes from the cheer mat to the p-way.

He cooks, he cleans, he's every girls dream a US Marine. Hopefully TBS is kinder to this killer's shins than those Plebe Summer buddy rushes. OORAH!

Edsel Vierra

Navy Pilot

Edsel "Loviepoo" Vierra hails from the great city of San Diego but looks more like a regular on the "Jersey Shore" with his Filipino flip. Edsel recently bought a beautiful engagement ring for his fiancée worth more dollars than meters he can run. We hope one day Edsel will find his pants and can put them on. Until then, we wish him the best as he's going to be reversing on a hard right cross the whole time he's in Pensacola.

Zack Weatherington

Navy Pilot

Zack "Z-Train" Weatherington arrived on I-Day as an Eminem lookalike and graduated with his cowboy boots on. Zack loved two things, Taylor Swift and Garrison. He was a varsity football player for two years but he now can be found trap and skeeting on the naval station. Often mistaken as Shrek, Zack single handedly ate King Hall into a deficit. He was fortunate enough to sleep through his Academy career taking zero notes and still graduated with a 3.0. With a nack for awkward moments, he looks forward to meeting some ladies on the beach at flight school, wait a minute... "Where's Garrison?"

Sarah Belmont

Navy Pilot

Sarah was quite the unique midshipman during her glorious time at the Academy. Hailing from the esteemed mountains of Idaho (where's that?), she soon became an adopted yard dog after a certain favorite matchmaker paired her with the spaz-tastic Matthew Smith. Her karaoke skills, honed by her love of the Japanese culture, shined during a summer school performance of "Pop Goes My Heart." She showed her true SWO-tivated side by absolutely loving her 2 weeks aboard YP 692. Alas, she denied this SWO-ness by instead becoming the next Maverick. All the same, Sarah will rock the fleet. RAH

Christopher Calvanico

Navy NFO

CHEA! Its Chris. "The Condition." Did you workout today? If we're not lifting chest, I'm not going. Ummm, Ummm, What I was gonna say? Daddy's here. Secaucus is a dump! I got new choos to beat that beat up. Too bad you reached your prime "back in the day with my boys." Sweet brook. I'll drink you under the table, and never spill a drop... even while frolicking. Hey Chris, I got it! CHEA!

Mike Campbell

Special Warfare

A wild mustang never to be tamed, Michael Campbell is a friend everyone would love to have. With his meathead antics, "bro-lax" accent, and 3X daily workout regimen, you would never know he was a nerd at heart ranked

#1 in the class. Loyalty, honesty, and hard work have always been his true values and will continue to be as he fights at the tip of the spear. He was able to get away with everything as long as it was followed by his favorite phrase, "Whatever dude, I was the man in high school." Mike was the man, he's really not that cool, and he will save the world.

Seth Chung

Navy Intelligence

Ahn young SUNG CHUNG! Or Seth? Fitting – whatever his name he has a way of fitting in with every crowd. Sweet car! JMU, GMU, New Jersey—wherever the destination Sung was always the perfect man to bring along.

Even if he took you to bars with old ladies who think the little man with a monster heart is so damn adorable. A loyal friend to the men that really knew him; a lifelong babysitter for his plebe summer roommate (he would be employee of the month at Shoprite for cleaning up that mess).

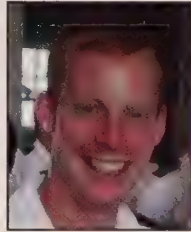

Peter Dausman

Submarine (Nuclear)

Peter Dausman is a true Renaissance man. An accomplished musician, PT stud, and academic scholar, Peter can do it all. He's always eager to volunteer for community service or to help a friend in need. He sold his soul to subs telling Admiral Donald he would get a 4.0 his senior year. . Peter didn't quite do it. On the bright side, he won't get sunburned again on a submarine. -AJA

Daniel Denton

Navy NFO

Denton. RADAR!, always true to his Tennessee roots. Can be found at any given time napping, "taking a break," building models, snacking, helping granny, spending time with BD, working outdoors, rock climbing, playing COD4, drinking sweet tea or coke, attached to his crackberry, with his contra in hand, or off exploring. Is the wardroom stocked yet? Dan can recall random, useless information for anyone that will listen and does what he wants, when he wants. Lets hope his second fiancé is a keeper or that he at least gets the ring back. "Drum & Bugle Corps, all present or accounted for!" Kat aka Babydoll

Mallory Dietrich

USMC Ground

You two are NOT allowed to MPT across from each other anymore. If you gaf with me, I'll gaf with you. Unforgivable separation. Wanna make a phone call outside? Maybe we can watch the stars while we're at it :) Hey Gunny...we heard your daughter = FAIL. Turning 21...Pussers Bar is a family hotspot. Last Dietrich reports for duty. So much freeeee time. 4 years as roommates and many unforgettable moments aboard USS Bancroft. Hit it...Get some! Pop lock and drop it!!!! BZZZZZZZZZZ

Sarah Dorenkott

Surface Warfare

Hailing from Ohio, a state not that far, ... Big S' was a national swim star. To sail the seas, that was her dream and the Academy was the way, or so it did seem. Through hard work and determination, she made it through; but on her ship she'll have more work to do. She can do anything with that big grin, and with confidence and skill she'll get her SWO pin. So here's to the laughter and the tears; the tests and the homework, the boys and the beers. Here's to those four years of fun, and onto a new adventure that's just begun.

Nathan Farish

Surface Warfare

"Why is this phone in your room?" What can be said about the SWOrrior of Mobile, the irrefutable Al-Fareesh? "Don't buy girls drinks" and other countless tidbits of wisdom are his trademarks. And the perfectly-timed, tactless comment? His very calling card. Wait, it's a Subaru or Saab? Yes. College park, JMU, DC, Vandy, Goucher (ughh), Santiago, Buenos Aires, and we're still ridin' clean. "You have WHAT?!" I mean really, who needs a flight suit when you can fold origami? Lock up your Admirals daughters and musically-inclined hot wives, gentlemen.

Matlack Gillin

Submarine (Nuclear)

Mat's favorite hobbies include running, running, talking to Kim on the phone, yelling, cleaning, and quitting the track team. You were able to make friends wherever you went and it was never a dull night when we're out with you. Mat is the reason everyone hates the Phillies. And the Eagles. CHECK IT NICE. You owned the dollar menu at McDonald's. It's cheap, but look at how nice it is! We should fool around sometime. Mat is the best jersey-hater/wannabe at the academy. Thanks for putting out the fire in Chriss closet... and the trash can... and under your desk. Mat where's your jacket? Ocean HAF never had a more dedicated student. You've helped make it a great 4 years. We look forward to the next two in Charleston. Pitchers!!

Tenth Company - Firsties

David Heuwerker

USMC Ground

Jimmy Neutron, which is bigger, your head or your ego? Dave's USNA shorts are always screaming for mercy because his gluteus is definitely maximus. Tipton? Heuwerker? Tipton? Heuwerker? Subs? Marines? Subs? Marines? But seriously, ... I'm not going to the bathroom! And so much for #2. Hey, hey, how much do you bench again? How do your like your steak? Hook up already so we can leave, but be smart.

Chris Horel

Surface Warfare

The mouse. Lickity split. Gunny's "Skinny Mini." As Cross Country captain, Chris is a leader among many--a swordfish to all. After a hard day of running, eating peanut butter, and playing WoW, Chris exclaims, "LIGHTS!" as he jumps under his mummy blanket to slumber beyond morning quarters. He's varsity--no sleep-in required. An unexpected Jersey dweller, Chris fits into any crowd. He's always ready for a raid; a dual-wielding, adventurous ally, he will set out for any destination fate will take him. But when he's had enough, he sweetly pleads to friends, "Take me home, just take me home."

Wesley Jahraus

Navy Pilot

"Broke da mouth"... the first time I heard Wesley Ian Jahraus say this was plebe summer at the Academy; after having known him for five-years. Definitely more Hawaiian than Mahuna, because he lived in Hilo longer... although some may contest that he served embassy duty for 18 years at the Jahraus Embassy (sovereign Jahraus territory). He did however venture out in his Mercedes convoy to native watch at times... but I will give him some credit. This St.Louis native progressed a great deal while at the academy, although he never got around to getting tasks done... "shoot, yeah, I meant to do that"...

Benjamin Leape

USMC Ground

The first thing many people notice about Ben is his condescending, owl-like eyebrows. Benji aka BenHamine aka Little Boy, spent countless hours in front of the mirror wondering if one day he would be a real boy. Ben came into plebe year as a small child and left as a slightly bigger small child. The only time he threw up was because his stomach was "too full". Did I say something regarding a velcro glove? His favorite place on the yard was 5445... dipping his pen in the company's ink since 2006.

Joseph Lynch

Jason Mahuna

USMC Ground

Hawaiian by heart, German by blood. Warrior ethos. Almost quit plebe year to be a pig farmer. Lifts but can't build a chest. Blacks out at alumni house. A man of many interests, but none last more than a month. Sonjadore=debt.

21st birthday, taking 5 shots, 3 of which were water, thinking all were tequila. Pulls all nighters that start at 11 pm. Mama Stein's favorite. Slumbers. Argues about everything, even when 100% wrong. Adopting the Garden State, the 973 connection. Soft on the inside, softer on the outside.

Rob Martin

Submarine (Nuclear)

Robert aka Bobby Fisher aka Robot-ert aka Bird Chest, I will finally admit... you were the best Call of Duty player in the company. You're never happy unless its 3am, you're all jacked up on Red Bull... working on robots. She probably was the cutest/most beautiful/coolest girl ever - We totally believe you. We know you'll never forget your ride on the sun trolley. You were always great at playing that violynne. "Why did that hurt so much??" Probably because of all those pain sensors. You will always be the smartest G we ever knew and the best roommate we ever had. Any one of us would be proud to be your brother-in-law some day. Thanks for being such a great influence. Charleston doesn't stand a chance. DJ ROB SUCKS!

Kalea Middendorf

USMC Pilot

e.e. cummings said, "the most wasted of all days is one without laughter." In that case, Kalea's never wasted a day in her life! She wins, hands down, for laughing longer, and harder, than anyone else in the history of the world- and we all love you for it! A superb swimmer, an outstanding friend, and an all-around mighty spiffy person, there's no doubt Kalea will make a great Marine. Remember to just keep swimming, and always watch out for those crazies!

KC Middleton

USMC Ground

You're not 172... fact. Married since the 8th grade... its okay Shelly we love you. I hope she wasn't mad after those pictures with Chris. Is this R Kelly!?!? A true American, KC sports jorts, cowboy boots, and whatever else he can salvage. Manventure... high life, a truck bed, and no shower for 3 days... classic. It's hard to imagine that at 22 you have the body of a 60 year old man (catfish anyone?). Hollywood called, they want their quotes back. Forget professionalism, wear your goat hat proud. "It's not micromanagement its involvement in the mission"... we disagree, but "Here's to happily ever after."

Tanner Miller

USMC Ground

Once upon a time, on the edge of a black hole, during a solar eclipse, Tanner Miller was born. The universe was never the same again. From a young age, it was obvious that there was something different about this quasi-ginger, amateur poet, artist, astrophysicist, underground/indie/electronica composer. Behind his rock-solid body, chiseled abs, and awe-inspiring lats, lies the big heart of a small child. After one spike shooter, Tanner transforms into his alter-ego: TOM. No food too weird, no utensils too big, no noise too obnoxious, his appetite for attention was insatiable. You always put the Kaos- in Kaosiliator. The possibilities are endless for this virtuoso 311stud. Thanks for always providing the climbing gear. You've taught us so much, old man. Semper Fi.

Tyrell Moulton

Submarine (Nuclear)

You would think he's black, with a name like Tyrell. But his middle name, Eugene, makes up for it. He falls in love with everyone, even Tim's cousin... don't worry, I'll take you to bed. It was innocent. Three beers, and he's ready to jump the wall. Open the psyche book for this roller coaster ride. He can sleep for days, even if Chris is laying next to him. Sweeter than a puppy. "Did you shave this morning?" Karate-chopped in the throat by Gunny. Ready to cry. Chest-bumps cadre over tug of war. Loved by all. Hey Ty, guess what?...

Tenth Company - Firsties

William Resavy

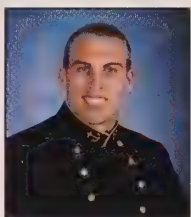

Navy NFO

Here is a toast to a New Jersey native and a wannabe Texan, to being a Pilot, to going to grad school, and to being Brigade Commander... wait none of this happened. You are an NFO, still on the Yard, and you were 1st Regimental Commander, "1st and Proud" in my Air Force 1's... To my former spring break buddy and the Baby Gap where I get schmediums... Mama, Mama... "I have to teach these Chinese girls how to dance!"... but in the end, you chased the gator, wore the cowboy hat proudly, and you know we'll always remember those two, buddy. Food.

Cheksea Ricketson

Craig Schaefer

Submarine (Nuclear)

After a few years as a special teams hero, #49 (ret.)'s wedge-breaking concussions forced him off kickoff and onto the starting defense. After a season full of game-winning safeties and fumble recoveries, Craig shocked the world when his submarine draft status surpassed his ranking among linebackers eligible for the NFL. Loyal beyond reproach, he possesses all the intangible character attributes that would make a lifelong best friend cool with him dating their little sister.

Byron Silbanuz

Other Foreign National Civilian

He did flips out of bed Plebe Summer. Watch out, Pete... BK's got a bayonet. Micronesian spy. American or Micronesian? He could hack into Langley if he tried. He chews like a horse, punishes his keyboard, and mumbles voodoo songs. Monster flows through his veins. Let's go to Rutgers... again. Byron will punch a wall to train for any future fight. Secretive about his birthday, doesn't like hugs, BK's the perfect man of mystery. He'll take the hit for anyone; he'd go out of his way to help someone in need. I'm glad he's on our side... or is he?

Clay Steele

Medical Corps

Clay is a renaissance man and a lover of freedom. Although his southern charm, mad Slash guitar skills, perfect hair, and his extensive knowledge of chemistry were unmatched, he could never quite master the art of the elusive female midshipman. Are you nervous, Clay?? As a squad leader, Clay loved his squad. The only thing that sized up to his voluptuous lips were those juicy, delicious Bubba Gump skrimps. Although many of his company-mates are still ... sour' about losing their pockets for the entire plebe summer, he finally got his in the boxing ring... by the coolest guy ever. Philly, UNC, Penn State, ... Nova, New York, Ft. Lauderdale, San Diego, DC, Las Vegas - makin' it rain was just an average day in the life of Clay. No matter where the Navy takes him, his home will always be on the beaches of South Carolina. The South will rise again!

Tim Steiner

Navy Pilot

You go first! are the words which E-10-4 will always associate with Tim Steiner. However, four short years later you would never associate this BCG wearing, trumpet playing, scrawny white kid from Corvallis, Oregon with the training officer who would gain company fame, or shall we say infamy for, well, dining out...during this transformation into Ringelsteiner, Tim asserted bravery which was lackluster during plebe summer. Of note was his bravery in the face of a certain Russian youngster in the bear pit, starting the renounced hall brawl of 2008, and of course enjoying a lofty experience during Ring Dance.

Nate Stewart

USMC Pilot

Everyone will remember Nate as the most motivated Marine in the brigade. Nate got where he is today by hard work, good finances, purple drank, and getting plenty of sleep. He could do anything he put his mind to, as long as he really "wanted to." It was always straight domination on the Sprint Field for #21. His love for sport bikes and temporary WoW excursions were only rivaled by his love of foreign women- too bad she left youngster year. You are by far the best dancer in our company. RIP stunna shades. Nate did you pay your wardroom bill? Clean up the mess you made on Dave's kitchen floor. Nate once ate 12 vanilla snack packs in one night - without a spoon. "Dat's some good-ass chicken." Good luck in flight school. "Wildberry juice is the gooddest juice ever."

Michael Tipton

Submarine (Nuclear)

Michael is a hero of the real earth. From zero to hero to submariner, Mike's career at the academy has been marked by great naps. During plebe year, Mike looked evil in the eye and said, "I will not smash that peanut butter on my head!" Tipton, Tennis, Tetris and Tool all have one thing in common: they're all totally awesome with a capital "T." Mike plans on being a millionaire by the time he is 30, so watch out ladies. Good luck chasing your dreams... and that elusive dragon. Oh and by the way, that was actually Robert with his camera. We love you... really.

Jason Valiani

Surface Warfare

As a proud New Jersey native, Josh Valiani, I mean Jason, was quite the lady killer (maybe it's his full head of hair - on his back). "Jason brought a lobster to dinner!!!" Not only a ladies man, Jason is God's gift to leadership. When he's not advising the commandant, he can be found in the midstore parking lot deadlifting duty vans working to expand his donkey kong-like chest. He needs his large chest to carry around his heavy leadership toolbag. Did you fly or float here? Doubt they'd let you fly, Hassan. You should be driving cabs, not sleeping in them. But, seriously, no good politician does that. Can I bum a pinch? Can Alf swim as good as you? And lastly, no one is wading in the water that you walk on.

Mark Van Orden

Navy Pilot

The Captain of Captains and an Honors English Major, Mark derives equal pleasure from throwing heavy, blunt objects and scribbling sappy sonnets on napkins. One constant you can rely on is some involvement of red meat and a raw, unadulterated grunt at the climax. Mark's sensitive side is accentuated by his massive DMB collection. As honest and dedicated to a life of service as they come, the Aviation community is lucky to have this tender bro. Thanks for being the ultimate wingman.

Jessica Vance

Navy Pilot

Surviving the 5 man room Plebe year and the unforgivable separation. The Benfold, enough said. Don't put a trash can in your door, even though you are a Youngstar! Turning 21, YAY for 21st Birthday training. 4 years as roommates and many unforgettable moments aboard USS Bancroft. Naval Aviation here I come!!! Pop lock and drop it!!!! Bzzzzzzzz

Michael Watkis

Navy Pilot

Michael Kevin Christopher Watkis- The freshest, cleanest, and best smelling. Why yes, I'd love for you to carry my luggage. You'll always be remembered for taking 3 hours longer than everyone else to get ready for a Saturday night in CP. At least your Fairlady moves faster than you do. Somehow you always managed to befriend slam pieces at college campuses- it must have been all those push-ups or those ill limericks. Argentina Aussies love ... em too! "We go to the Naval Academy, TOO!" Imagine all the great times you could have had if only you had been SAT.

Eleventh Company

Nathanael Adams

USMC Ground

Natey poo, the "granola" from Nowhere, Montana, who came to the Academy to show that everyone else is really that slow, especially on laps around Hotel de Fick. Of course, the secret may be in the aerodynamics of his skin. Somehow he manages to go from "not decent" to "nowhere to be found" in the blink of an eye. Did anyone hear he earned not one, but two ME degrees? Dancing is never enough at a party. Whether its low crawling to the bathroom, or running half a mile in a bathing suit in 15 degree weather because hes "getting soft," the mountain man is always on time... Mountain Time that is. Semper Fi Nate, Semper Fi.

Edem Atsu-Swanzy

Surface Warfare

Once ranked the most popular man at USNA (8.7) ... Swanzy' went too hard at the Academy when he wasn't passed out in class. From a noble boyhood in Ghana... GB learned how to swim. His veiny calves help young swanzy with those ya-yas when he dances at Georgetown. Regardless we have had great memories! From Ring Dance to late nights in Glassboro and Atlantic City, the East Coast is gonna miss this Nigro! West Coast here we come! Out there I'm sure you will find the white girl you have always been dreaming of! Keep cranking it my man.

Nicholas Bernard

Navy Pilot

Herro Nichoras! The only man from Birmingham, AL to pull the bait and switch with a Tree in a crowded room. Too bad Jack ran away with Jill... But he does have a good story from anywhere you can sail to. He comes from the only family with an arsenal bigger than Kiels... I guess thats what happens down South. The redshirts are coming! Polo under the flight suit? 60% of the time, it works all the time! Wait, what broken window(s)? He wants a cougar for Christmas, but he'll settle for his roommates FB acceptance. Enjoy the danger zone, Ice... man. Tell your mom to call Keith.

Brad Cerasuolo

Surface Warfare (Nuclear)

Bradley Ceraswallow, the boy from Tennessee/Chauvenuts who wouldn't let you forget it. "I mean..." the SOUTH will rise again! Just "take that one up with Robert E. Leeeeee!" For all those Diesels bought with your nuke bonus and the man crush towards SOB (the GREATEST BAND OF ALL TIME). Mrs. Cerasuolo, your son can sure put down some beer. Nuke SWO, my flow. #3!!! "Yeah - I can do that". For those trips to Knoxville, Athens (PHILLY), Philadelphia, Panama City, London (You sound like you're from LONDON!). All the words you brought up to the North - Rrrrrhhheaaaaarrtrttt, filthball, hhwitchit. GO SOUTH!!!

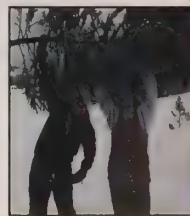

Brendan Connors

Rebekah Cranor

Navy Pilot

Bekah Bekah Bekah Bekah Bekah Bekah Bekah Bekah! You're here from Gunnison, CO. The snow and rivers were not as good, but you managed to make do by running away to Air Force for a semester. Uh, ground pound! Free fall? Or was USAFA just to escape those outstanding warrants that landed you in the Nassau County Jail? Although, you did return with a new boy toy. I guess he was just easier to take care of than the two guys in ponchos and sombreros. Congrats, now you can finally go home and make us some cookies :)

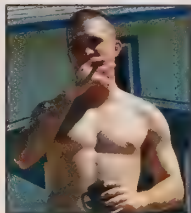

Erich DeHart

USMC Pilot

ED, Dey-Dey, Brigade Champ, RAMBO. Everyday was Mardi Gras for Erich. You could always count on: trips to ... Dillo's minutes before Sunday EMF; saying anything, regardless of situation or awkwardness; and The Best fashion: hats at Friday night-cookouts, Huckleberry Finn on SB '08 and the haircut to match "The Colonel". His pursuits never failed to entertain: the one that got away he shared (Nick says "thanks"); double dipping, hey leave some for the rest of us; and the suit and tie. West Point (and the car) will never be the same. Best of luck in the Marine Corps, Semper Fi.

Daniel DeMatteo

Surface Warfare

Daniel "Rudy" DeMatteo, the Italian from Chicago. Admiral Rempt v 2.0. From your years shared with Hildy at NMMI to the trips to Texas (they weren't HOPEless), originally came to the Academy to blow shit up.

Changing Plebe Summer into Camp Kumbaya. Not a person exists with a more complete collection of Killer 80's. You will forever be UNSAT! You are SWO to your Corps. The man with the most Chiquita banana stickers in his cover, upholding the finest traditions of USNA... Will you ever marry the Ben & Jerry's girl from Trident Light? Hawler at those JMU girls and roommates.

Charlean Dominguez

Surface Warfare EDO Option

Genuine import of Puerto Rico, she is the best friend you can have. Staying up late studying Mech-E ("Monkey") or running, Charlean always gives her all. She plays hard, tearing up dance floors, singing her heart out in Gospel

Choir. Tackle=hug. Ice=fall. Announcing "Bancroft Hall, the flag condition is now yellow" or screaming "go Navy, beat THE Army sir", she asks "pass the jugurt with the sheese-cream." Sometimes she offers a "deuce" ("truce"). What's the difference between shoes or choose, chit or $, tooth-string (floss) if you don't understand "don't move and she won't see you."

Andrew Faulkner

Submarine (Nuclear)

The Machine. Andrv®. Andrew Michael Faulkner hails from Radnor, PA. Destined for Submarines after the epic prank at USAFA, Andrew still went to Leatherneck and beat the statue of Gen. Lejeune near gate 1 in a bearing contest.

Andrew is very reliable and always gets the job done, even if it entails getting a daily average of 3 hours of sleep, which being a combination Aero major/Japanese minor did. Andrew has been known to catch up on some sleep by using a bowl of beeries as a pillow, or simply sleeping an entire eight hours in the sitting position. AWOOOOGA!

Michael Fick

Navy Pilot

Fickolas, the hotel operator from Arnold, MD. Is that a penguin in your hot tub? Marine selectees have nothing on his combat crawl. "Did we finish it all?" "No, Mike. You did." Is it jungle fever, or yellow fever? You know how to party: hat trick, pole dances, balconies, fireworks. Your phone never survives though...neither do your sheets. Luckily you have Tricare. Or Bekah. Santelli isn't coming. But the poncho fits nicely. How many mids does it take to make Sarah mad? Trick question. You're dangerous! You know how you can make up for it? "Do a barrel roll!"

Alexandra Gass

USMC Pilot

Where's Rexa? Running? Biking? With Cris? I have no idea... Rexa Rass is the bazillion sport varsity athlete hailing from Pittsburgh, PA. Somehow she still found time to be known everywhere from Dillo's to Castle Bay to ETB. "Are you double fisting?" "Nope, this one's almost empty." No matter what was happening, she always had that $%^ eating grin on her face. You liked running so much, you even did it with weights underwater. You earned that held pay in King Hall food. Beer pong? You're still in debt. We'll all miss you... especially Swiger. Merh!

Eleventh Company - Firsties

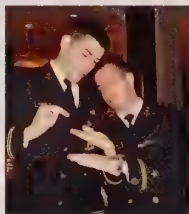

Shawn Gordon

Navy Pilot

The "shtapler" from Albany, NY. His spoiler added at least 15 hp to that V-dub. Manly car, eh? From sketchy AIM conversations, to brutal honesty, the road was rough for this grasshopper. Florida anyone? "If you LOVE me, you WILL call me!" Congrats, you've been promoted to Rear Admiral. But can you run with the bulls? He's quick to stain the deck, but he needs to swab it next time. Remember that trash cans don't make good toilets and keyboards don't make good trash cans. 11th company attention to announcements: 1/C Gordon got engaged this weekend! Let's light up a cigar.

Jarom Gunderson

Navy Pilot

It pays to be a winner.

Michael Hogan

Submarine (Nuclear)

This studly underwater aviator from Leesburg, VA looking to be the first man to barrel roll a sub. He may not remember Ball State but it will live with him forever! Soco and limes anyone? Wait, what's my bar tab up to? Hey did you see that schuper schweet no scope, guys? How was Egypt? Did you get a last name this time? Wait, we still can't ask. He would have liked to see Montana. His worst fear: Nazi velociraptor zombies. He's a carnivore connoisseur. "Mmm, tastes like pizza rolls... derrrrricious." It's a classic.

Andrew Lee

Navy Pilot

The 2%er from Punta Gorda, FL who has mastered the act of whispering sweet nothings to his fiancé for two hours a night: no interruptions. Period. Safety word: pineapple. Three short blasts, "He's operating astern propulsion!" on the way to the Running of the Bulls. But for a guy who is engaged, he has a great pervert voice... "Guess who?!" Did Fick have any new dirty laundry after ring dance? Thank goodness he was the rock on service selection. YPs clearly honed his navigation of individuals restricted in their ability to maneuver. Enjoy the "Promised Land" that you discover in Jamaica.

Grant LeMaster

Navy Pilot

Grant LeMaster, the so called Country boy from Derby, Kansas. Where is that on a map? You took us back to the dinosaur age with that pterodactyl, and made Dave P. wash his entire wardrobe (fail). Hey are you going to work out...

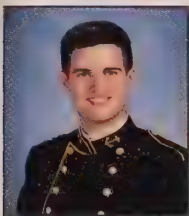

or get in your rack? Thanks for the Wii golf. For IFS... did you fly out of Westwind Apartments or Edgemere Municipal? Leading the way in 11th Company Intramurals with the patent Grant LeMaster "shake n' bake." Always known for selling ice to an Eskimo over 32. The camo floor mats don't actually hide the dirt.

Kristin Lyles

Surface Warfare (Nuclear)

Kristin Lyles- The smart and quiet coxswain out of Fairfax Station, VA, her sleep schedule is shifted two hours in the wrong direction. Up at the crack of dawn, she can quote Friends like it's her job. If she wasn't helping Tori get dressed over plebe summer, she was intensely rating her plebes, especially the problem child. Normally nice, watch yourself during crew season: she can be feisty. "Big light?" "Noooooooooooo!" "Yes, you're ac-tracking is due... before I go to bed!" Enjoy the normal sleep schedule, whether it's in Charleston or Hawaii. Hopefully sometime we can meet El Diablo.

Brandon McLean

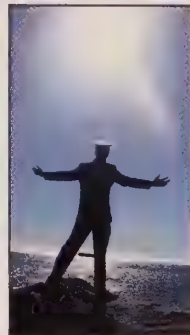

Keith Mitchell

Navy Pilot

Keith "Pretty Boy" Mitchell, the best cougar hunter East of the Mississippi (although from St Louis).

Unfortunately, the married ones are out of season. Hooyah, splash! Who doesn't like a swim in the Hotel de Fick crick? Did you have a plan for KP? What about a backup plan? "Let it out Keith, let it out!" Yes Keith, we see your goat. It is old and gnarly. Our favorite D1 athlete, sprint football (ret.) How's Ashley's car? Well, at least the rack PT was good. We'll miss the man talks while you're on the beach in Pcola. I'm Yours!

Eli Morales

USMC Ground

MORALES!!! The salty %^$& Marine, York, PA native who was born on the other side of the border. Give this guy a Corona (or 4 bottles of champagne) and he'll be happy... just remember you can't carry 6-packs in public. As a Marine Intelligence Analyst (an oxymoron), his Intel report on the enemy included "enemy forces are roughly 1 to 100,000." Although academics aren't his forte, he's fluent in three #*&% languages: English, Spanish, and profanity. Just stay above the 2.0 and keep educating your classmates with the 21st Birthday Training. Oh, and next time, don't run from the cops.

Charles Newcomb

USMC Ground

Zarchy, Zarchonius, Z-Man, stand up for NOVA. You go too hard Navy laxer. From lake parties that get rained out, flash light tag (lamest thing we have ever done!) to getting cheeseburgers thrown at your face. Reckless trips can't be better spent than going after girls with you from ECU, Penn State, JMU and throwing cinderblocks at Rutgers. For all those girls: ... I do Pilattes', Shalom, the red head, the Amazonian and the one with superpowers. The youngest CEO in America who's got a goat on his ass, it has been a pleasure. Don't forget that swaggar in the Marines.

Matthew Piety

Surface Warfare

Mattew Piety who hails from the armpit of America and rolls with John Cougar Mellencamp. "Matt, you going out?" "No, Samantha or J aren't here." The classic self awarded extended liberty - No no no (shakes finger in persons face). "Can I borrow your car?"

Samantha is coming to town, better pump some iron and trim your chest for the weekend. Weekday classes at USNA, weekend classes at IUPUI that resulted in a Mid record for most Rapid Reward points ever. Thanks for the most successful Basketball career in USNA history. "Hey, I bet I could sell that on e-bay."

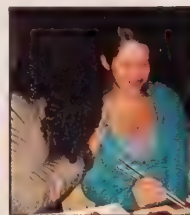

Cristina Polley

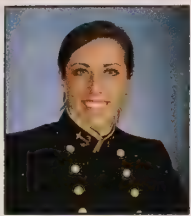

USMC Pilot

Cris (Raaaaaaaaaaaaa) Polley from Oviedo, FL, although, ETB is a 2nd home. Blue? it's on the house. Can be very convincing. Beware though, this dancing queen is not as cute and innocent as she looks: she has a nasty right hook. Oh, Key West...

and Houston... and San Diego. Dom Perignon? Or Malibu and pineapple? Check the back of the hamster. Current world record holder in the Hotel de Fick lap. Don't worry, Lexa already forgot last night. Where's that Polley girl? Where's Lauren, and what's that black dot? Almost late to the SD Bowl Game... Next: land nav and flight school.

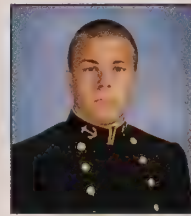

Eleventh Company - Firsties

Erin Rawlick

Navy Pilot

What can't Erin do? Erin decided to scrap soccer to create NWL. Not sure if there were ever more fans than players... but we digress. If Erin wasn't on the field, she may have been on 7-0 smiling (a little less gums, please) and being everyone's best friend. Weekends at Erin's house were wild, and Erin's voice has been described as "a mix between Fergie and Jesus". Thrift store parties, juice roofing, guest appearances at Dillo's, RD09 shenanigans, Preakness, heckled lax games, rainy concerts, and the plebe summer boot will all live on! From the only boys Steve likes, 11th Company Bros

Kiel Reese

USMC Ground

KIEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEE! This motivator from Hershey, PA... he'd rather be in a tree stand than with a girl. But who can blame him with his hunting track record (one in 4 years)? His aim with a water balloon launcher is much better. Yes, that's plebe issue he's wearing (everything, I mean everything). Why did the mice only eat your underwear? You will rue the day you introduced us to Sideburns. I remember my first beer... or was it Woodchuck? It didn't get me a Kimber though... hopefully you can aim it with that lazy eye? Fight Night never ended, it just moved to your room. Rah!

Ryan Rice

USMC Ground

Following exactly in his mommy's footsteps... Mother like son, Ryri is a true Ginger ('84). Ryan Rice is a professional race car driver, or so he thinks. Curious George couldn't ask as many questions. He only knows how to dance with his eyes closed because he can "feel the music." Ryan "white as" Rice shuts down if he does not get Chipotle in his system at least six times a week. Did you sleep with that chicken in your mouth? No matter what happens in your future love life, you will always have your mom on your ring finger.

Steven Soares

James Stranges

Navy Pilot

James William Stranges (also known as Jimbo, J, or his personal favorite, Jamal) came to us from nearby Beltsville, MD. We first got to know this day-walker as the devout Maryland, Redskins, and Orioles fan who stays up late talking with his girlfriend. A semester at West Point brought him running back to us. Like that long pause at his engagement party, we are kept in complete suspense by his chest hair only growing on one side and his actions raising the water table in Ego Alley. Fair winds and following seas, oh, watch out for the screen door, too.

Paul Sullivan

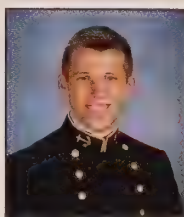

Surface Warfare

Known as Drama, he's great at nothing but good at everything. Except most stuff. If you know him, then yes, that makes sense. Drama is the type of kid you're glad to know. Trips to Alabama where he conquered things National Champion QB's failed at. How old was she, 60? Run down of last 5 years: My truck with Connors with keys in woods and the horn. Minderasers at the jetty with uptown. Brinley life. Allman brothers. Red Eyes. Pissing on your all "whether" coat. Stay out of Alleys ways, Hanging with Bo. Larry's, fifa, LZ's, snowstorm drinking, Acme. FIREMIDS SQUIDDD!!! We did it. Somehow. WE RULE.

Michael Thomas

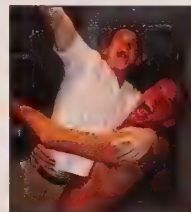

Taylor Toombs

Navy Pilot

Taylor Toombs, the only midshipman without a home. The Division 1 athlete from Naples, Italy, who sure can't drink like one. To all those Top Gun Tuesday nights and the bitchin' Toyota Celica. Did you even go to SB08? Thank God

Verizon has unlimited minutes... Does that high school girlfriend even exist? That Guss's chicken sure does smell good. Thanks for planning the best weekend of our lives then peacin... RMOOW? Yeah right... let's go see SOB (fail). Host and Post you grass fairy.

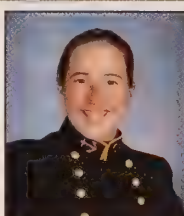

Huy Truong

USMC Ground

Huuuuuuuy!!! Wait it "Truong" from Minneapolis, Minnesota. The 5'2" misfit who can rightfully say back in Nam. If he isn't throwing knives or trying to stab his dance partner he winning Brigades in Halsey. So here to Friday night were he ordered us food at Saigon

Palace in his native tongue and Sundays Morning at Dillo were Brendan cook us up another Huy Truong special on the house... with the Asian Glow... I think now he can graduate saying his father, Grandpa Skiles, Maj Mendoza, and Maj Zembiec will be proud. Well done Corporal. Semper Fi! P.S. Call your Mom!

Victoria Wiedmeier

Navy NFO

Tori can and WILL accomplish everything including doing two majors, dominating in lacrosse for all four years, and being a great friend. In between all these activities you can find her dead asleep with her alarm clock still going off. WIDEMEIER! Motivate your socks! Squirrel! Tori the Tank (or Tenacious or Tornado or whatever the dictionary had), "break her kneecaps!" Hopefully you can end your nocturnal ways now.

Where's my cover?!?! I need it to be president of America. She's always gotta bang-bang (pistol) after school and then JUMP IN the shower after applying for grad school -too busy for homework before 2300. DRAT, inspection tomorrow! "I fell asleep in class today-- drinking coffee AND standing! Don't worry, I wasn't in a funky uniform." Her XO runs away from her, but that doesn't stop her because she's got her cover and her flowery notebook. In fact, the best day of the month is when she's CMOOW, so she can wear her cover all day. Love, the 7136 GURRRRLS

Dominique Bastine

Other Surface Warfare (Oceanography)

"WHY is my Caesar salad in the corner?" Just give her a #15, but her toaster oven quesadillas are the best. She spoke the GUUUUUUUUUUURL language, usually to annoy a certain roommate. With her new love for tall people, she can often be seen with a man who must bend at the waist to kiss her. Although the fastest cyclist in the world, she sometimes did not win the race of who could get to bed first, maybe she would if she quit sneezing. Biggest accomplishment: "I found the bottom of an Excel spreadsheet!!" Love you!! Kel, Sar & Linds

Abraham Beates

Navy Pilot

Banana Fingers. Sometimes he gets caught in the park giving cupcakes to little children. Heads up a team of idiotic Systems Engineers. Coach. Tog-gaf. MasterBeates. Maybe if you played a little less WoW you would have kept your girlfriend... . Don't water buildings on the Yard when the OOW is around, doesn't matter how hot your motivation is... Requires bravery to room with a black and Mexican when you're white... Have fun going back to your native land, avoid Disney World. Look forward to seeing you down in Pcola, we'll need your ultimate skills on the beach. Wings level, fly straight.

Matthew Carrasquill

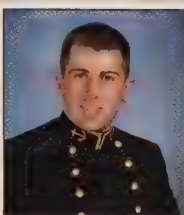

Catherine Cole

Medical Corps

Chemistry major extraordinaire... where would kelz and em have been without you over plebe summer - Mr. Lemene "miss cole! You suck!" - bcgs and hair standing straight up! Running partner - or was it tanning? Staying up late,

"another room inspection?" marching tours, random dance parties/raves "lets do it again tomorrow!", flogging molly& the jeep! How fast can you run/change? shoe-shining-zombie-movie-watching parties, wine drinkin on the couch that didn't make it! Watching kelz hop around in her sleeping bag, or was it an abominable snowman? It never got old. Keepin it real and chillin out - EMM, KC

Matthew Danielson

Sucking on his daddy's teet since the day he was born. He just inherited Big Red, Hoorah! Finest space-docker I ever knew. Just like his Daddy, he has an exotic taste in women. No way you read all those books. I don't own a spiked emo necklace... anymore! But still an emo at heart. Darksider. Super Macho, but not... A big fan of the Film Actors Guild. He was a JOE. Green vs Blue. Roommates love each other or else someone dies. Going to make an excellent Marine officer, a great friend, always loyal, always vulgar.

David Dawson

Surface Warfare

D-Town stand up, actually not you David, you're STILL the only one doing my Dougie. Yes you're still fresh DD. Adventures with you were good times from Atlantic City to Dallas to DC nights. Puka Puka or any other language you thought of were always good times my man. Repping Navy Football from the sidelines. We all know you underwent major surgery to reshape your dome to impress that MILF? Keep doing big things... like your head, and you're about to run the west coast. Yes you DD.

Nicholas Detweiler

Surface Warfare (Nuclear)

Hailing from small town Pennsylvania, Nick Detweiler took the long way to the Naval Academy. He had both prior college experience and prior enlisted experience before coming to Annapolis. Nick Detweiler was always there to lend a helping hand to his classmates. He worked hard both in the classroom and on the wrestling mat. Nick believed in upholding the standards and that everyone should be able to perform the right action all the time.

Matthew Dorton

USMC Ground

Matthew Gail Dorton, aka "Gail Guise," always loved having "alone time" with his favorite flashlight. Hopefully 25% of "Don't ask, don't tell" passes before the 28th, making Wednesdays that much better. Gail, a great drinking buddy if you don't mind a clean up, always found the best locations for his bodily fluids, most notably in Cancun. Don't catch him at the wrong time, as his verbal and emotional fits tended to hurt himself and his hand. The only person to enlist as a nuke with the intent to become a Marine, good luck at TBS and don't starve the Ferbie.

Christian Gomez

USMC Ground

National City's finest. Always repping your hood from spraying 40s at JMU, being the best boxer on the planet, pretending to be Captain Morgan at the beach or freestyling on the streets in DC. He's such a good friend he'll kill a man for you. From NYC to JMU to NJ hotel rooms, failed room inspections, shared hw, turrets guys, and white-folks. Why is your arm always stuck like that? The Marines need an officer like you with the swagger of Weezy and a million bucks. Bring a little bit of flavor to the Corps and keep doing big things.

Jeff Guise, aka "Jeff GUISE" aka "Deaf Guise," selective hearing worked for him, but too bad it couldn't improve his driving skills, the worlds "Greatest" driver (sorry Gail). "Late Night with Jeff Guise" was always fun, but don't serve alcohol there because terrorists might come out. Jeff, the self-proclaimed most well connected man in the world, always quick to share his excessively nice things. Good luck with submarines, but don't carry too many mints, I hear they attract rhinos and you don't want to end up back in Ventura Hospital. Have fun in Charleston.

Talks to anyone, friends with everyone, will make an excellent Navy Pilot. Will be the first cat launch off the USS Cougarhunter.

Peter Lindstrom

Navy Pilot

Baby talkin' Pete Lindstrom is renowned for his janitor performance that kept him in office as the longest standing 1st LT in Naval Academy history (4 years). Don't let his prominent upperbody fool you, he is highly susceptible to influences of women and has disproportionate chicken legs to help him eject from'da B-19A SuperBi. Besides his favorite pastime: looking in the mirror, you can find this industrious young lad religiously devoting himself to sculpting his upper body or being worthless. His enthusiasm and charismatic nature will carry him to success if he stays away from jousting and the ADM's daughter.

Tom Litchfield

Navy Pilot

I can't feel my aaaaaarms! Number one nasty over plebe summer. Cutting off his sideburns because the barber shop was packed to cahoots. This man shares many characteristics with the common mallard. His eyes are too close together and his nose is too pointy. The first to defend power ballads. Tom you sure they said the Cleveland Steamer? Street name, Jefferson. This guy throws up on all fours. Don't let his hot car fool you, he can't keep a girlfriend to save his life. Too nice to win a prank battle. Huge biceps, piercing blue eyes, he's HAWT.

The youngest of three boys, this back woods gentlemen never declined a challenge. From his days as a fiesty and mischievious 4/c to the time spent in the man cave on 7-1 and the wolf den on 7-0, he always enjoyed the jolly of quick wit, the taste of hops and barley, the 'menage et trois' of triathlon and the splendor of an unblazed trail. While fare wells and Hasta la Vista are not his forte, know that he will forever stand beside you as a loyal and selfless shipmate. No one knows where this dapper young man will end up, but rest assured it will not be at the end of a rainbow.

The only 12th Co. 1stie hailing from the great state of Connecticut, also known by other alibis such as JT, Cristian, Panda, Trick, 1st AZN... had quite an experience during his 4 years by the Bay. Though he is a '09 reject he still managed to be CEO of "JT's Adventures" which makes regular visits to Wendy's and ditches the shipmates behind as they all walk in V-formation to the mall, and the never ending search for Cici's pizza... Though JT hates organizing events his never ending love towards his classmates got him to plan out numerous life memories that started with 1000s night to Famous Dave's. Other favorite include his 3-day trips to Ritas with JWoep, and the journey to IROKES & Noodles... That 21st Birthday introduced him to his love of tequila at the Fleet which he still loves straight up. He would also like to thank G.Westin, his 12th Co. buddy that he could "usually" depend on to have a a tree house during a lightning storm with a broken leg, that we represented the New England Threshers Badminton team very well against the Southern Snake. After a mishap during his 2/C summer on PROTRAND, he broke his leg during a strenuous climb. He had surgery where they put in 6 screws and a plate... His body didn't like it so he gained 40lbs over a semester... which led to his PRT time from a sub 9min to 15sec's under the limit! But that didn't stop him from maxing at 7th wing gym, running 3 USMC Marathons or getting 20-shipmates to run with him over the next few years they would never forgive him. During ship night he quickly picked out his ship to join from the pile of slips with a fellow shipmate, L.M. also from his great home state, and though it didn't work out quite as expected he is sure it will in the end. Though his four years has come to a close he will never stop the search for 130+ lbs. dumbbells. It just must continue elsewhere... maybe in another country... He would like to thank his family for all the support they have given him, and especially his brother Kevin, though he lives so very far away he was always under the same roof. He would also like to thank R.M. and R.W. Best buddies from NAPS, traveled overseas and backpacked another continent. Good times were had and still more to come. Lastly, he would like to thank J.W. for it was he that exposed JT to USNA. Though it has been rough, we're just only starting. If good things lasted forever, would we appreciate how precious they really are?

When he is not blowing people up on the lax field (YARDSALE!), he is recovering from wounds which often cause people to question his age... 21?. 40? His focus in class "I don't wanna lose your love..." is second to none. His competitive nature will make him a great fodaddy. Ooooyeah.

Matthew David Biesecker, comes from Harrisburg, PA. Matt's idea of a perfect night includes ordering the chalupa from Taco Bell, then settling down to watch an episode of "Sponge Bob Square Pants," followed by late night midget wrestling. When not in class or at soccer practice, Matt is found clicking away in the cyber-war zone of Call of Duty or sucking at guitar. Do we even need to say where this DB is from? Motown's first made her way away from Canada to USNA in her all American Ford via NAPS '06 no regrets. From the Asbestos clouds of 2-1 emerged a basketball. I mean lacrosse, I mean rugby, I mean track, I mean basketball again, I mean hockey star... well she's athletic. Her talents weren't wasted, just evenly spread. Our pong champ never ceases to make us proud-on or off the table. USMC Pilot

One cold dreary night in Minnesota a yeti was born. He grew strong on inordinate amounts of meat, dairy products, and small children. After departing the motherland and attending USNA he continued to torment 13th company with his sasquatch ways.

What happened to those we lost on the way we'll never know. His choice to be a Marine pilot is appropriate due to his already apparent over saturation of Oxygen. His natural feral ways will serve him well in the woods of Quantico. Good luck to the man, the legend, the not quite human and undefeatable handball goalie.

O Captain! My Captain! AWHH. Who knew royalty could come from Screwston? From diving on grenades to hooking up his roommates with a fridge chit, you can always count on Os to help his boys out. Although intimidating at first glance, his closest friends know he's just a BIG teddy bear looking for some BIG butts. He's the only guy we know with three girlfriends at the same time. Turn down the basses Osei. Now that we're about to graduate, you can stop sweating and change your undershirt. Holla at ya boy. HOLLLA! The chaiwalah does it again!

David Kendall Baker

The story of David Kendall Baker is an epic one. It's a story of the greatest Plebe year there was. Shooting water balloons, making Supes list, and getting some broad from D.C. to bring him Chipotle every weekend were modest highlights to the story. The story of Baker marched on with dance parties, challenging chumps to fights, and breaking racquets. Every story has a villain. This story's villain, Cane, emerged with help from his compatriot Jack. This foe was held at bay with help from an ally from the mountains of Colorado to great success. In the end, lean career.

Navy Pilot BOOM

My boy Blue. Where to start? Do we start with your performance of Promiscuous Girl in King Hall? Maybe with your lack of "tact" or trip to the sailing center Plebe year. Or better yet with your binge snacking/drinking/napping/snacking habits. Blue never told a lie, but was never wrong either. From his time with OG, to his time with The Borg, and finally Caveman, Blue has had a plethora of co-inhabitants. Only man we know to be rejected 14 times...in one night. We all like your red vest, and love when you hit Beast Mode. Holla at ya boy. HOLLLA!

Quick to laugh or continuously eating some chocolate... or cookies... brownies... cake... you get the idea, she'll always share. If you're ever looking for her, follow the trail of awkward noises (or was that a dolphin?), but keep your Zoomie friends away from her, she seems to be unnaturally drawn to them! She could clear you out of the room for "safety" reasons; just ask Peggy and Kristen. From Bill the Goat runs to CMC, Toast has experienced all the "soooooooooo nice" things USNA has to offer. And assuming she can tolerate the necktab, and air sickness, we know she will be a great pilot and Naval Officer. PS. GO ORIOLES!

While the Academy didn't decide to accept Bill until the last minute, we took him in as our own right away. "Wild Bill" from New York never did quit D&B, though Brunsman never forgot to ask. He always wondered why

We love you brother, but man, thank God we don't have to smell your feet anymore. Love, the roomies ;)

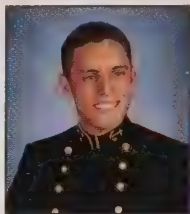

Isaiah Frias

Surface Warfare

A true man of the streets, born and raised in the mean streets of Chi-town, Isaiah Frias is what you would call a true gangsta. Captain of the Naval Academy Varsity Sleeping Team, he never missed an opportunity to skip intramurals for some hard-earned rack time. Free-free knew only one way, his way. He believed that socializing was not a key part of life at anytime before four. When he wasn't busy learning how to convert millimeters to meters, he used his time to call the Skeezies back in da hood. There's two things you should know if you talk to him: 1) Don't come at him with any bubblegum $%^& and 2) if you ain't a Bear, you ain't $%^&.

Whether Billy G is having drinkfests every weekend, being lost for 2 hours in Mitscher, running a marathon, or never sleeping, he "goes hard". He didn't go quite as hard plebe year, but Frias came into his life, and there was no turning back. Don't get us wrong, he is "very deep" OBVIOUSLY the deepest person

HE knows, demonstrated by "Juke it Garland", his affirmation that his con locker is the urinal when drunk, his seriously fat thighs, and the piles of index cards that help him keep track of the many girls he is "falling for" on eHarmony/Match.com. As long as you restrict your convo to Steelers, Penguins, running, or anything about him... you will always have a friend to count on. Did we mention he goes hard?

If you're not living, you're dying... Come tomorrow, today will be yesterday. Act accordingly.

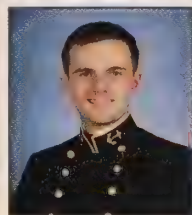

Meredith Manuel

Surface Warfare

"Meet me at the clock" she'll tell you in a room covered with yellow wallpaper. But don't believe Mertovshchina with her 27s. * pants, pinot, and copy of Tom's latest endeavor. She can be found crossing the Berlin Wall or retreating to the stronghold downeaster Fripp on her quest for some uncivilized adventure. "Which ones Pink?" she gasped at the homeless man while trading in her tattoos for a beat up old army hat and tattered green sweater lent by a friend. But she ended up flipping coins and asking, "Are you happy?" The only woman I ever met who felt safe alone in a stairwell. "I want to walk on the beach" she'll say as she takes out a 20 and pays for my cigarettes. Be sure she'd do the same for you after a drink at the Rhumblin with long happy curls and grandmas Rolex. Hers is the story of how Jet fell in love with his Beams, and how life is always the journey, not the destination.

Cory McLaughlin

Navy Pilot

Who knew that there are people from Utah who are not Mormons and not boring? Cory Sean, stay away from drinkin if your going to be in a RV all day. Who taught you how to drive a golf cart? Seriously though, you're one tough survivor and one of the boys. Captain

Solo, a true inspiration."I'm f@#k'd up"... Always with a smile that makes you think, "What is he up to now?". Uncle. Everyone loved his chair. A great roommate who you could always count on... thanks bro. Came in as a soft-mannered quiet kid... became a beast ready to be unleashed. Hold on... I'll go get my ball.

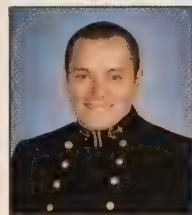

Thomas Mennerich

Navy Pilot

Tom Mennerich was the best right hand man a guy could ask for. A well grounded individual that could be counted on for help on just about any topic, be it academics or a venting session. His judgment only lapsed once his entire time at the Academy, the night he shoveled an entire parking lot clear of snow, only to get his shiny corvette stuck in a foot of snow 5 minutes later. Be it operating a jet, helo, or a wind farm Tom's future is bright and full of promise. "It's not the mountains we conquer, but ourselves."

Joseph Moffit

Navy Pilot

Rocket, here's to schlomo, to bird bath, to sailboats, to double cheeseburgers, to hotdogs, to nasty Irish teeth, to The Bucknell Bison (and not enough wingspan), to Arwen, to Aragorn, to being on Scho's good side (once), to Ian winning the battle and you winning the war, to Metro station and firefighters, to Festivus Maximus, to women's lax, to Sharon, to the Admiral, to eggs benedict Sunday morning, to escaping Nevada, to dirty stashes, to USAFA doolies, to Greta, to Sarah the merchant marine, to Saosin on Barcelona steps, to catching the 5AM train, to never ending on a preposition.

Fifteenth Company - Firsties

Stuart Murphy

Surface Warfare

Stu, Murph, Panda, Dr. Roxo. "Leave me alone, I'm trying to sleep." Never seen him pay attention in class... ever. Could always count on him for a workout partner. How does that fat kid run so fast? Never acts his age... but that's what we love about him. A fun guy to hit DTA with. Drunk Stuart: barely coherent, sometimes destructive. He used a cancer survivor as a pickup line, who does that? "UNICLE!!! Suck the Garys...!!!" USS Gary will never be the same... or as effective. "I love pizza." LEAVE YOUR MARK... then blackout.

Ward Odenwald

Submarine (Nuclear)

Ward Fredrick Joseph Odenwald IV spent his days at the Naval Academy criticizing NARPS and worrying. He has a strange attraction to yard dogs, and feisty goats. A man who learned and mastered the art of manipulation through his extensive training on the hollowed ground of NAPS where part of his soul still resides. A future submarine bubble head, he strives for mediocrity.

Samantha Randall

USMC Pilot

IQB- I can't believe you let BOBBY B steal my fries! Got a quarter? I need some MnMs, Oh wait they're free! C/ Cing in the RAV & fattiness/white mocha runs at zero dark thirty. Hockey All Star and Nana Sam's goals. Why does my laundry smell like your bag, oh and it's BAG not BEHG. She dropped out of an airplane, chased a softball, swam under the ocean blue, only to find that scoring a couple biscuits in the goal made her heart sing. Sam's a great buddy- whether running marathons or meeting you at 0300 to watch the ISS fly overhead.

Elisabeth Reed

Navy Pilot

"Why?" The inevitable question, Oh Liz, always asking and never getting an answer. "Why do I have to do this stupid pro-board... again?" "Why do I have to tuck my shirt in?" "Why do I have to do martial arts? I'm a woman, combat exclusion clause anyone?" The only person ever known to wear flip flops in a blizzard on principle. Never switched companies, but managed to live off-deck for two entire semesters. Air power! Hooyah Ops! You always worried about grades and the PRT, but never really had to cause of some freaky super awesome hippy plant you smoked in NZ. Quiet (never), caring (always), stubborn (forever/eternally/when will it stop?!), and smart (when you could focus long enough), you will be missed. Have fun in the clouds! (even though your heads been there for like, 23 years).

Ian Sciford

Navy Pilot

Hey EEE, you say "Yeah we can go out, as long as you are datin' one of my friends." Except Jo-queetha... Sweet diet-chocolate and coffee... String bean... C'mon Man... Who the heck is Bobby McGee-PCL07? Sir Elton John, JP5, that's a sweet Wrangler... Thanks for the beach house connection... Ride that train till another comes along, bic boi"... How are your beer memoirs comin' along? You can blow a mean sack and pipe bro... Thanks for stealin' my ring idea... hand over the face lil' girl laugh... Random bits of knowledge, you know your knives, but you'll never be a better cook than karl... WE love you banana hands KNMNS. TPC. TATE

William Scott

USMC Pilot

Wild Bill, King of pranks, jokes, and harassment. You're the biggest smart@ss I know but a great guy. Always had a wisecrack. Always up to no good, but made life at the academy tolerable for everybody he met, no matter what. You will never grow up. A great friend, and even better person. A bible-thumpin', truck-drivin', rock-wall climbin', outdoorsman. A true adventurer who always had something nice to say. Deserted us for one semester but we still love you. BCG bespeckled killer and bearing-game champion. "How come nobody told me Marines have to cut their hair?" It's a shame to rob someone of his flow. Can't wait to hear about the Marine who sleep talks in his foxhole... in German. Climb on dude.

Glenn Shober

Submarine (Nuclear)

My name is Glenn Shober from Reading Pennsylvania. I was a member of the wrestling team all four years and had the honor of being captain my senior. The Naval Academy has prepared me for the future and hope to become a successful submarine officer after school.

Mark Spiva

Submarine (Nuclear)

Logan Spiva, the man, the myth, the legend. Did you actually go here? We've had some good times since we've been here. YPs, Philly, and drinking don't mix. It must be nice to be so smart you can validate the first two years. It's been fun bro. Don't forget, China's the enemy, not our friend. Some say he was just a myth, did Logan Spiva really go to school? Graduating with multiple degrees, most actually will be given to other people, but come on, we all know he carried me through this place; all while simultaneously improving his tolerance. A man who was always down for a good time and a drink. I am indebted to you for getting me through this place... I'll pay you back in coors lights down the road. Logan, never have I seen a midshipman with such beautiful hair. You're the reason why I decided to stay at the Naval Academy. Must be nice to get out of an entire year of being a midshipman. Do you still go here? Validated plebe year... and first year. Thank God for Army-Navy rides and your classmates douchebagery Hey Brad, what's 7+1? Oh, and Matt Libby likes fat chicks...

Michael Steadman

USMC Ground

We have had some good times: from the first moment when I saw you, "I'm not funny you're funny," when we hung out at NAPS (remember the ride in the cop car and your little accident), to intense debates until 2 a.m., an unforgettable trip to Kenya, a crazy night in Ireland, a grueling hike where you almost died (and now you are a Marine), hitting the deer in DTA, and service selection night. I never thought you would have turned into a boxing legend. I'll always consider you to be my brother. WTK

Martin Sterling

This is America! We went out last night, and we'll blame it on the alcohol. But we did some work, we left our mark, and we barked like the big dogs we are. We bit the dogs that bit us and we pumped those brakes. Pick and choose, do what we want, shipmate. We're having fun here, so SPIT IT OUT ALREADY and DO WORK!

Chelsea Zuspan

Navy Pilot

When in class, you can always justify sleeping if you look at Chelsea. How do you fall asleep standing up?! But beware, when she's tired you should think twice about giving her an ounce of caffeine ... "Chipmunk on speed" might give you an idea of what happens. No matter what state of tiredness, she is always smiling! Her already big smile might just get bigger if a certain ginger (LT) walks by... When not on "oovoo" with her SEAL, she's probably adding to her clutterspastic desk or fantasizing about the snow, again. Washburn... ? Though she may be known as one of the only people to choke out 10 guys at once, she is always one to make you smile! Count on Chelsea to be passionate, caring, and happy. Goodluck!

Andrew Allison

Submarine (Nuclear)

Where's Andrew? Someone check the chapel! Andrew Allison grew in his Catholic faith at USNA and became a Grand Knight of Knights of Columbus. He was impossible to turn down when he recruited for rosary prayer, charity donations, or volunteering at an Assisted Living Center. Service selecting subs was an easy decision after realizing that he could sit upright in a torpedo tube! While most complain subs are claustrophobic, Andrew thinks they're cozy. -PLD

Marley Cassels

Marley (mār' l), Midn Marley Emilia Cassels Known as "Ms. Cassels", 2006-2010.
1: Pre-exam Dancer starring in 'Party in the USA.'
2: Rebel sailor in the family, the only one to GO NAVY!

3: Avid daily book devourer; best paper/yearbook editor we could hope for.
4: Midship-woman who looks mighty fine in those FDBs whos just trying to get up that hill while not getting D&B punched.

5: Stylistic force of nature, commonly confused with a tornado.

6: Professional movie (and Marine Corps) marathoner

7: Grateful consumer of 3G in Alumni; Forrestal FML checks.

To a woman with multiple definitions, we will most remember your infectious smile, laugh, and enthusiasm (plus a side of mischief and a grilled cheese). We congratulate you on that kiss and an incredible four years. -Love always, the other two DynaMos

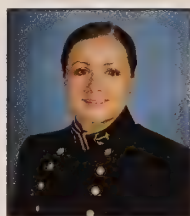

Michael Chertude

Navy Pilot

Move over Tom Cruise, you've got nothin' on this "Top Gun". He was born with a joystick in his hand and aviators on his face. Instead of onesies he wore flight suits. He'll make the Navy proud as the best Blue Angel they've ever seen. I'll fix your code, but it's gonna cost you... Uuhhhhh... how much did you work out for the PRT? Thanks for your expensive taste. I'm proud to be your wingman. A great friend, even better squash player, the best roomie a mid could ask for even if he has more game than you ever will.

Allison Clarke

Navy Pilot

Beginning with a 99.9999 pro-quiz score to the Happy Hour at Dillo's, we were always waiting on the boys. Shouldn't they have been waiting on us? Thursday is always pizza night, crammed on the couch watching Scrubs. "the real College experience", you taught me I didn't know my hometown as well as

I thought, but sometimes I didn't have a need. If being a Navy Pilot doesn't work out for you or you get bored, because you've finished all your work in Pcola before everyone else, just like always, you have a promising future in bartending, just remember the effects of mixing Tequila and Vodka, SoCo, Mandori sours. Blush is a color and a wine, so be happy, you'll always be a Rough Rider.

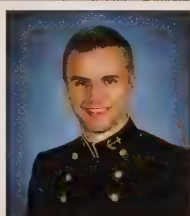

Ellyn Creasey

Surface Warfare

Ellyn ... sophisticated, smart, compassionate... One word that doesn't often come to mind: partier. Ellyn is usually found researching Economic statistics for her Trident in the ... brary (she is on the Varsity Library team), but when that girl gets out, shoosh!! She makes sure to schedule one fun thing a week. Those might include yoga, brunch, or day with her sister. Other times, however, she likes to party with FRIENDS! Whether it was ship selection night, service selection night, or that unforgettable party at her sisters in Bmore... Ellyn always made sure you had a lovely time. Ima miss you!!!!

Christopher Kyle Fletcher

USMC Pilot

C.K. Fletch, a child of the Commonwealth and true Kentucky Gentleman, brings a country flare to the Naval Academy that is rarely witnessed. A laid back demeanor, a proclivity for similes, and an unmistakable Kentucky drawl that would make a teetotaler long for a glass of bourbon and a warm chair by the fireplace, are all distinctive characteristics that, along with great charm and social appeal, make Kyle as recognizable and fun to be around as anyone. Though he would probably go back and fight in the Civil War if given the chance, (his closet dream), he's gonna make one heck of a Marine in today's time, for all time.

Kyle Francis

(Information Professional Option)

Kyle was at the top of his class in his major, but English was never his strong point. He always seemed to need help making sure Gs, Fs, and spaces didn't sneak into his words whether it was texts or homework. One of the most reliable and patient guys at the academy, especially when it came to putting up with a future navy pilot's ego day after day. One can only hope to find such a friend in the fleet and have someone to call upon when hard times come up. In case of considering taking the plunge, ask him for a reference when it comes to picking out engagement rings.

Adam Franklin

USMC Ground

Tank came to the Academy wanting to be a Marine, and we all knew it from his high and tight and his green tees. With the exception of the whole "sub draft" thing, everyone knew he would be a motivator. He gave 110% during Plebe Summer Detail, the 16th Company Varsity Flag Football season, and anything else that required strong will, quick wit or firm discipline. Tank was a good roommate, a great company mate, and even a better friend. Ooh-rah, yut, (insert other grunts and yells), and Semper Fidelis.

Matthew Hanley

USMC Ground

Hailing from South Dakota, "the Flash" takes exceptional pride in being one of the fastest, manliest, and handsomest men West of T-court. Watch out folks, this man knows more about the outdoors than Bear Grylls himself, and probably more about pharmacology too! A meteorologist in the making, Matt not only gives frequent weather reports, he can make the clouds cry. What's the secret to his good looks you ask, well maybe it's his frequent beauty naps. Be warned though, you'll wish you had rather been through two rounds with Tyson than this handsome weathersman's tantrum if you disturb his slumber. An avid fisherman, he understands the true testament of a fisherman is his ability to go out again and again, regardless of how few fish he brings home.

Morgan Hill

Surface Warfare

When Morgan Hill set foot on the yard, the Naval Academy had seen none like her. One might think her bright blond locks and carefree nature contributed to the multitude of blond jokes circulating King Hall. Yet even when this fashionista forgot she attended a military academy and sported her pink purse in any "outfit" of choice, this New Mexican could spread an infectious joy to the Brigade, making life at USNA slightly more bearable. Whether on a basketball court or in her cowboy boots, Morgan was a friend to anyone who knew her. We'll miss you!!

John Huffstetler

USMC Ground

Reverend, your reputation precedes you. Usher dresses nicer, but you could probably out dance him. Bringing the place to life wherever we went, there was never a dull moment with you around. This guy can pull any girl he wants; although when he's drunk he pulls girls no one wants. A born Marine if there ever was one. Just remember when you're shivering in that foxhole, that some time down the road, when the Stars align, we'll get back together and party like it's 2010 again.

Dominic Iacopino

USMC Pilot

Dominic Iacopino, hailing from New England, easily makes the Naval Academy's top ten. What top ten you ask, how about the following; sexiest midshipmen of all time, most likely to end up on the cover of Gentlemen Quarterly, fan of the midshipmen Sunday staple, Moe's. Oh yes, it's true that Doms' love of his hair rivals that of his roommate, but he was able to part with one of his more distinguishable features in order to prepare for his Call of Duty inspired future role as a Marine Pilot. 11 kill streak, yut! His killer environmentalism is on display as he rolls in his Prius. He is an amazing man and will be one heck of a Marine.

Sixteenth Company - Firsties

Joseph Jennett

USMC Ground

A base jumping Rastafarian at heart, Joseph "JoJo" Jennett may be the only person on the yard who truly appreciates the height of Ward Hall. JoJo's misleading 5 o'clock crustache has perplexed the staff of El Toro Bravo for years, but that doesn't stop him from enjoying a Mega Margarita or two. A future marine, Joe comprised one half of the most heavily armed room in the brigade. Joe Jennett has never turned down an opportunity to PT and is the only one of us to always get excited about getting wet and sandy.

Patrick Jones

Navy Pilot

From the 'Black Hole of Life' to almost being a Dad... probably more than once, Pat dreamt of being Jacked and Tan... keep dreaming. Need an update on his life? Just check Facebook, updated by the second. Watching MMA fighters on youtube, he continued to dream of greatness. Reality set in while marching tours and serving restriction after Operation: RETURN VAN. Its okay he found solace in whole packages of Oreos and gummy bears, not to mention the GNC outlet found in room 4160 of Bancroft Hall. You may have lived with us the past four years, but we survived you.

Todd Kramer

Medical Corps

Toddles, Toddus, Toddert, a smile, a laugh, a light in your day, a real Californian, the sexiest man in the hall, a slight accident in his 1st surgery. Who's that dude in the Hawaiian shirt? Always disappearing to Halo conventions on the weekends. To the man who looks more like Matt Wilder than Matt Wilder... Here's to a case of mistaken identity. As the honor advisor, Toddles exceeds honor expectations and remembers to shave everyday. The smartest man in the company, Todd "The Doctor" Kramer knows almost as much about medication as his roommate. Always first to help his classmates.

Phillip Martin

Surface Warfare (Nuclear)

One of the only people we know who with a straight face could tell our Training Officer his real name was "Philadonious." Whether Philadonious gained a love for perfect uniforms during plebe summer or later in his academy tenure is uncertain, but he most certainly has the most on point uniform of all midshipmen. Keeping the phrase alive, "there is nothing cool about being a plebe."

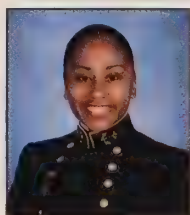

Nathan Mast

USMC Pilot

A modest dairy farmer hailing from Central California, Nathan is easily one of the most interesting midshipmen at the Naval Academy. An avid gun collector and caffeine addict, Nathan puts a whole new meaning to the term "trigger happy," and should be fine so long as he flies something "that has guns on it." At 6'3" with a smile that requires sunglasses, Nathan takes "tall, dark and handsome" to a whole new level. Nathan's patience and fun-loving attitude make him a great guy to hang with, and his level headedness and reasonability will make him a great officer.

Gysself Mazo

Other SWO (EDO select)

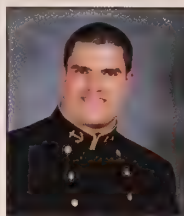

Gysself Mazo, aka Parce, is a Colombian hottie that can shake it on the dance floor. She is not known for her common sense but has proven to be a little math whiz. She's a very trusting and loyal friend (thanks for letting me borrow your car for almost a year!).

Her middle name is "Trouble" and she does what she wants. Gotta love this bad girl. Despite her small size, she packs the biggest weapon of all... her heart. Whether it's trying to keep up with a New Yorican on the dance floor or breaking hearts all over the USNA minority sector, Gysself will always put a smile on anyone's face and warm everyone's heart.

Surface Warfare

Years have past and finally the void has been filled. For the past four years a particular K-shka has been thinking of how much it wanted to be with the Ptics. Now that the Pas are close to the C-ies and the C-pies are comforting me with their ever beautiful presence I can only regret that it all hasn't been so in the past. The days of happiness are here and the C-pies have found their rightful place. The 52s will always keep the 32s in check and K-shka will always try to be a K-shka. Stay Crisp, stay yourself. You are the best that I could ever hope for. Life is only beginning now ...

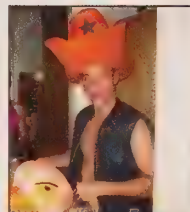

Nicholas Nussbaum

Submarine (Nuclear)

AKA 'Papaganuss'. Oh nuthead, only you can make those thick of BCGs look good. "Don't worry, the Air Force will save us". Anyone up for dancing on the balcony...in private? What a Joe, sweet Craftmaster. You could always count on him to be there with a camera for his roommates 'ECAs'. Tommy's soulmate. A master of never setting a good example but somehow always ending up right where he wanted, his balance of good times and academic success can not be matched.

Dan O'Keefe

Navy NFO

Running on 5 Hour Energy or $5 foot longs "LAX to the Max with my hair on fire" O'Keefe could be seen any given weekend supporting his beloved Communist, Oven-Chicken yelling "C.A.P.S." or "Wash that Sucker. Yeah." Heart attacks expected by age 29 from watching Sidney Crosby score against America, playing NCAA Football, enjoying roast beef, Bamboo Bernies, or the Varsity Club. Never fear America, Goose is authorized to carry a gun to defend you against terrorists but don't let him ride in your truck. Are you ... freaking' serious? Yes, we are ... freaking' serious. Love, PWJ SCS.

Representing the great state of Ohio, Ben never misses the chance to obsess over his beloved Buckeyes. But watch out if they loose, you won't hear from Ben for the next week. A fan of wikipedia, youtube, jeopardy, and unnecessarily loud classic rock, he spends most of his time napping and getting huge in MacD. If you ever need to know about the great lakes, the Civil War, or the name of the 70s rock band playing on the radio, just ask Ben. He'll match you with his wit, his humor, and his good-naturedness anyway, just make sure...

Andrew Adelsen

Submarine (Nuclear)

Not only is Andrew the prototypical SWO, but he is also the only man ever to not know the true use of the shift key. Andrew is unarguably a special midshipman and genuinely unique in everything that he does. Who can forget his outrageously loud laugh, his bellowing voice (so much so that he does not know how to whisper) and his love for Katie Fahrner. With his unmatched ability to work MOBOARDS, Andrew will be an incredible friend, mentor and SWO (assuming he learns to recognize the subtle uses of sarcasm).

Leonardo Alvarado

Surface Warfare

Marino de la gloriosa Armada del Ecuador; responsable, luchador, carismático, emprendedor, amigo incondicional. Disfruto de cada momento como si fuese el último; trato de vivir la vida al máximo y sin reproches. Orgulloso de ser latino y siempre dispuesto a compartir mis ravíes y costumbres. Todo lo conseguido ha sido gracias a Dios, mi fortaleza; mis padres, mi apoyo constante con sabios consejos y mis amigos, que le dan ese brillo especial a mi vida.

Sara Artime

Surface Warfare

Sara got a start on life in Tennessee. Born to a pair of Chiefs, you could say life got less complicated with only one SEL to worry about. I first met Sara when she informed me of how terrible Monsters and popcorn were for breakfast while sitting in Steam class. Since then, I have watched her amazing transformation as she has grown and matured into the outstanding Naval Officer she is today. However, the way I will always remember her, is that bright yellow "Point Loma" sweatshirt, and the smart, funny, witty, and beautiful woman sitting inside it. -BG

JT Blake

Navy Pilot

Sexy gymnasts? Only our JT comes to mind. This fancy dancer puts the "Old School" ribbon routine to shame... and there ain't no school like the old school... and he's the Headmaster! 18th Company's superb event planner, he may or may not spend nights sitting on DFM's lap... but they're NOT like that! This little young man proves the gymnast can get the girl and bring home the bacon. Double-fisting... is there any other way to drink beer? Naval aviation may not be ready for this guy, but they better get ready because here he comes.

Alex Burtress

Special Operations

"Fancy Pants" seems a poor nickname for a man that was rarely seen wearing them. When he wasn't smoking pot with Johnny Hopkins he was undoubtedly disobeying a major Navy policy that was probably repealed in 2011. Alex was a generous shipmate, and if asked for anything would gladly return what he had probably stolen from you. Despite his good looks and obnoxious Ray Bans, he will always be most famous, like Yoko Ono, for breaking up the band. IT'S A TRAP!

Sunhye Cho

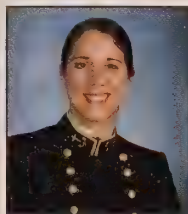

Surface Warfare

Always smiling, maybe that's why some call her "Sunny." Sunhye "Sunny" Cho is a foreign exchange student from the Korea Naval Academy. Four years at the U.S. Naval Academy may be the best time of her life. Upon graduation, she will be smiling in the Korea Navy as a Surface Warfare Officer.

HOORAH-RAH 18th COMPANY!! Semper Fi, yut-yut, devil-dog... KILL!! What's that? Did someone rearrange your desk? Weird. From coffee-connoisseur to World of Warcraft, this Illinois devil pup will not hesitate to kick your butt then PT after hard cider... and shots. Most people don't know, but the "s" at the end of Illinois is not silent. "Monday is for HOUSE... do NOT bother me on Mondays." BWOS (burrito walk of shame)? She invented it. Want a random fact... buy her one too many beers. Watch out terrorists - here's the best addition to the Marine Corps since Close Air Support.

Paul DeLuca

Navy Pilot

Pauly D aka "the diesel" aka BICEPS... he spent most of his time doin curls, talking to himself in the shower, throwing up after 2 beers, chasing hoochies, mackin his teammates' sisters, and sleeping during practice, when all he really wants is to get an F-18 and fly to his home planet, as long as his co-pilot doesn't look like the shipmate driver. Kid coulda been an All-American wrestler if he hadn't have gone 0 for in the room bouts.

John Eutsey

Submarine (Nuclear)

You can always tell if John's been in your Nutella if there's hair. Gross! Firstie brass, youngster... friends? This Cowboy Cassanova often has problems zipping up his pants and it's not because they're too small. Not to mention his strange cheesecake au natural eating habits. TVs, hamsters, Bose, and youngsters - there's nothing a sub bonus can't buy. Kudos to this kid, though, because his mom provides a never-ending supply of goodies to 18th Company. Watch out American enemies and girls on subs... John Eutsey's coming your way!

John Hale

Navy Pilot

If the giggling of a young school girl was ever heard in Bancroft hall, Jack "the prankster" Hale must have been near by. In addition to his constant giggling and boyish smirk, Jack was also known for his strong attendance at formations, love of short people, and letting go of grudges... although a certain lady from Idaho holds a well-deserved grudge against him. Apart from his endearing flaws, Jack was a PT stud and one of the toughest guys at the Academy. He was and is a loyal friend we will never forget. Thanks for the laughs.

Charles Haslam

Navy Pilot

Charming, winsome, and only slightly illiterate, this dashing shot of Southern Comfort is a party on two feet. Despite his outrageous pre-PRT antics, blonde Man Law violations, and unfailing adherence to the One Point Lower

Theory, he never fails to find time for submarine research, or perhaps a photo in front of the flag. Never underestimate the power of a cup of coffee...or the women in the Coffee Mess. Sir, look at this body! I carry my weight in my legs... TELL IT AGAIN! Even if the Dodge is a piece... Much love, stud-- JDG, PJG, TAL, SCM

Michael Head

Submarine (Nuclear)

Known to those close to him as "El Mustachio" for his lack of facial hair everywhere but his lip, Michael will always be remembered for never backing down. Often referred to as the alpha male in his room (by him alone), you could always count on him to sarcastically berate you when it was least needed. After several years at the Academy, this skydiving junkie abandoned his dream of Naval Aviation with the abrupt decision to join the submarine community's All Volunteer Force. Mike will undoubtedly have OUTRAGEOUS FUN in his [five year] career in the Navy.

Firsties

Andreas Hofleitner

Navy Intelligence

Hallo, where is the Chocolate? were the first words that came out of Night-Owl Hoff's mouth on I-day. This Arnold clone was notorious for his improvisation of the American language; for example, he believed in Solar Bears instead of Polar, pasta instead of rasta, and limb instead of limp. This allergy-prone Austrian was learned in the yard dog arts of stashing his food... no one is deserving of Gerlinda's food. This 7-year college veteran practiced his speeches in front of his: teddy bear, bill the goat and Nutty McSquirrelson. Hoff was a great token foreign friend and roommate.

Jimmy Housley

USMC Ground

Though Jimmy only worked out twice a year while at USNA, his race horse heart allowed him to maintain the highest PRT average in the company. His customized training regimen consisted of massive amounts of red skittles and fruit snacks followed by a soothing Golden Shower. He is one of the most competitive people at the academy; however he was never able to beat his plebe year first semester roommates at anything physical. The last four years have been great and we hope to keep in contact, overlooking that you may never hear from us again due to your miniature ears.

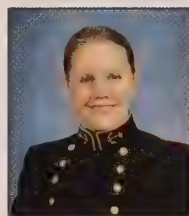

Michael Kerrigan

USMC Ground

From Kerriguns to the "Stuka", Mike was never lacking for a nickname - or facts about Charlottesville, VA. Mike found his true calling as a member of the "DIVA JEVA" and a Euro cycling enthusiast - if "The Jan" could do it at one speed, why couldn't Mike? Consistency was never Mike's problem - even if it sometimes meant answering the tough questions. Mike, we'll always be ready to get drinks at "half-time" with you!

Sarah Klenke

Navy Pilot

Whats in a name? A rose by any other name would smell as sweet. "The Col," "K.J. (Katie Jr.)," "Glitter," "J.G.," and "Pookie" are all one and the same- the one, the only, Sarah Ann Klenke - from Kansas. Is that even a state? Nobody cares about the deepest hand-dug well or ball of twine, but don't tell Sarah! This homegrown country cutie stops traffic with her "special" smile. "They" may be trying to control her life, but Sarah always has, and always will march to the beat of her own drummer. She'll show Oklahoma how a true "middle-of-nowhere" state parties!

Greg Knopik

Navy Pilot

What can we say about our "Princess Buttercup" from plebe year? Those scarlet red cheeks never tell lies. Being from Wyoming, you'd think he'd like buffalo, but he's always been partial to the more exotic goat... his boots and blue jeans are rivaled by his sequined figure-skating outfits. Always trying to relive his glory days, he never missed a parade in those revealingly-tight parade pants. Always dependable with a twinkle in his eye, Greg never failed to bring a smile to our faces. Navy Air is lucky to have this Wyoming stud.

Justin Kramer

Submarine (Nuclear)

Kramer, like the goat, is old and gnarly and rarely went to remedials. He is famous for knowing more rules than any other Midshipman, and yet he still fails to follow all of them. He did the typical scum-E thing to do and dumped all of his money not into one outrageously useless sports car, but two. But don't ask him if this was a good choice, he will just get loud and uppity until you agree that it was a great life decision...and for the sake of time you will concede. Great Success!

Eighteenth Company -

Navy Pilot

Hot pink spandex? Would we ever have expected anything else from our Washington-the-state native? "Hey dude, it's whatever." With abs of steel, courtesy of KT Fahrner, this stud was meant to PT over plebe summer. One of the most experienced catchers on the softball team and Aerospace engineer extraordinaire, this space cadet plans on reaching those stars someday. The Navy isn't ready for a pilot of this caliber. Shoot for the moon, even if you miss, we know you'll be out of this world.

Emma Mattson

Surface Warfare (Nuclear)

The only thing that went through the lacrosse team faster than Emma was mono. The company was so excited when she finally got that Midol she asked for during Dear Santa's. Her quick wits and social demeanor made her a favorite among the Brigade.

Most of 18 were mostly just known for being in Emma Mattson's company. Our favorite memories were the ones pieced together throughout the days following. Her firstie year obsession and undying devotion to CrossFit and nutrition dumbfounded the rest of us.. we finished our last PRT, go have a beer and a burger you cave... woman?

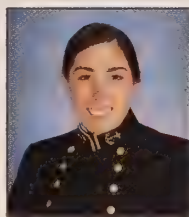

Daniel McCawley

USMC Ground

Daniel Francis McCawley (DFM) has demonstrated throughout his four years at the Academy what it means to be an outstanding midshipman. In his four years, DFM has not missed a single formation or football game. His room always looks spotless and squared away, making his organizational skills something to be admired. Every day brings new lessons for DFM, from the realization of the main ingredient in pickles, to understanding that just because you are a guy, the world is not necessarily your toilet. His caring and dedication will make him a great leader of Marines, Ooh-rah-rah 2nd Lt McCawley.

Kathleen McDonald

Surface Warfare (Nuclear)

We're adults. When did that happen? Lord McDonald can be described only through her actions: embarrassing dancing, hippie environment love, eating mac and cheese, and ONLY studying with a certain hat. Always trying to follow in my footsteps, she got her first and only major: pathetic MIA from a football game. From hiding fridges in cardboard boxes and playing drunken guitar hero in the hall, to frequent brawls and THE FIGHT. We've had our ups and downs, but it sure has been a good ride. (Too bad she replaced me with her new love, skiing.) Love you still! -Kails (UGH)

Michael Miersma

USMC Pilot

This tall, southern Kenyan cowboy wasn't actually born in Texas, but he got there as fast as he could. This gentle giant is extremely awkward, but a world-class skier. He's learned to survive the African wild, but we have a different breed of cougar here in Annapolis. Of coffee and trucks, he can never get enough. Mike eats so much, King Hall gave him his own table... and server. He loves his cowboy boots and singing country songs, but we recommend he keep his day job. Seriously. Good luck inside the Marine cockpit, Mike! Hoorah!

Craig Perry

USMC Pilot

Often confused with Denzel, not even hundreds of pints of Ben and Jerry's could erase his 16-pack abs! From late nights doing homework to numerous all nighters spent slaving away at large papers, Craig became a master procrastinator during his time at USNA.

Unfortunately, many made the mistake of waking him from his post work nap thus unleashing grumpy Perry! Even with the grumpy moments, Craig understood the value of being a good shipmate and sacrificing for the team even if it meant spending a lot of time in the rotunda or District Swine.Koko... wait!!! Eric Ruby's Varsity status does more than guarantee him the everlasting respect of the Brigade. It also guarantees him a special liberty policy, but not access to the football players' yogurt.

This distinguished gentleman enjoys the finer things in life, from coffee to cigars. From the dirty-thirty to the book of Job, Eric's won the award for most-changed 18-er. Eric is basically a kindhearted Pennsylvanian converted to Texas "cowboy" and dead sexy... complete with the pilot comb-over.

He is hailed as a bro and self proclaimed "the man" however, he relies heavily on his world class crying and whining abilities to escape the jungle that is 2237.

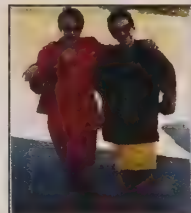

Matthew Smith

Submarine (Nuclear)

Matt "Spastic" Smith graced the Academy with his presence in the summer of 2006. From I-Day, "Who is Spectacles?! Where is my bag?!" to the deep traumas inflicted by 1/C Fahrner, Smith has come leaps and bounds from his freak out days... or at least, manages them better. The little guy with the biggest car - we could always count on Matt to laugh at everyone's jokes. A student of the D. Marino school of ... how to walk with giant invisible lats', he struts to lightweight practice every day. "I can't... I have practice." While Matt's time was spent "out with Sarah" when he wasn't with the team, we always loved our resident "Tail-T". From the surprise of his plebes, that Mr. Smith was not 6'2", 250 lbs during plebe summer to his time as training officer, "BREAKFAST, MUIRHEAD!" Smith is constantly on the look out for ways to better himself as a person and leader... and ways to add to his wardrobe bill. You can always tell how much fun Hadley had over the weekend by the level of disarray of her closet...if you can get past the beer wench costumes, togas, and various other sultry items. Our favorite

YUT. CUPCAKES. KILL. POKEMON. DEVIL DOGS. SHORT GREEN SILKY SHORTS. All topics that excite Dear Preston. Whether PTing in MacD or snuggled up watching Scooby Doo in his leopard print Snuggie, Preston is the physical embodiment of a Midshipman. From the drill field to the dance floor, MayMay was always the first to "drop it like it's hot" and could whip out the stiffest knifehand of the Brigade. He also prided himself in his variety of crappy movies and loved sharing such classics as The Scarlet Pimpernel with us all. Preston will always be our favorite little Egg.

Christie McAllister

Navy Pilot

Christie was always thinking BIG, but not too big. She may be small in stature, but she has a BIG personality. She made a BIG impact on the Rugby field as well as in our hearts and eardrums; Squeaks was not just her nickname. Frau Christie spoke the Deutsch and always loved a BIG meal of schnitzel. Hopefully, her polar bear can survive the BIG adventure of flight school as it has survived four years of brutality in Bancroft. We look forward to seeing her fly above us all in a BIG ol' airplane. BIG loves and kisses- Your Roomies.

Matthew McCoy

Submarine (Nuclear)

Never far from a sandbox, Matty- Matt's knowledge of dump truck sand capacity was unrivaled. A legend on the softball field, Matt may be the only Midshipmen to never get a single hit. "It had a wicked 12 foot arc." Almost a member of the 2% club, Matt's love for women's soccer hindered this accomplishment. A fine physical specimen, his consistent 83% on the PRT never quite kept him off remedials. Listed as one of the most annoying sports fans ever, Matt's love for the Rays was only surpassed by his ability to instigate. K, See ya, bye.

Ian Meredith

Surface Warfare

Ian "baby fingers" Meredith hails from the Nooga, Tennessee. His hobbies include throwing pumpkins at plebe girls, taking sub interviews (closey Pelosi) and texting SomSom6969. Generally a man of composed, grandfather-like habits, he is prone to the occasional emotional outburst when confronted by animals in the night (on my head?), fourth quarters and the loss of weekend liberty (Mr. Meredith, stay after). Ian was always all in from his patriotism to whatever happened at 10pm in A.C. (I'm not drivin'). Ian has all the qualities that make him the best friend and a true brother. - 4317, 4306, 4326.

Alexander Mills

USMC Ground

Even though Big Al Diesel hails from the land of movie stars, his lack of movie knowledge is almost as astounding as his ability to weasel out of military obligations. If it were not for his motivating high and tight, he could easily be mistaken for a Johnny with the amount of time he spends out of class and at coffee shops. His honors paper must be the best the political science department has ever seen with the amount of time he spends at McGarvey's getting E.I. While Alex may be the Supreme Allied Commander of Kart and the conference circuit, he has as much luck with women as he does traveling the streets of Boston. No one could ever ask for a better roommate and no one could ever make a better Marine - 4317, 4306, 4326.

Penn State get away pizza bandit, from humble beginnings as a retard, your many scarves and gaytalian boots highlight your metro tastes which now includes your STOOOR KEWK! Love you and your eccentricities, here's to you and your guitar and the good times we'll always have, Nilsy, Topher, V5

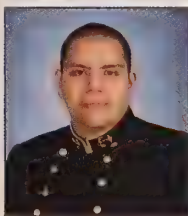

Jason Murphy

USMC Pilot

It's hard to describe Jason "Murphenheit 9/11" Murphy in only 100 words.

Where to start? Hulkamania's biggest fan. Cub's biggest fan. And, of course, a fan of Ohio State's biggest fans. But not a fan of King Hall, especially their serving tins, which caused his premature relief of squad command. He'll always be in debt to Canadian bums. His style will always be a few steps ahead of his age (at least until he's 80). At least he made it through, unlike all his roommates. Go Murphy Sir!!!

Anthony Newvall

Surface Warfare

Big Papa Newvall, you are everyone's favorite minority...except Vince Texeiras. But hey, at least you graduated, right? Thanks for making Best Buys stock skyrocket while at the Academy. Asian Larry Diddlemeyer didn't even know that stock tip. 500 doll-rawr!!! Always willing to "share his wisdom" with the new 4th class, he could be seen at chowcalls 3 times a day. They may not know their rates, but at least they know all the latest rumors. The fastest big-man in Naval Academy history, he plans to go to Japan where he will revolutionize the sport of Sumo Wrestling.

Jon Routson

USMC Ground

Never far from his twin pythons, Jon was always true to his west coast bro lifestyle. On his way to make a cool million through blackjack, online day trading, spear fishing, unparalleled volleyball coaching prowess, and going platinum Jon was a true renaissance man. An avid swimmer, Jon's diving skills were extreme and his skills on the ski slope are considered legendary. Jon's mantra: Go Big or Go Home. The only question left to answer is, do you power slide or play it safe? And remember, the S's cancel.

Firsties

Evan Rutherford

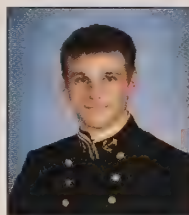

Brian Scharp

Surface Warfare

What can we say about Brian that he hasn't already added to Wikipedia himself? With his recipe for Pina-Colodas and his knowledge of Irish cooking (gleaned from his years as an Irish exchange student), Brian was always destined to write a best-selling weight loss book - after all, the world needs to know that natural foods have no calories. Everyone's favorite SWO, maybe he really will be the first to Iraq - he certainly has to avenge all those good men he lost on summer training.

John Ulett

Jonathan Ventura

Submarine (Nuclear)

Homegrown in Bethesda, Jonathan has always been known to keep his home close and his girlfriends closer. Weaseling only the way a Ventura can, Jon was the first midshipman to master strengths and materials on facebook and youtube. Plebe year: College Park, restriction, egg sandwiches, SMT? Napping during the day and on "the sun" at night, Jon hosted the best parties: round robin, kart, mids it! Always a social ambassador, he introduced Asia to his epic flow, pastel wardrobe and the Dreamworks kid. With his PRT scores and $10,000 wrist, Jon is the poster child for the nuclear navy. If he's only half the submariner that he was a friend and roommate, he'll be a great officer - 4317, 4306, 4326.

Navy Pilot

Also known as Ash, the greatest Pokemon trainer of all time, Drew often could be seen leading D&B with guide-on in hand or behind the bells. In true pilot fashion, the only thing he loved more than his own hair was red hair.

Though never a regular of Mac-D, Drew's lats were the envy of all. Too good for the Navy Diving Team, his Shamu flop is a thing of legend. Truly the man who has it all, Drew was never hesitant to get more. Pump the brakes, Drew, chill, bro, chill.

Brittany Winters

Surface Warfare

What do USNA, lacrosse, West Point and economics have in common? Brittany Winters, of course. Arriving at the Academy by way of NAPS, Brittany isn't afraid to make up her mind... and then change it! She's a math, no, economics major headed for the USS Normandy. She'd never played lacrosse, but started two years on the team before an exchange term at West Point where she joined the marathon team. Brittany's proud of her fitness and was her company's Physical Missions Officer. Future physical trainer, maybe? Fast, smart and strong... she's an inspiration to red-headed stepchildren everywhere. But most of all, she makes us profoundly proud. Woot! Love Dad and Brian.

Stuart Anderson

Navy Pilot

Hailing from Tennessee, Stuart Anderson is a natural outdoorsman. Fending off wild cougars with a single finger, drinking wolf excrement, and sacrificing his own body and personal safety to put out forest fires are all in a day's work for this future aviator. In fact, the only thing that hinders his on and off again "relationship" (with the environment) is that pesky radial fog common to the Chesapeake area. Even in fog, his eyes are so good he doesn't need to screen watch.

Tyrell Arment

Submarine (Nuclear)

Tyrell "the Brown Fog" Arment is always hungry and sometimes asks for seconds. Although he appears to be a typical midshipman on the outside, there is a mysterious person hiding behind that agreeable demeanor. He is that type of person that says no to using his second class loan to buy a car and instead uses it to purchase a .50 cal sniper rifle. He buys hotel rooms in advance for a first date so that if he gets lucky at least he can do it at a discounted rate. In a word, he is all that is man.

Daniel Armenteros

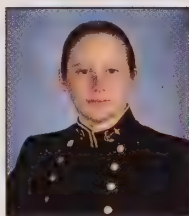

Navy Pilot

Danny is so cool, he doesn't just have one digm, he has a pair a digm! Dan was always ready to party it up in DTA, he was even voted "best 15-minute bar hopping buddy ever"! He may have some quirks, like his love for "KO LON

Matthew Evans

Submarine (Nuclear)

Question: What would Matt Evans do if he was on a deserted island? Answer: Go to high school, champion XC, and get appointed to the Naval Academy. We all remember when he came in May (or maybe it was June). The next four years of Matt's life were largely characterized by late night phone calls, strange smells, Drydock, trace amounts of math homework, and most recently Crossfit and bro-tein. Recent employment includes DJ of Club Focus, submariner, and potential economist. So what's next in the epic that is BGME's life? I don't know, you'll have to buy the expansion pack.

Born and raised in North San Diego County, Peter grew up enjoying the sun and beaches of SoCal. He was recruited to play football at the Academy, but quit the team after plebe year in order to dedicate himself to his Chinese studies.

While at the Academy, he travelled to China three times with each visit increasing his passion for the Chinese people, culture, and language. In his free time, Peter enjoys water skiing, wakeboarding, and listening to music. Peter loves the Lord with all his heart, soul, mind, and strength, and would go to the ends of the earth to share the love of Jesus with others.

Alan Higgins

USMC Ground

Alan Higgins, a good ol southern boy gone awry. Some ask, "what went wrong with that Higgins boy?" "Could it have been that red head roommate from NAPS the bible refers to as Lucifer?"

Maybe. Always a sports kind of guy, his game with the ladies is much like his golf game. HUGE HANDICAP! Seriously though, its never a party unless Higgins brings a bit of the south to it, and by south I mean country ham and moonshine. Higgins is always up for buying the next round for the boys (Especially when the Titans lose, thats alotta beer).

Surface Warfare

Hailing from sweet home Alabama, she goes by "Beth." Initially she was "the spinny stick girl" for Pipes and Drums. Beth also manages to hide her schizophrenia by saying she's imitating people (and translating boats class).

Persuaded by her roommate, she joined the crew team as a second class (Ma'am, why are you in the plebe boat?). Beth says that her motivation to row stems from seeing Amazons twice her size on other teams. The only thing greater than her love of coffee is her SWotivation. No matter what the future brings, Beth reminds us to "Just keep swimming."

Never one to turn down a good time, this Michigan native will surely Capitalize on the Skylines of foreign and domestic opportunities in his bright future as a submariner.

Lauren Mintz

Navy Pilot

From losing her cover on I-day to shouldering 4 heavy stripes as a Firstie on Brigade Staff, this LA girl turned Texan has come a long way in four years. Possibly the most painful of screamers when sounding off, she graced Kilo Company again with her piercing voice as the most feared XO 19th and 20th Platoons had ever seen. As she embodies midshipman perfection, don't dare ask her to go down to Drydock at 1900 -- the rules clearly state 1915 is the earliest time mids are authorized to dine there. And though we tell you to "Shut up Mintz, we can HEAR the smile on your face" -- Keep smiling, keep singing Disney songs, and keep being the happy, loving, Super Joe that we love.PS: Do we have a weekend this weekend?

Andrew Mirsch

USMC Ground

Once upon a time... in the land that God forgot (Minnesota), a Marine was born. This was no typical Marine. Andrew was accepted into a wolf pack at the tender age of 3mo. After learning the ways of the wild, he was found by a generous Nordic couple who raised him in their own image... tall, blond, and pale. Andrew excelled at school, especially in the classics; he can still recite the story of Boudica. Unfortunately, upon entering USNA he was exposed to Marines, and lost 2/3 of his intelligence. Don't let his Ocean-Spray appearance fool you, this Marine is all heart.

Paul's favorite class would be ethics where he learned how to date a girl and talk to three others without feeling bad about it. Kwame Anyika

Navy Pilot

You can find me in the AAAAA, because... forever I love Atlanta!" From ATL and proud of it, Kwame Anyika is known as the charismatic, talkative poet whose number one love is flying. He is always seen helping others and is the go-to-man for any of your social worries.

He pours out with selflessness and modesty and he values the friends that he has made over the years. He can spot when one is struggling from a mile away and is ready and willing to be a supportive mentor or friend. He is one of the goofiest people you will meet, so he keeps a smile on your face. He manages to stay content no matter what's going on: Just give him a plane to fly, a plate of lasagna with lemonade, and maybe a pad to write down some lines, and he'll be straight!

Next time you see Steph cuttin' it up Elaine-style on the dance floor, ask her to show you her Chris Brown dance move. Or maybe she'll show you some Debbie Gibson/Tina Turner/Paula Abdul dancing in mess dress heels. Highly motivated, Steph will definitely use her years of dive screener experience to her advantage in the Corps. Love, the hottest room in the Brigade, (A+S+C)M.

Elizabeth Hudson

USMC Ground

The first time I met Beth Hudson I was astonished to see such a cute small female repeatedly dropping the f-bomb as she talked about the events of her life prior to the academy. It never occurred to me that I had led a sheltered life until that point - but that's how Beth is: honest and loyal to her core. No one ever has to guess what Beth thinks of them because she gives a piece of her mind to anyone who wants to listen. Most importantly Beth has mastered the art of juggling Sailing, Systems, Striper meetings, and last calls to have a mostly memorable academy experience and definitely a great time. Unfortunately, Beth will soon translate from gossip to ... get some' and high heels to ... Hoorahs, but I guess we all have to grow up one day. Her smarts will take her far, and her drive may make mission, but her looks will definitely seal the deal.

Jenny might have come to the Academy to buckle-down and be an officer, but truthfully she already knew that trash. She embodied responsibility, dedication, and diligence from day one...and her consistent God's List performance shows that she's done it ever since. In reality, Jenny came to the Academy to loosen up - whether she intended to or not! She could derive the formula to find a first derivative but didn't know the difference between a Bud Light and Blue Moon. The slow but steady corruption of Jenny was no easy task, but her roommate was persistent! And the end product is a girl no one should go without: an extremely loyal friend who will be by your side through stressful exams, life problems, and bad El Toro Bravo experiences. If there is one person that exemplifies the phrase "In the right place at the right time" it is Owen Keller. He thrives on spontaneity and on weekends, he can be found cheering on Navy, scoping parties at away football games, spitting game to German girls, bow hunting, or rocking out in his German sports car. Noted for being guide on to the most hated CC in 4 years, sleeping half of youngster year, and playing Call of Duty or HALO during study hour. Ladies, beware: he lures with his signature blank gaze. And he's from Atlanta, and NOT Indiana.

Alexander McIntosh

USMC Pilot

No tact Mac can always be counted on to present the most ridiculous nonsensical arguments possible. He is a constant participant in dangerous sports, like rock climbing, skydiving, kite boarding, and boxing thoroughly devoid of defense. It was probably the constant blows to the head that led to his attraction to fake reading glasses, but really the only woman for his heart was his beautiful automobile: Gerthy McHogsteak, the second runner up in the beauty pageant of Porkopolis. Truthfully, it really doesn't matter what is written in this, because he won't be able to read any of it. Freedom.

Justin loves nothing as much as he loves breaking things. He wastes no time on useless activities like finding a bathroom to poop in, chewing his hotdogs, or understanding car insurance. He loves his friends enough to put them on

Out of all the things he did at the Academy, the biggest impact was felt by the ketchup balloon of '08, followed closely by the cookie curve of '07. Really, the only reason he has any friends is because Lindsay is so cool and so smrt.

USMC Ground

Steve "LD" Phillips loves the Marine Corps almost as much as he loves his daily 12 hours of sleep. It's a good thing too because as a Marine officer he'll have to cut his greasy hair at least once a week, although it seems to be a race between the barber and Mother Nature to see who can get rid of more of his hair. The Marines might seem strange to this pacifist, who refused to fight off the rusty hook youngster year. He played the toughest position on the toughest football team on the yard.

From the Porter onward, this bobsey twin from North Carolina has been causing trouble ever since she left App state for this lovely establishment. Frequently hailed for her award-winning Masqueraders and spring-musical auditions, Lindsey has pursued a variety of spontaneous and often random activities while at the Academy.

Some of her favorite past-times include eating Kilwins icecream, running to the "anchor" and Marine Corps martial arts.-Love AV. This Mountaineer decided her twin brothers plebe year was just too much fun to miss, so the twins were reunited on the bay after a 3 year hiatus; and 200 yards was much better than 500 miles. In between too much birthday cake and bizarre wisdom teeth surgeries, time was always best spent during a hart room study session. -Your proud twin, Ryan.

Colleen dealt with many things during her 4 years by the bay. Plebe year was filled with "wiitarded" behavior and missed chances to "be average". Youngster year she came into her own, and learned a great deal about the "frat"ernal nature of military life. As a second-class, she mostly stayed below the radar because she wasn't around. Where she might have been is a ThOrNY issue. As a firstie, she fell completely off the map, but was occasionally heard cackling, "SWO life or no life!". Colleen, we love you and hope you find a husband one day. OORAH!!!

Plebe year he solved math problems 162-385, puzzles, played guitar and mastered chess simultaneously. Youngster year, he somehow managed to punch his way off the soccer team. Second class year, he spent his time, and loan, subsidizing his friends' mischief. Firstie year, Sam was awarded his fifth choice in service selection, and celebrated by seeking companionship in the darkest corner (or bathroom) of any bar. Sam, we hope you somehow use your encyclopedic trivia knowledge to remedy the aroma emanating from your closet.

After spending her life in the ice rink, she always gave her fellow intramural warriors a good laugh at trying new sports. Matthew Schwab

Navy Pilot

Hailing from the rainy Pacific Northwest our boy Matt ... GQ' Schwab (aka Chapel Raider) is anything but a cloudy guy. If J.P.J. could rewrite the qualifications of a Naval Officer, I'm sure Schwab would add the stipulation

"He must be a dude of the sickest taste".

While at the Academy Schwab lived the studious life of a Chem major, but dedicated his summers to turning Navy's helpless plebes into cold blooded killers during weapons detail. He's a gentleman at heart, always smiling and willing to help and will be truly missed after graduation as he flies into the sky.

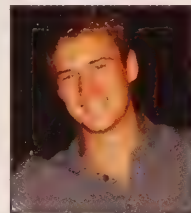

Kevin Seaman

Navy Pilot

Kevin "Grandpa" Seaman could be found whining or drinking beer at his love den in DTA. Grandpa was never happier than when he was holding a big sea bass, especially if it took two hands. He had many victories and defeats, ranging from conquering Vikings in the mountains of Bucknel, to being kidnapped in Wake Forest. Even such an avid fisherman as he. Kevin had trouble handling slippery Severn Trout. Kevin's kind heart was easily won over by women of any size as long as they loved fishing, and assuming he didn't fall asleep first.

Javier Segura

USMC Ground

Javy, what can't we say about you. You have to be the nicest most polite gentlemen USNA has ever known, as many females would attest "TRU". Your blunt candor is something we should all aspire towards. Despite all the anger you showed towards people the only thing to receive a beating from you was a wall. At the end of the day you've been a great friend and you'll always be there to take care of us or crush our self-esteem. It's been real. Giggity Giggity WTK, JD, SVB, MB

We will miss the time spent at Strobel Manor overlooking Lake Strobel almost as much as he missed Cancun/ DR/ any trip.

Eric Valdez

Navy NFO

Joining the party late, after turning a bad Paige in this chapter of his life, Eric strived to make up for lost time. But shaking his child-bearing hips on the dance floor, grinding up on dudes because "that's what guys at other colleges do," being the first (and often only) one naked at a party, or finally joining up for a trip to Taco Island, couldn't teach lessons that a failed relationship and expensive souvenir should have. Hopefully the fleet will teach you that casual encounters don't immediately turn into devoted relationships.

The quintessential wandering vagabond, Eric ran straight from the hills of Arkansas into Kelsey Cellon's shoulder. Toothbrush in hand, Eric became the embodiment of a citizen-hippie-soldier, ever ready to wander the halls with Birkenstocks and a second-hand guitar.

From Wake Forest to San Diego, Eric had knack for the ladies, whether it was with art students, other guys' Ring Dance dates, or the daughter of a high-ranking Academy official. Hitting the books almost as hard as the bars. Eric was an exemplary student and will surely realize his lifelong dream of surpassing Sean Connery as the greatest submarine commander ever.

Jack Curran

Surface Warfare

The Midshipman cover never quite sat straight on Jack's head. Swimming was Jack's sport but timing was never Jack's thing, whether it was sandals on 3-0, late-night adventures in Lejeune, or an early exit from practice. When Jack wasn't building bridges he was tearing them down - or stealing signs. Jack was very fond of more dudes in less space, and never met a quiet moment that didn't warrant a loud noise. College Park was a second home for a proud son of Maryland, though the swamp might have been more appropriate. Either way, Jack certainly left an impression on everyone.

It's always a treat to see you slaving away at your computer...making your high school highlight reel. You are quite the handyman with your never ending engineering projects. Whether it was picking corners or picking entrees, we could always count on you.

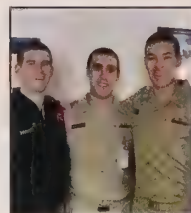

Samuel Donovan

Submarine (Nuclear)

Things that sum up Sam's four years at USNA: sleeping, worrying, early nights in bed followed by 3 A.M. study sessions, taking over the room, and the need for a pair of depends. His roommates were always willing to turn his alarm off for him due to his ability to sleep through everything and anything. He is perhaps better known in DC by Georgetown students for his uncanny and unruly love-hate relationship with stairs. Sam was a truly dedicated individual for his physical readiness as a submarine officer. Sam brings life to the meaning "A true Marine is a Submarine."

Devin Elliott

Navy Pilot

Back in the sticks of North Carolina, Devin Elliott never imagined he would some day be the River Festival Grand Marshall. A storyteller with an intimidating war cry, he made friends easily at the Naval Academy. When the times got tough, whether it was exam week, grey space or a parade, Devin had the uncanny ability to pass out. Towering above his classmates, Captain Pittman's "little boy" dominated the Mac-D basketball courts after school. In the Fleet, Devin is sure to be the Face of the Navy... especially with his 14K gold face scrub. Good luck and fly safe!

Daniel Emma

big women than Jenny Craig. This notoriously slovenly siren is one of the few who can call Nancy Reagan a drinking buddy, and he has the demerits to prove it. A world traveler and talented drummer, Al rubbed elbows with a "star-studded" crowd and epitomized the Rockstar lifestyle.

Janell Peske

The longest burp ever recorded, Janell knows how to make an entrance. Between the insanely loud bodily noises she can create and the out of the blue dirty one-liners she delivers in conversation, it is evident this singing, dancing, motivated, Cross-fitting,

Hailing from Yankee-occupied Mississippi, Jon Ross came to the Naval Academy to prepare himself for the inevitable second rise of the South. Always up for a good time, J-Ross never hesitated to hit up DTA, especially with a few good wingmen. While the pen was never quite as mighty as the sword for Jon, he still used PoliSci as a way to get good grades and write out his plans for world domination at the same time. We know you'll be a great Marine, and we wish you the best of luck in the Corps.

Firsties

Ryan Sawyer

Civil Engineer Corps

Hailing to Bancroft hall from the "West Coast" of Florida, Ryan has graced us with many hilarious moments. From the days of plebe summer with "peekaboo, sir" to the always hilarious "Sawyer! Not youngsters!" Ryan felt that all days started at noon meal and refused to acknowledge that any part of the day is actually morning. The two most important aspects of Ryan's life were his devotion to Christ and his devotion to annoying Tibbo (Balloons anyone?) Even though he would prefer his only roommates to be his knives and Bible, Ryan has been an exceptional roommate who would always go in circles when needed.

Cody Stiles

Navy Pilot

Steven, pronounced "Cody" in Tennessee, held fast to the rule "if you sleep twelve hours a day you're only here two years." When he awoke for meals, he dined exclusively on chicken tenders, Tostitos and queso. Noticeably absent from post-meal conversation, Earthworm Jim would mysteriously reappear several pounds lighter. The flip of a coin led him to a degree in Mech-E with a minor in Call of Duty. Closer examination of his diploma will reveal the words "Courtesy of Eric Beall" in fine print. We know Mama Stiles will always be proud of her baby, and we will too.

Darius Terry

Navy NFO

HE GOT HIS DUE! In his time at the academy, Darius spent every waking minute trying to take over the world. On any given Tuesday, you might find him sitting in his car in DTA or working hard to bridge the culture gap with the local females at night. Arrested at gunpoint, tires slashed, shot at, AA meetings. He had a heck of a run, with 120 straight days on restriction and a black N to prove it. With the last pick in the 2010 NFO draft, he will be heading to Pensacola to continue his reign of terror.

David Tibbo

USMC NFO

Hiding from ticks, bashing balloons and just being that "interesting" individual we all know and love, life around him was rarely normal. Tibbo's antics were among the best: folding laundry at B&G, ticks in plebe summer, ("It's in my arm SIR!"), telling a 2/c on HELLO

NIGHT his shoes were poorly shined and apparently dusting off the Supes shoulder boards made him a legend on the Yard. Thanks for being the most interesting caveman/albino/Gollum a company could have. Remember not to shrink wrap any wings- and if the crabbers get behind the range again, don't stop shooting, maybe they won't go back there anymore.

Koflette Valdez

USMC Ground

Wait, she's a twin? That's MY Valdez! Engaged to a dirty Italian? "I'll never get married in the Chapel!", "I'll never be a Marine!" Well... OOH-RAH, Mr. Munn, suh!! The Red Bull room turns into the cleanest room known to man when civies get mixed in. And whatever happened to that bike she never rode? but everyone else did... How many showers can one fit into a 24 hour period... that's motivating!! Our Valdez loves to ruin the endings to everything, and she's read enough books to ruin your potential favorite. But now our lovely seniorita, Letty, is off to Quantico to teach those Marines how San Diego Mexicans get their fight on!

Jon Weissberg

Navy NFO

It's 0300. You're an UNSAT engineer, have a project due in six hours and a PRT the day after. You're watching SportsCenter reruns, munching on junk and drinking your 6th Coke of the day in an unwashed hoodie with your uniforms draped over your chair.

This is Jon-boy. Calling on lessons from the REAL O.C., where everything is better than wherever you're from, Jon brought a certain "air" to the room with hugs and rack-hopping. He was a consummate friend, an envied dancer; we wish him the best of luck in Naval Aviation. Stay "SAFE", Jon!

Dragging the smell of fried Spam with him, this Maui native is more comfortable around his duck collection and 37" flat screen than other people. Whether it was the 3 months of unwashed laundry or the speakers that shook the foundation of Bancroft,

Will managed to drive away every roommate he had, including three that left Annapolis. He was always up for a good time and the center of many good stories. Whether discussing his Wake Forest, NYC, Croquet, or water balloon antics, the legend of Chilly Willy Wilkerson, or Sleepy Creepy Will, will be long lived. Good luck Chilly.

From the home of the Space Needle, rain, and Starbucks, Natalya Aoki (pronounced... well we never really got it right) is "A-kooky" one. We found that she loves to laugh at everything and scream at a decibel only dogs can hear. She coined the phrase "OH H HEYYY" loves Nutella and Downy, and has anything you could ever need. She earned 15 stitches after falling on her chair but they could not contain her laughter. More adventurous than one might guess, she leads a quiet but exciting life and faithfully abides by the number 1 rule: No one needs to know.

Justin Attinoto

Navy NFO

Justin Attinoto, Hey look! T-mobile. Oh wait, I didn't hear you the last two times. What a sarcastic son of a b*, there's no McDonalds in Nordstroms, it's a department store. His Firstie year can be characterized by random, spontaneous trips out of the country and chilling with Au Pairs. "Did you just slap me in the face?...Ya, he just wanted to see how solid my chin is." Fing Vinny the Chin, it's all about the biceps. I'm pretty sure something dented my camera, judging by the dent in my camera. He's a loyal friend. Good luck in Pensacola!

Tomas Chanquet

USMC Ground

Few people at USNA have been known by more nicknames than Mas'r Chanquet. No matter what you knew Chunk by, you knew to respect dear sweet Tom-Tom. And that we did. Industrious, forceful, and passionate, Chunk-Munk is a ruthless competitor with a heart of gold. If you are ever lucky enough to call yourself a friend of the PowerBall, you will discover in him a new definition of loyalty - he doesn't know how to disappoint. So while Chanq went by many names over his four-year sentence here at USNA, to us, he will be remembered as simply "Brother." And a damn good one at that. DG&SL

Tony Chitwood Jr.

Navy Pilot

Tony Lee Chitwood Junior, the supposed "Native American" of the group, was really just your average white man with abnormally large hands and feet. He left the city of Dayton, Ohio and turned away from his Air Force lineage to attend his dream college. He was a proud member of the Bearsharks, and was so committed to 25 that he decided to find an in-company wife. Although Tony was a man of few words, the words that he did say were always genuine and honest. One of his greatest loves (next to that of Ocean Engineering), was sports. His love and devotion to the Reds, Bengals, UC, and OSU was unparalleled, even if it was a little bit foolish. His next step in life is a move to Pensacola, FL to live it up as an aviator. If his work ethic there is anything like it is at the Academy, he is destined for a wonderful and successful career.

Matthew Constantino

Navy Pilot

Matt was always training; he was often found Kutta conditioning at the gym to fight off the impending zombie horde or lend a helping moment arm to engineers in need. Matt is leading the Robot revolution against previously stated zombies, as long as we remember to plug him in at night. Matt is credited for discovering the line between genius and insanity and beyond! In response to a bad joke: "Is this what it's like when I'm around?" Some nights are crazier than others- that snow bank stood no chance. As one of the Navy's newest submariners, Brad will take all of these attributes from the heights of 6-4 to the depths of the oceans. Good luck, Brad!

Gregory Evans

USMC Pilot

Michael "Squirrel" Evans is the most offensive person in the Brigade. He spends his days searching for nuts to put in his mouth. His record is three at a time. His small stature is offset by his loud voice and random wanna-be-marine yells. In spite all of this you have got to love him. Where else are you going to get free pirated movies, copious bottles of dip spit, and drinks on his dad's card. God knows that Squirrel will do well as he has listened to His calls to sleep too much and, at times, with strippers. Your roommates.

Daniel Glenn

Special Operations

Ah Danny, truly a man of few words. Although you've traded in your uniforms for trendy corduroys and pink polo shirts, you have not forgotten where you came from. Hopefully at UM, you'll find more changes to apply "what you've trained for," but Georgetown was not the place. We will all miss your positive nature, your inspiring character, and your genuine sense of friendship you extended to everyone. But 2013 will mostly miss your Invictus.

The Panda Bear is one of the hairiest people we know. It was hard getting used to keeping the temperature sub-zero so he wouldn't over heat. His scavenging skills were amazing, though. Over the years finding for us clothes, a tv stand, hot water heater, and an awful, broken, loud fan. We specially love the turn around from lazy, fat bum to protein-drinking meathead. NO EXPLODE!!!! At least you didn't fully give up the fat part helping to ensure our fridge was always stocked with pie. Sorry about the admin mix up, we'll miss you at TBS. Your roommates.

Wade Gregory

Navy Pilot

Rusty, (a name more commonly used for a dog or pimply ginger) is an awesome American...although he wishes Texas was its own country. Rusty is never shy in expressing his man crush with Colt McCoy or showing his love for Chloe.

Rusty has several talents to include fire breathing JB's, shaking his Dollar Menu size buttocks on the dance floor to Miley Cyrus, and being a fierce competitor in the plebe year skinny legs competition. Only a couple years short of applying for his AARP membership, Rusty will make a swell pilot and we all wish him well.

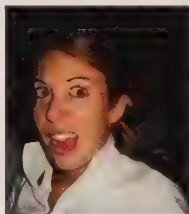

Rox Anne Hudak

Navy Pilot

The little midshipman who could. This tiny, tenacious, shirt-tucked, barely-American motivator has come a long way since she was discovered hiding in the corner of her plebe summer room. She frequently enjoys Fosters and conga lines while listening to Backstreet Boys and watching Disney. Some may not party as much as she should, but Roxy will never let Mexican one dollar tequila shot bars pass her by (after which she's found playing in fountains). Roxy is fearless, unless she sees, hears, or thinks about raptors! Good luck in pilot-land, short stuff!

Erik Johnson

Submarine (Nuclear)

Oh God! Who put that chair there? Giver of funny nick names, RAGE on that mouse pad or noodles or whatever it is you did back there. Always one to work hard at everything he did, he pushed himself even to the point of physical sickness after remedials and birthday trips to El Toro. I hope you cleaned that car. Good luck with the sub horn, it looked classy with those chest high pants. Beware... number one friendly fire. Russ will never forgive you. Go first, we insist. We've got your back. Hey Erik, I'm on the wall.

Jarred Johnson

Submarine (Nuclear)

Jarred W Johnson has been a great American since birth. Firmly gripping an American flag in his tiny baby hands, he came into this world looking for a fight! At the ripe age of 2, he maxed his first PRT. His milestones at age 4 included reading War and Peace 6 times, discovering a cure for cancer, and finding Bigfoot. When Jarred turned 13, he embarked on a mission trip to Nepal and was imprisoned by dark monks for 6 years. Finally, in June 2006, he escaped and enrolled at USNA. It was here Jarred Johnson perfected the dark arts but vowed only to use them in the presence of his enemies. Thank you Jarred, for your inspiration, your friendship, and for finding bigfoot. JDL.

Robert Kelly

Surface Warfare

What up, corn-on-the-cob? Did I mention that I was a varsity Surfer from the Naughty Nado, SoCal, Cally, the 619, West Coast, Berkeley, and have I mentioned NAPS? Bro, I'm guess I'm pretty EpGnar. Getting some biddies on the reg? Heck yes, I am. Rob and Black be classic. Yo, you hear how much Maj Johnson loves me? 007, we'll never forget who you are or where you're from. Keep the pride alive, and don't stop looking out for your swim buddies... you've carried us before and we'll rely on you to do it again.

Russell Kropp

Submarine (Nuclear)

RoboKropp is always leveling up in life. When he's not pinning noobs on the mat, you can find him pwning zombies in the real world. WarKropp is the epitome of style in his Sub Sweater, and is looking forward to the silent service. Although Russell detests watching sports, he is a passionate fan of the Penguins. His love of Crosby runs so deep that he jinxed USA claiming that Crosby would score the gold medal game winner. Russ is a great friend to have, and will have the sub community leveled up in no time."Run Silent Run Deep"

Steven Link

Special Operations

At first, we thought Steve was crazy... now, we know. He pioneered the marathon, the ultra marathon, and then Arrowhead. He is ridiculous. We rest fairly assured that Steve looked sanity in the face as a child, laughed, and then ran off immediately in the other direction doing cartwheels and singing "The Ballad of the Cuban Sandwich." He helped us believe that impossible was just a word... and kept us laughing while he did. One day, Steve's obituary will read, "He was too beautiful for this world," but until then he's going to make it his prison inmate. INGGEFM.

Joe Lousche

USMC Ground

If you talk to Joe, you might mistakenly take him for a Pittsburgher due to his obnoxious following of the Steelers and Penguins, however, Joe is Asian. Meatball has actually never been to Pittsburgh, he grew up in Thailand playing rugby with the natives. When Joe is not grunting or ooh-rahing, he spends his time chasing plus-sized women (Gorgonzola?), earning him "The Brick". One of the toughest guys in the school, don't mess with Rugby-Joe, because "he's a Marine!" The Lingerer is a loyal friend though, and these four years wouldn't have been the same without him.

Jacob Lumsden

Navy Pilot

Thirteen billion years ago the big bang occurred. 3.7 billion years the first bacteria on earth was formed. Two billion years later the first multicellular organism crawls out of the ocean and breaths its first breath. Then in 1987, Jacob D. Lumsden was born. Some say you cannot compare the birth of this individual to those universe changing events, but these events are the only things that come close to the life of this great human being. By the age of 3 he was already the lead test pilot for the new FA/18 Super Hornets, and some say the original F-35 designs have his name as Chief Engineer. From the things he has accomplished to whatever is left for him to conquer, we must all be proud and thankful that he is an American!

Michael Mastrangelo

Special Warfare

Mirror mirror on the wall...who's the prettiest Hooyah of all? From your fabulous days back in D&B to your glory nights with your Ring Dance date, you've redefined "ramping the D" over the past four years. Your long-winded reign of CC terror may be coming to a close, but remember that Richard Simmons summed it up best when he said "you'll always be our PMO" Bagel. Good luck in Coronado; the Council will miss hanging out without enjoying ourselves... one of these days we'll go out without being cold, wet, sandy, or completely destroyed.PS. We love you.

Andrew McFarland

Navy Pilot

Andrew- it only took 3 years for everyone to know that you didn't like being called Andy, but we all knew who you were... the Goofy of the McFarlands. With the countless hours you spent tutoring the company, you certainly won the Miss Congeniality award of 25, except from all of those unsuspecting drags that found your cover on their heads. We hope to run into you again, although it won't beat the first time (always in chokers, right?) We know you will go far and do great starting with Pcola, unless you get accepted for Jeopardy.

Firstlies

William McFarland

USMC Ground

Plebe parent weekend, the Duke MO, late nights and long road trips; Napster, the best birthday present ever; the fights, the silliness, always yelling; cuddles, puppies, kittens and bears. Through it all, you've been my strength and my weakness- I'll always love you. Bunny bunny, even oat, odd muffin. WMPlebe Summer, big nose, thinning hair, late nights, odd smells; hiding your child, the most awkward blog ever; the giggles, the crying, the yelling, the showers; thousands of tiny plastic men watching our room. Through it all you've been our retired, disgruntled marine. Boston Cream Pie, GrayBear and Squirrel.

Christopher Petkas

Surface Warfare

Chris-these-are-not-my-gf-jeans- Petkas-is-professionally known for his expertise with the Frisbee but he is personally revered for doing work with a boomerang. Chris whizzed through his years by the Severn with unique style and charisma. He swings hard to the left, single handedly bringing the Indie music scene to the Naval Academy. With candy in his sweatpants, the hardest working scout teamer' will be riding jet-skis in San Diego; back to the West coast where he belongs. Chris, I think we can all say we are in love with the idea of you.

Nicholas Presley

Special Operations

Only Brian Goss got "huge-er" than Nick Presley. He came in a bouncing baby Korean, became Fried Rice, and will leave a true Alabama Man (complete with beer-drinking, bowling action)! On a more serious note, Nick dragged all of us, kicking and screaming, up to his level of principle. We are better men for having counted you amongst our council, Nichv®, and a better friend and brother-in-arms, we are unlikely to find. PS. How many more innocent sleeves will fall victim to the rage of your merciless biceps? Stop the terror.

Taylor Pruitt

Surface Warfare

Taylor M. Prutitsky AKA TMP Sloth, and on occasion Slosh, is the definition of punctuality. The first to wake up to his alarm, he is always full of energy and ready to seize the day. He often saves his roommates from their deep dark slumber so that they can get to class on time. Carpe Diem are his words to live by and you know he will be hard at work performing stargazers or doing his laundry on the weekends. It must be known, however, that although he may not be at formation, he is definitely on the yard.

Hillary Ross

Navy Pilot

From the land of argyle cardigans, Vineyard Vines, and oversized pearls, Hillary Ross epitomizes the wholesome Catholic school girl. An alumna of Pomfret Prep School comparable only to Hogwarts, she is the company's "moral compass." Nicknamed Woleisha in 6455, she was never cover-compatible with any of her roommates. Although she hung up her oar, she never gave up singing. She reached stardom as Cinderella in the musical and even landed her dream guy, a match made in heaven - literally. She is never on time, but when she finally gets there she'll light up any room with her smile - it's totally worth the wait.

Andrew Schaffer

USMC Ground

SCCHAAAAAFEERRRRR....this is just like high school! From coke addicts to Bizzaro Schaffer, this guy has been through it all. In this country and abroad, with inflatable dolphins in tow, Schaffer talked to soooo many girls! If you've got a problem, just ask Schaffer. But seriously, ever since the EGA was tattooed on his soul and he's abandoned the empty calories of beer, his legend will be embodied in one word: "BHAWL!" Good luck in the Marine Corps. We know you'll be great!

Twenty-Fifth Company

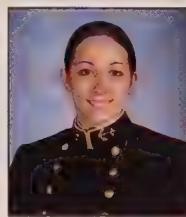

Michelle Shoenberger

USMC Pilot

You now rate Mississippi. Yut rah kill! You're the only person who could sleep through every class and always get the highest grades (we all hated you for that). We were all secretly jealous of your silent drill team trips to Disney World...at least Roxy was! When not power napping, Mickey can be found watching season upon season of NCIS while playing Spider Solitaire. Also in her spare time she enjoys random alpha inspections from senior chief and drinking monsters after the PRT. Best of luck and we know you'll do great things! PS- You can finally drink young grasshopper!

Ashlee Smith

Navy Intelligence

Hailing from Seligman, Arizona, Ashlee "Lafonda" Smith won championships in many random violent sports such as archery, discus, and shot-put. Baptized in the blood of a deer at age 11, she has been out for the kill ever since. She was a huge fan of the Knicks (and we don't mean the basketball team) but football was her favorite. Despite her love for Navy athletics, she with-Drew from the playing field and has been tame ever since. Some of her finest moments involve Arizona Ice Tea bottles, McGarvey's crab dip, and rolling uncontrollably on people's floors.

Justin Stevens

Navy Pilot

Nick Trapasso

USMC Ground

"Will my mon Nick Trapasso please come to da DJ boof, we gotchoy wallet mon!" The best way to keep in touch with Trap is via email, because chances are he's phoneless, walletless, and lost in Baltimore. Trap, very financially conscious, says he's going to stay in, but will end up the big spender at ACME. When he's not contracting unknown illnesses, you can find Trap tearing it up on the club lacrosse field. Though we like to poke fun at Trap, he's a great friend and a reliable source of information on internet movies, zombie gaming, and Syracuse basketball.

Ashley Valanzola

Surface Warfare

The Bobbsey Twin adventures started on the Porter with Ashley inspired briefs, boat shoes, tennis shoes, and line dancing. Back alley wine boxes, Sbarros, and "aroma therapy" movie nights... leg? As karate master she has a drawing of younger men and light poles. Love, your "sister" LP Ashley has developed from her time at the Academy, from her bobble head and the time she actually thought Zimmer was cute, to learning the lesson that 5 tequila shots in 30 minutes makes you buy lots of mexican souvenirs and crash an hour later. RH The woman that changed my life, Youngster year, "oh how you hated me." Our walks, first love, YOU'RE 12! France, Cab, posh, really bad art... I wouldn't change anything about you. Alana Abernethy

Surface Warfare

Alana Abernethy, a proud "Navy Brat", like many of her N.A.P.S. '06 counterparts easily validated the rigorous plebe year. She has come a long way since Naval History class. From by the book Joe midshipman, to by the book Joe midshipman. As a result she rose to the rank of MIDN LTCDR serving as 2nd Regimental Executive Officer. Her many strengths consist of an unwavering faith in God, a dedication to personal responsibility and compassion. Oh and her undeniable love for her future husband Derek is unmatched. Sigh, it was truly love at first sight for her. I wish you the best. Fair winds and following seas my love.

Mary Bellis

Surface Warfare

Her title was established Thanksgiving of plebe year when she, the hottest girl in Second Reg., had a drink and found her soul mate in First. Together they conquered Fall-of-06, the mistakes of Spring07, Ass-kicking workouts, Wild Orchid brunches, Nicaragua surf, picnics, shopping excursions and liquid ambitions! Through the years Mary has blossomed (visual aids included)... phenomenal friend, sassy wordsmith, and will undoubtedly become the best damn SWO the Navy has seen, if not the classiest! Love you! -AW Look for Mary as the future poster child of Navy SWO community, great smile, great hair... and she looks damn good in a uniform! And don't piss her off or she will mentally belittle you with her rhetoric.

Terence Bennett

Surface Warfare

Terry "Turbo" Bennett... does he really have a neck? He's been known to out-protocol the most protocolled, except for the time he dyed his hair blonde, bad choice. Then again so was that concert and the Army base, along with the "shower" on your "21st". Terence had fun getting into trouble, except for that one girl. He was known to court females of the "BRIC" nations. Terence will always out-dress you, unless it's a Pep Rally. As he heads off to Hawaii, Terence is sure to take along his historical-mentor, Teddy Roosevelt, and his ideas of equality for all, except Avatars.

Avery Berge

Surface Warfare

Join us for the Next episode of "Avery day is an Adventure" Follow Avery on her early morning and afternoon "runs" (can we walk?) to the boat house as she encounters wanna-be nuns with dragon breath, has deep meaningful conversations over endless cups of black coffee that she'll need to get her through nine epic holes of pub golf (way above par), the endless search for someone, anyone to host a drag, finishing her 30 page paper while editing 8 others and memorizing a zillion japanesse vocab words so she'll be fluent by the time she gets to Sasebo and win herself a handsome japanesse man all with a smile on her face. Avery, aka "Smiley", lights up the room and everyone values her friendship. To be Avery's friend is to be blessed.

Sam Burke

USMC Ground

Sam Burke came to us from Sikeston, East-Prairie, Poplar Bluff, Charleston... everywhere that is SEMO. Everybody knows this lovable Cowboy-Ninja, whose answer to every question is

"Yessir, she sure is one!" Although you spent most of your time on FB creepin on Corpus Crispi, we find it hard to be too sorry about your luck. King Arthur will always have a place for you at his table in Camelot. If Freddie goes to 30, all in! Rubel vs. Critzos... which one wins your heart? We do know one thing, however: you and Peter Pan will always have the shooting range.

Leslie Capuano

USMC Ground

Good things come in small packages; still waters run deep. Cliché's approach but do not converge on the reality of Leslie. An embodiment of seeming contradictions. Right brain meets left brain as physics collides with 19th-century Russian literature, and musical gifts share center stage with USMC ferocity. Graduation represents the triumph of all that is good about Annapolis. Leslie overcame plebe summer injuries to surpass all standards, and is destined for USMC ground. Her growth from a shy, uncertain young woman to a confident leader has touched everyone she encountered. Leslie's apparently quiet demeanor masks rapier wit and an extraordinary confidence rewarded with leadership billets, and more importantly, the trust of her fellows. I am proud to know her-she has taught me about perseverance and belief in yourself and God. Rah, Pit, Kill!

Patrick Cooper

Submarine (Nuclear)

Patrick Michael Cooper, the most physically gifted and smartest man in the brigade, perhaps in history. Even if you don't get over the Yarrow Fever, you'll always have Salvadorian soccer fans close to your heart... !porfa! Never thought a manager could be that good. You are always good for a bar tab at El Toro or helping random people with their engineering homework. Here balance this equation: Michigan+Phillipines+Japan= Iron Triad/ Brittany. I hope you get that stain out of your shorts, I hear milk helps. Best of luck getting the Jimmy C, we'll spend the next five years looking for you.

Tyler Darr

Navy Pilot

Tyler ... Che' Darr, you are always the man to bring to El Toro and to dress like its 80 degrees out. Although sketchier than a strand of Puka shells, we welcomed you from the inferior class of 2009. We'll never know what you did in Southie for 1.5 years, my best guess is fomenting revolutions and stealing bobcats. Although I'll never respect you until you take off the hijab, you'll fit right in with the enemy. If only you loved Tequila as much as Pedro, we'd like you as much. Best of luck in Pandora! BTW, sorry about the hammock!

Alexander Dworjan

Submarine (Nuclear)

Congratulations on being the MVP of Brigade Medical. Since when was it ok to pass out in a female's room? Oh wait... you're having a heart attack...I still owe you a sweatshirt btw.Motivated non-guido, shirt never untucked even with ND hoodie. Always watching sports on massive monitor between Wawa runs. I'd still do anything if he sang."I'm not the MISLO anymore...go find Kevin." Alright guys, let's do this! Is Alex coming out tonight? Sports, pizza, computers, and the man cave. Dew, House, Family Guy and the viking handshake.Good luck with Power School...try not to sink anything out there.

Jordan Eddington

USMC Ground

Born in San Antonio, Texas, Jordan Eddington played football all fours years and at NAPS for the Naval Academy. A mans man who built the Eiffel Tower out of metal and brawn, no task was too daunting for him.

Kenneth Endicott

USMC Pilot

A Confederate with Northern victories-on the water. Where's Fletch? Skipper in Newport with "Taylor Swift," leche mes coilles! From Gunny and Cullen to us. Kenneth, we don't like NASCAR. Aground on American Promise Cruise Lines, with cutoff blueirms? Its a 4 million dollar windtunnel! 2 planes: 1 project, watch the door. Late night aero tutoring cause we slept through class. We survived the sleep talking, bomb defusing roommate, just chill bro! Bowties? Hanging with my favorite sponsor cousin and our "parents" at the '85 tent. A good friend to talk to. Keep the Ironmans and triathlons rolling.

Laura Faulk

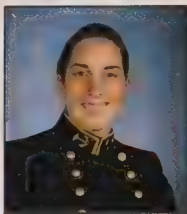

Navy Pilot

To my favorite summer roommate, its impossible how similar our lives have been the past few years! From late night and early morning talks, tears, and laughs, you're cuter than a button, sweeter than sugar, and are ALWAYS there. Good luck and so much love, JJ. "I'm not short, I'm fun-sized!" Our little cajun who "dustmops" the floor and eats at "Pye-pyes. Late nights working...sleeping in class...Scuba-ing "just one more pina...and maybe a jello shot" road trip with just a short detour to Fedex a wallet back to Ft. Lauderdale at South of the Border. You, Regina Feeks, were constantly full of energy, smiles, and giggles. If not seen at the mates desk returning from a frequent trip to the refrigerator to get ice, you could always be found running around the p-ways of 8-0 looking for a good chat. Thursdays were shared with the boys bonding over pizza and family guy. But when the weekend rolled around you understood the importance utilizing happy hour at Armadillos and shared a love of the delicious Woodchuck. You opened your house to any and all mids that needed a weekend away and were always oncall the days leave expired to pick up those same mids from the airport. You were a good friend and will definitely be an amazing officer.

Friday night at ... dillos = two for one drinks. Who's your favorite drunk? She's short. From the night of cheap dresses and drunken mids... did you ever get your ring back? Where's my white girl for the semester.

Aubrey Manes

Navy Pilot

Aubrey's spirit color is candy apple red. When she wasn't busy cranking through Lagrangian equations describing classical mechanics, she could be found hitting it hard at the D&B gym. I'm not sure how she fit all that around her intense volleyball schedule, her devotion to Campus Crusade, her Bible studies, and her (fruitful) cultivation of her guitar skills, but she did it all very well. Aubrey is strong - she could flatten me in an instant, but more than that, her strength lies in her faith. Her compassion, her confidence, and her humor resonated in a wonderful friendship over these four years and I see these traits serving her fellow aviators well in her doubtlessly wonderful future ahead. God bless you, Aubrey, and thank you - you do good out there! - the Fox

James David Melton III

USMC Ground

JD was finally promoted to the male gender in this year's edition. However, Julie was an outstanding leader on and off the diamond. Whether it is leading on the baseball team, mentoring his little brother, or being the first to hit the floor at V's he always leads from the front. Patrolling the back-shaft with a vengeance for 4 years was common duty for this whiskey-loving Major (select). He has trusted his unpredictable and problematic heart to a lovely southern girl whose passion for Alabama has done nothing to help her fiancé's downtrodden love for Clemson. Fair you well in the fleet Major Melton, may your Marines forever love baseball and never get your blood pressure up. This Bud's for you "champ".

Matthew Montaruli

Submarine (Nuclear)

Matthew Nmn Montaruli "Monty" is an upstanding midshipman. He has exemplified that title from plebe summer with his moleskin to graduation. Hailing from one of the toughest parts of New York for a young Italian American to grow up, Long Island, he learned early on how to ASK questions. He is helpful to a fault. Helping others is both something he loves to do and a cleaver way to procrastinate. He is a warrior. Be it on the fieldball field or the rack, he always gives it his all. Monty is a true friend and a great shipmate.

John Paul

USMC Ground

John is willing to give anyone a chance and goes to great lengths to develop friendships; whether that means late night tours of the boathouse or showing a French girl around America. One of his friendships gave the Lightweight Crew a place to stay and a different look at a fierce rival. John's stories were legendary: lasers, silicon factories, roller derby, raves, Japan, wandering Towson, ... Call On Me' by Eric Prydz, and pillow fights to name only a fraction. Few would have tagged you as a Marine John, but that is exactly why you'll do well as one. Good Luck.

Jonnmichael Pollock

USMC Ground

Jonnmichael Pollock (Aka CFP) came from the hills of North Carolina on I-Day looking extremely jacked in his alphas with nothing but a sea bag and warm happy smile. It didn't take this charmer long to get well-acquainted with the company...a couple times. Always a loyal friend and shipmate, he never hesitated to look the other way when his friends were up to no good. In actuality, you really did teach us a lot of valuable lesson about doing the right thing (like killing zombies). Thanks for unforgettable weekends at Dock Street and ... Dillos. See you in the Corps. The BoysBeing the only 21 year olds most of Youngster year. Getting drunk after the PRT - longest march-on, ever. Low-crawling in the Rway. Running SMT with a hangover became normal. I'm having a hard time recalling any sober memories with you... PIZZA FRIDAY! PIZZA FRIDAY! PIZZA THURSDAY! Our weekly tradition morphed from Fridays to Thursdays with the introduction of Friday liberty, Armadillos, and the amazing power of alcohol. On long weekends were spent away from the academy, relaxing in the country and enjoying the cuisine of a local mid lover. The screen-peeking, love chitter whose room explodes on the weekend. Known to clear rooms on the weekend, this marine will always be a corporal. According to my calculations, it only takes 5lbs of sudden force to shake loose 15 M&Ms. Those 15 candies are enough to feed the souls I've stolen for the day in addition to my fattiness.

Elias Tello Jr. (Aka "DJ Reck") came to us from the barren countryside of Dallas, TX. He showed up on I-day having to use the head. Unfortunately, he left his rifle behind (and his phone, wallet, and everything else). When in doubt, you can find this vato behind McGarvey's doing what he does best. A follower of Chelsea, it's no wonder he's a master at the accordion. There's no doubt Eddie Bernice and the rest of his constituency are incredibly proud of him. Thanks to Joe Fity there's no doubt he'll be in charge of Dallas one day.-The Boys Straight off the LIE, Thor, Turbo, Thorpedo is one of Long Island's finest. Probably wakes up everyday wishing he was back on the hilltop with his beloved Salisbury brothers. There he was good at lax and also had a great talent for destroying book shelves with devastating elbow strikes. Brian's journey, memorable and sometimes not remembered at all included Penn State, Wake, UVA, Bamboo Bernies, NYC and soon Pensacola. Above all, Brian will lay it all on the line for his brothers. True friends are tough to come by, but those of us whom Thor considers brothers are truly lucky.

Gregory Zingler

USMC Pilot

This 4-year back-up to the back-up quarterback spent the most amount of time in Navy Football history on his knees. A master of the clock-killing move at the end of the game, Zing will shift his focus to aerial assault as a Marine pilot. First however, he will venture down to Georgia Tech where he will look to ply his trade with the great

Paul Johnson by perfecting his baseball cap wearing and clipboard holding techniques. Never a stranger to Ricketts or offseason workouts, not many in the Brotherhood had Zing's level of commitment and dedication. Setting himself apart in the classroom, he maintained a 3.86GPA and is off to a master's degree within the next year. The future for "the nicest man in Bancroft Hall" is definitely bright – just try to pick from all of your options. Until then, we look forward to seeing you at Fourth Quarters for the next 80 years.

Calhoun!!! Do you know where you are? Katie Calhoun (aka 50Cal, KC, Ernie!) has sure come a long way from her spacey mind and wild child Napoleon fro. As a four year track and cross-country runner, it's clear that she's a little crazy but nonetheless one heck of a hard worker! She was always there to help put smiles on our faces and gave out hugs when we needed them. This spunky blonde always looks for a good time with good friends and takes life by the horns each day. And ohhh the good times we've had... San Diego Bowl game, gingerbread houses, pumpkin carving, El Toro excursions, solitaire champions, and even long teary nights after taps! By the way, whos that strange man on your background? Katie has truly made her experience at the Academy a special one and has touched many people along the way. She's going to make an incredible NFO... Can you color me a picture??

From her flawless hair buns and impeccable eyebrows, to Supes list and overall studette, she always stayed on top of her game. She'll never break a mirror but has been known to break other bathroom accessories. Free drinks from Brigade Commander in San Diego, spring breaks in Mexico and Miami, sex on the beaches while blinded, late night "episodes", dancing in the room, and compulsive shopping were just of few of the memories made. Watch out surface warfare...Don't be fooled by her infectious smile and cute dimples, this tough cookie means business. She's an amazing friend with a big heart. We love you lots. Gee-son! As an initial room hopper, Michele finally found a permanent home as part of the fantastic four! She often followed the philosophy that if you sleep 12 hours a day you'll only be at this place for 2 years. "Kaity made me do it!" and "Tito tricked me!" were only some of her famous quotes. Other multi-lingual quotes include "no bueno", "jorge el

She may be small, but her fiery spirit and power lifting strength relate more to Mighty Mouse (not to be confused with the tiny ratatouille she once killed with her trap!) You can find her outdoors and hanging out with her closest friends. She loves Disney movies and dunkaroos but she'll never turn down a plain turkey sandwich! Michele's honesty and confidence will surely guide her throughout her future endeavors. Watch out big world, Gizni-san is comin'! Dirrrtay!

When you feel all alone And a loyal friend is hard to find You're caught in a one-way street With the monsters in your head When hopes and dreams are far away and You feel like you can't face the day Let me be the one you call If you jump I'll break your fall Lift you up and fly away with you into the night If you need to fall apart I can mend a broken heart If you need to crash then crash and burn You're not alone.

keep a straight face? Or keep her hot chocolatey fingers to herself... thief! Just because people can't understand her Mexican speak, doesn't mean she talks funny!! I knew she didn't really like football, sorry Tony. From San Diego to 25, from 25 to 27, our lightweight Mexi is headed for another move: beautiful Pcola to become an ethnic Tom Cruise!! Lindsay "BAMFnd" Atwood is from Texas and likes to take adventures in "hill country". She can be found watching NCIS and Smallville and day-dreaming about Sam and Dean. Even though her soul mate is Chuck Norris, she still waits for the day to meet the stars of Twilight and will always "play the game" for team Edward. Lindsay was born to be a Mathlete and may even love numbers more than vampires! She also has a great fashion sense and can always be seen wearing jeans and super sexy cowboy boots! Lindsay does what she wants, she's a Navy Pilot!

Barbara Beal

Surface Warfare (Nuclear)

Barb "Broken and Bruised" Beal is unstoppable force of nature, when she's not on crutches and in blue and golds. The color of her hair changes with the shades of her bruising; she's been a bombshell brunette, a racy redhead, or (just that one time!) a black-locked emo girl. Colors are a theme in Barb's life, as liberty attire requires at least 3 neon colors and crazy converses. Barb's weekdays consist of equal passions for boat building in her 2nd home (Rickover) and a special relationship with the Coffee Mess (free 4th shot everyday!). Lots of love SWO Mama, LM!

Alexander Bogart

Navy Intelligence

The only Polar Bear from Arizona, Bogie spent his time by the bay helping the less fortunate and trying to "cheer on" the spirit of the Brigade. He constantly worked to improve foreign relations, especially with Nelson Mandela. While some may question his "intelligence", none questioned his lats. He never made it onto the field for Navy football, but was always an "awesome" supporter. A man whose heart was only outdone by the smell of his feet, Big B always gladly shared his massive amounts of stuff with his neighbors. Bear Down Tribunus, and don't skimp on the Powerpoint!

Tyler Bristol

Submarine (Nuclear)

The midshipman formerly known as brill constantly rocked birkenstocks and shants...even in the dead of winter. His natural 'fleece' kept him warm in the tundra, but made him leave puddles wherever he stood in the summer. As an avid club/varsity/club/varsity again soccer goal keeper he had trouble beating Tills in FIFA. Truly inspired by Down Periscope and McHales Navy Tyler joined the submarine corps. He was able to run deep at Megan's house but could not manage to run silent in the plebe shaft. Cheers!

Kyle Millerd aka Mild Killer was bred for boarding. Whether it be waves or powder, this SoCal born brostradomus was always lookin for the next epic shred. He threw heat on the diamond his first three years and cracked domes on the rugby pitch 1/c year. He spoke his own language from napes to noice and spread it to all his bros. While at the academy he packed on a solid 50lbs in four years and transformed himself into a living recreation of Malibu. He was an awesome friend and a great roommate. Hey bro, we made it. I'll never forget all the crazy times. Doin work in the gym on the pitch and in McFaded. I jacked you up and you showed me how to bro out on the boards. Yapes. I'll be tearing up the skies with you bro. F that noise. We're all set. One love, Jose

As a freshman, this newbie could not be found. The rigors of academics and the loath of his roommates kept him out of the hall. As a youngster, if you were lucky, you could catch him on the grassy knoll sunbathing with only a pair of shorts on. As a trainer, 2/C Mohr yearned to train the plebes on girls, music and movies. Finally, his first class year brought him bliss and a new opportunity to get to know the poeple out in town a little better. He is looking forward to meeting the fleet as an NFO but he will be soon to tell you, that his pilot spot is soon on the horizon.

One of the most dedicated and senior wrestlers at the academy in his time, Reptar has been a staple of the Navy wrestling team since his plebe year. Posting well into double-digit numbers in the win column annually since Plebe year has taken all of his time and hard work. He is well respected and looked up to and is always sought out when his teammates need his advice...whether it be fading in and out of company area walls, pulling a Casper while evading the authorities, dealing with Stewart Little trauma or finding Nemo. He will serve admirably alongside his older brother in the Marine Corps. He is the greatest friend, roommate, and confidant anyone could have. ~Father~

Yea you right, we're talking about Latin Fire. This music video veteran is no stranger to the dance floor, the bar scene, or the basketball court. His interest in the opposite sex ranges from Saber-tooth to zoomies with several stops in between. You'll never catch this future NFO dressed in anything less than the best, with hats and sneakers in perfect combination, however, these arrangements ensure that his girls are always ready before him. He is everyone's first call when you need a friend, wing-man, drinking buddy, or just the pricey and stylish shirt off his back.

From Strong Island at first, Jim "Proll" pulled hard throughout his career. No matter the age, this veiny fellow hustled children left and right in FIFA and Wii's Super Smash Brothers. He served his time as a youngster (2 years practically), and always fell for the double-wides and free-throws. But he didn't stop there, always on the prowl for a cat to tame, until he remembered his allergies. Medusa's was worth it, the city-wides were cheap, this "dirty Chammie" ended up on top of the heap. Truly a family man, Mr. Henderson yearns to hold the future of his children in his hand. How's the list coming?

Zachary Huff

If anyone asked how I could describe Zach, I would just reply, "You never see him coming." Not once did he cease to surprise his audience with a kaleidoscope of witty parodies, uncannily executed pee-way pranks, and tactful trash talk that left you rolling on the floor and laughing too hard to ever stay mad. When once I thought I had him figured him out, he spontaneously donned a sumo wrestler's attire from strategically tucked USNA shorts and verbalized a plethora of alien star wars languages and flatulent sound effects. His athletic prowess as an accomplished cyclist, his unmatched marksmanship as Halos' Master Chief, and his riffs on the electric axe suppressed the notion that he ever had the time to premeditate any of his hilarious antics. Zach's a pleasurable creature of creativity with an apparently much softer set of features than any fourth class midshipman could have ever predicted. There are some unique creatures in this world, however, none quite compare to the anomaly that resides in Annapolis' thirtieth company. Mark Roncoroni (not to be confused with Ron Coroni, his moral enemy in life) is a six foot-three inch tall MIDN described occasionally as a big bear. Mark has an affinity for puzzles and tinkering with gizmos which he will often drag back to his lair to futz with for hours. When Mark is not stalking the halls of Bancroft he will venture out to the land of the Johnnies. Mark has swept a girl or two of their feet at community events with the Johnnies, and he prides himself in being able to swing both ways at these dances (east coast and west coast style). Mark also ventures out of Middle Land when he hopes to violently torment nonmoving targets. Yes, this pistol man can shoot nonlethal and nonmoving targets with the precision expected from a Mahoso at distances where it might be more effective to throw the pistol, rather than fire it. However, in the event that Mark is physically threatened the outcome usually involves bloodcurdling screams from his opponents. Evidently not all squids are pushovers. Mark is a loyal and protective friend. His character, his big heart, and his unique sense of humor are what his friends love best about him. He's going to take Japan by storm! -AEJ

Alana,

We're tremendously proud of you. The road you have traveled hasn't been easy. The little girl who shed only a single tear when she received a shot in the doctor's office is now a woman ready to take on life's challenges. Growing up with three teenage brothers has you well prepared.

Long live the second generation!

Love, Mom and Dad

With love and pride, Congratulations!

Go forth and light your own candle from the torches of those who came before you. Be proud, be strong and above all else, be a man of integrity.
If your actions inspire others to dream more, learn more, do more and become more,
you are indeed a leader.

Love, Mom and Dad

Cody,
We love you so much and want to be more proud of you! Congratulations!

Not likely 56 till 2011 you look good

Dear Berky,

Always set your goals high; strive to be the best you can be, and enjoy life to its fullest. You have done your homework, prepared yourself, become a leader, overcome adversity and never gave up.

Now go out and apply that knowledge along with your adventurous nature and capture your dreams...Fly Boy!!! You have developed into a tremendous young man, and we couldn't be more proud to call you our son!

Our love for you is endless.

Love,
Mom & Dad

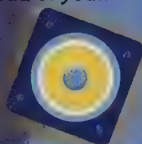

Chickalina, our dear Chick. It is so much fun to watch you make the world yours. You continue to amaze us with every accomplishment, and how easy you make it look. Don't ever change and don't ever forget how much we love you.

Marley Emilia Cassels

You always knew what you wanted and where you were going. Well, almost always--

From Columbia, Missouri to USNA, where you found you really did want to be--a school and a life you seem to have fallen in love with.
Through all the experiences of your Academy life--Plebe Summer, D & B, NASS staff, fencing, 2-for-7, yearbook and firstie duties-- you kept smiling and striving.

Now you begin a new life--an English major with a REAL job--flight school and on to pilot.
You have come a long way!

Congratulations with all our love,
Mom, Dad, & Chuck

To our son, our grandson and our brother,

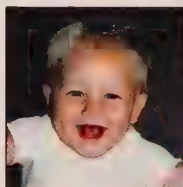

Steven, we wish you to know yourself as we, your family sees you. Your dad and I remember a small boy who used to be shy, but has turned into a young man with a commanding presence among his peers, who is funny, smart, talented, loving and respectful. You are a hero to your brother and sister, and give continuous joy to your grandparents. We all are so proud of the man you have become. Your choice to give your service, commitment and dedication as an officer in the United States Navy is truly awe inspiring.

Congratulations, Steven! We love you so much!

Our prayers will always be with you.

Love forever,

When I grow up, I want to be a military officer. I want to fight for my country. My dad was in the military. I have experience from my dad. He says Marines show a lot of respect. This job requires good leadership. The college I want to go to is (Naval Academy in) Annapolis.

This job needs a good college to go to. I think Annapolis would be the right college for me.

Malia, It seems like yesterday you were walking around the house with nothing but a stack of books under your arms. Always remember individuality is a rare thing in this day and age. Never change who you are and you will be blessed. People will love you for it. There's not much else to say except congratulations. Always know that I love you and I'm proud of you.

Love, Daniel

Congratulations on your achievements thus far Malia! Since we were little, we have done everything together. Whether it was sharing a room, playing with Barbies, dancing hula, JRDT, or playing soccer... you have always been there for me. We may not always get along but I just want you to know that I love you. You've always been more than a big sister to me, you've been my best friend. No matter what happens, I know I can always count on you to give me advice. I'm so proud of you. Whatever you decide to pursue in life, I know the Lord will continue to bless you if you let Him. "Twenty years from now you will be more disappointed by the things you didn't do than by the ones you did. So throw off the bowlines, sail away from the safe harbor, Catch the trade winds in your sails. Explore, Dream, Discover." Good luck in whatever comes your way and just remember we are just a phone call away. Congrats my nizzle, you finally did it!

Love always, Mane

"Commander" (or, as Mom likes to say, "my Mikey"),

Congratulations are in order: You "survived" four years at Navy. You've traveled to far-away places. You got your first sports car. You were accepted to Flight School (first step toward being an astronaut). The list goes on. But please know, the thing we are most proud of is that you've grown into a strong Black man and future leader with solid values and a good heart. On your graduation, we salute you and want you to know that we are honored to be your parents.

Much love,
Mom and Dad

With each flight test, the F-35 Lightning II continues to deliver unprecedented performance as the world's only international 5th generation multirole fighter. While each variant is uniquely designed to operate from different bases, all three variants - conventional, carrier and STOVL - set new standards in network-enabled mission systems, sensor fusion, supportability and maintainability.

For the first time in Naval Aviation history, radar-evading stealth technology comes to the carrier deck, bringing true multi-mission power projection capability from the sea. F-35—Redefining the multirole fighter.

YOUR STRENGTH. OUR COMMITMENT.

Failure is not an option because we serve the warfighter. Whatever we do has to work every time, all the time. That is why our Deployable Rapid Assembly Shelter (DRASH) and its supporting utilities are tested extensively at military test centers. As a result, you can depend on its quickly deployable, modular design to keep out driving rain, sweltering heat or heavy gusts of wind, in any location.

DRASH is also the most trusted and proven infrastructure deployed by the Navy and Marine Corps today. In use for more than 20 years, DRASH equipment is being deployed by all branches of the U.S. Military, U.S. Federal agencies, NATO Forces, and the armed forces of countless countries. Because we serve you, we have a moral obligation to build the best. That is our commitment. That is our strength.

Editor's Note

It has been an interesting year to be the yearbook editor. It has not always been fun, and it has not always been easy, but it has always been interesting.

From the first week of school ("What do you mean, we have three years worth of yearbooks to be distributed? And all the lost yearbooks from graduates are getting returned to the Academy?!") to the photo room door breaking four (yes, FOUR) times, there were tears, there was laughter, and there were always good intentions.

This yearbook is not perfect. I fully acknowledge that, and have two (make that three) excuses to offer. One, as I mentioned before, our photo room door was continuously broken, stranding almost all our photo equipment each time (after the first time we learned, and tried to keep more cameras out, but that is a danger all in itself..).

Two, our server crashed. After spending a month in ITSD and two more months in Washington, DC, it finally arrived back, safe and sound, but woefully set the yearbook behind and into summertime.

Lastly, I made the decision that it was more important to you, my classmates and fellow midshipmen, that this yearbook would be out on time. I understand that it is completely unfair to bog you down with 40 pounds of yearbooks in one year ("Why do these yearbooks weigh a ton?! Why did you distribute three of them in a four month period? Why can't our yearbooks ever come out on time?"). Because of that, I swore that come hell or high water (or broken doors or corrupted servers), this 2010 yearbook would be out on time.

So please, I beg you to excuse mistakes or omissions and instead think, "Gee....I'm glad I didn't have to wait 4 years to get this yearbook."

In parting words, I'd like to thank those who made this yearbook possible:

- The Lucky Bag 2010 Staff
- Julia Jordan and Nicole Hammond (Taylor Publishing)
- CDR John Freymann, O-Rep
- Ellen Sherman and the MWF Office (for both support and writing the oh-so-important checks..)
- Phil Hoffmann, varsity sport photographer
- Jim Rainey
- My roommates, DS and MB ("I HATE THIS YEARBOOK!" "Calm down, Marley..")
- To my parents (for the same as above, minus any profanity)

Lastly, on behalf of the Class of 2010, I'd like to thank the Class of 1960, our Link in the Chain, for supporting us during our four years at the Academy and beyond. They served as mentors and motivators when the times were tough. The photos in this book from 1910 and 1960 are an attempt to thank those who have gone before us and remember that graduating from the Naval Academy will forever link us to each other and those midshipmen of the past, present, and future.

I hope you are able to look back in 50 years and have fond memories of 2010, brought back by the pictures and events in this book.

Fair Winds and Following Seas,

Colophon

The 2010 edition of The Luckybag was published by Taylor Publishing Company in Dallas, TX and created using Adobe InDesign, and Photoshop, with TaylorTool plug-ins. The 9 x 12, 592 page, hard bound book was printed on 100# enamel, white paper. The staff-designed cover used silkscreen Copper 913 and Blue 860 as accents in a Lithocote lamination. Smyth binding, white headbands and Royal Fiber Cream endsheets bind the volume together. 4510 copies of the book were published.

The book could not have come to fruition without the help of many staff members and contributors. Among them:
